BASEBALL
 Last week a bunch of ambitious young gentlemen from Waterford, with an inclination to play baseball, visited Tignish, where they participated in a game, which ended rather disastrously for the visitors. The Tignish team worked well and succeeded in piling up home runs in spite of the worthy efforts, verbal and otherwise, of Slevey, Shea, and Kenny, who seemed to be the "strong men" of the team. The line-ups were as follows:—

KENSINGTON COURT CASES—Last week was rather a busy one in Magistrate Hugh Morrison's Court. On Monday, a party from Freetown was fined $10.00 and costs for assault on an elderly citizen of the town, and $25.00 and costs for disturbing the serenity of the Sabbath, by the use of boisterous and vilifying language.—K.

RECKLESS DRIVERS FINED—On Wednesday morning, parties from Charlottetown were before the court for reckless driving of a motor car on the Malpeque Road near Malpeque Corner, and assaulting mail driver George Hiltz, when he procured the number of their car. A fine of fifty dollars and costs was imposed, with gentle admonishment concerning rights and rules of the road and the evils of reckless driving of cars without regards to the rights of others.—K.

MOTOR CARS AT NEW ANNAN—It has been deemed advisable in the best interests of racing and for the good of the greater number to keep the centre ground absolutely clear of cars. It will give the spectators (especially on the grand stand) a far better chance to watch the racing closely besides eliminating the ever present danger of collision by cars crossing the track with race horses warming up or actually racing. There is ample room (11 acres) of good green sward for free parking of cars on the north and west side of the track and if patrons will kindly cooperate by parking their cars close together in rows there will be room for 1000 cars. There is also another field owned by Mr. Ben Pillman on the north side of the New Annan road, which will park 200 cars. Owners will please lock cars, the management will not assume responsibility for articles alleged as lost or stolen.

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC—On Wednesday, 23rd inst, the annual picnic in aid of St. Simon and St. Jude's Church, Tignish, was held on the grounds adjoining the church and school. The beautiful weather was in itself an invitation to come out, so to Tignish the crowd came, where they enjoyed good sociability, good music and a splendid lay-out of eats. The Miscoche Band, which was in attendance, provided excellent music throughout the day and helped greatly to keep the crowd around. The winners of the lotteries are: C. W. L. Cake, won by Mrs. E. J. DeRoche; Gold Coin, donated by Dr. Johnston, won by Arthur Bernard; Mutual Society Cake, won by Mrs. Sylvan Gaudet; Ship model, donated by Peter M. Chalmers, won by Cyril Gaudet; Box of Chocolates, donated by Mr. G. A. Shelton, won by M. N. S. Mooney; Guessing Contest, donated by Morris Bernard, won by Mr. Henry Gallant; Special gold coin, won by Mr. Alex McDonald. Total receipts of the day amounted to $2,175.—T.

CROWDS ATTEND THE ST. ANNE'S CELEBRATION AT LENOX ISLAND ON SUNDAY—Sunday being unusually fine and warm, a record crowd from all parts of the Province attended the celebration of St. Anne's on Lenox Island on Sunday. The Church and grounds were decked with flowers for the occasion, this annual event being a gala day for the Mic-Macs, who were busy for some time previously, preparing for the many visitors. The pastor, Rev. John A. McDonald, extended a hearty welcome to the visitors and gave a short address. The solemn High Mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock by Rev. Father McKenzie, of St. Dunstan's University, with all the splendid Ritual of the Roman Catholic Church. The attendance was so large that many could not gain admittance to the Church. Rev. Dr. Gillis of Charlottetown assisted the choir and Mr. L. B. Gallant, of Summerside, officiated at the organ; also assisting in the choir were members of the Summerside and Grand River choirs. Rev. Father Sinnott, of Rollo Bay, preached an eloquent and impressive sermon appropriate for the day, which, owing to the large crowds, he delivered outside in the church grounds. Among the priests present from other parishes were Rev. Ronald McDonald, of East Point; Rev. Father Francis, of St. Dunstan's University, and Rev. William McCabe, of The Bras. After the religious ceremonies were over for the day, refreshments were served and the visitors were shown over the Island. The management, who arranged for the entertainment and comfort of the LIVERPOOL, July 28—After a night of ceaseless vigilance, with hundreds of police patrolling the streets and ambulances parked for emergencies, fighting between Catholics and Protestants in the Netherlands Road area was resumed today. The religious partisans stormed a police court, where several persons arrested in yesterday's disturbances were being brought before a magistrate and held for trial. Outside the Court building a huge crowd gathered and divided into two factions which boomed and shouted at each other when the prisoners appeared. The trouble started at the doors of the court room where women took the initiative, jostling the crowd, screaming and refusing to be quieted. The fighting had been so fierce yesterday that the authorities had an ample force of officers on hand to prevent development of serious rioting today.

Police guarded three Roman Catholic churches in Liverpool after the riot, in which at least nine persons were injured yesterday. Crowds of shouting citizens gathered before a Catholic seminary in a Protestant section here last night when a false rumor was circulated that Rev. Dr. Richard Downey, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Liverpool, planned to visit the school. Police reserves were called to preserve order, but when they arrived the crowd became threatening and the police charged them several times, wielding their night sticks.

"Out Of Office In Six Months"

(Special to the Guardian)

BRIGHOUSE, Yorkshire, England, July 26—The furnishing of assurance to the Dominions that Britain would not remove the trade preferences in effect and establishment of an imperial body to consider economic and industrial issues, were advocated by Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative Leader, in a speech here yesterday. He predicted that the MacDonald Government would be out of office within six months. Business and countries were grouping themselves more and more into great units, Mr. Baldwin said; above all there was that great unit, the United States of America. The great unit I have in mind is the unit of our own Empire, Mr. Baldwin continued, that unit is not going to come into being without a great deal of hard work and hard thinking, not only in this country, but in every Dominion. Two things must be done quickly and should be done at the Imperial Conference, he continued. First there should be assurance to the Dominions, that under no circumstances whatever would the preferences that already exist within the limits of our own fiscal system be removed. Secondly, we want to set up without delay a body composed of representatives of each Dominion and the Mother Country to sit permanently at the expense of the Dominions and the Mother Country to be always working day in and day out at those economic and industrial problems that are interrelated between the Dominions and the Mother Country. As a self contained unit the Empire should be made so that it might speak with a united voice and the authority of one Empire to the nations of the world.

MONKS HOLD SECRET WITH WHICH ARMIES MIGHT FIND PASSES

NEW YORK, July 28—(By Canadian Press)—The recent unsuccessful siege of mighty Mount Kanchenjunga is the cause of smiles among a group of Holy Llamas who have in their possession, according to an Indian Government source, a sacred book in which an account is given of five paths which make the conquest of the 28,150-foot peak comparatively easy. The cherished volume is said to be preserved by the Buddhist priests in the secret archives of the Talung monastery in Central Sikkim—a region to which few Europeans have penetrated. The eyes of no European have ever dwelt upon the mysteries of the holy book so far as is known, C. L. Remington, resident manager here of the Indian State Railways, said revealing the unusual information which has come to him from an Indian Government bureau. The book, which is called "Nayik", is kept under lock and key in the Talung monastery together with relics of former Kings and Holy Llamas and deeply sacred objects.

Permission to visit the region in which the monastery is located in the mountains fastness of Central Sikkim is rarely granted to a European by the Maharajah who rules the country. As to studying the cherished volume of the priests, Mr. Remington pointed out that the fact that no European has ever been allowed to do so shows how difficult it is not impossible, the fulfillment of that desire is.

The Llamas assert, it is reported that the angry Kanchenjunga—regarded by many mountain climbers as the most difficult peak to conquer—has actually been ascended by native climbers in the past. No dates, names or places of such an exploit, however, are given. The Buddhist priests further say that access to each of the five "easy" paths to the top of Mount Kanchenjunga is gained by a gate. This gate is said to be made of stone and the Holy men maintain that each gate has a key, hidden near by.

Although pointing out that the story of the existence of the mysterious sacred volume which is supposed to make conquest of the mountain which has successfully defied the most thorough expeditions of European scientists is probably a mixture of legend and fact, the Indian report contends that there is an excellent likelihood that the Llama priests have in their possession knowledge which would prove of great value to European mountain climbers.

At least one fact which leads to serious consideration of the story is that Kanchenjunga literally translated in the Tibetan language means: "The five treasures of the glaciers". These five treasures, the priests say, are the five gates in their story.

Mount Kanchenjunga, at the hilltop of the country, is a symbol of religion. The snow-capped work of nature with its mighty glaciers weighing millions of tons, is reversed as a mighty god holding in its power the destinies of human beings. It is because of this religious aspect of the mountain in the eyes of natives that the failure of the recent expedition to Mount Kanchenjunga is no surprise to the Llama priests.

Conquest of the mountain is hopeless, unless the attempt is preceded by a long period of proper worship of the grim peaks and wine offerings are made to the "gods of the peaks", according to the Buddhists. Worship played no part in the recent Kanchenjunga expedition. Hence, it was a failure. So contend the Llamas.

A serious campaign to win the favor of these priests, with the observance of the rigid routine prescribed by them, would be necessary to gain access to the sacred volume.

Stock Letter

NEW YORK, July 28—The rally in the last part of Friday's session carried somewhat further Saturday with moderate gains pretty general throughout the list. U. S. Steel was particularly strong as was Sons Gas of N. Y., among the utilities. The market is again approaching the previous resuscitation points from where it has twice reacted before, though the second time on a more moderate scale than the first. This point is becoming of increasing interest. If the market does not carry through the third time, disappointed selling may cause a more severe reaction than the previous one. If however, the reaction does not carry as far as the previous one it will strongly suggest the possibility of the market carrying through on the next attempt.

LADLAW AND CO.
 Wall Street Mirror says—
NEW YORK, July 28—A picking up in the volume of trading and better prices will be seen in the market this week. Several reports of particular interest are due to be made public this week the main one being that of the steel corporation which will be issued after the close of business tomorrow. What is sought now more than anything else in the business world and the general markets, is a period of stabilization. The belief in good quarters is that the depression has flattened out and that the next movement will be an upward swing. The stock market which has always been looked upon as something which discounted good or bad news before it really developed has had an upward movement which those close to the situation declare is forecasting better business later in the year. At any rate the line of least resistance in stock prices for practically the past month has been upward. This forward movement has not been completed and once again it is advised that stocks be bought on days of weakness for better prices later on.

A new group is operating in Commercial Solvents predicting much better prices for the stock.

Some selling is likely to be seen in Elec Auto Light because earnings are not likely to come up to expectation.

Corn Prods is another of the companies which has done much better the first half of this year than was expected. The stock has been well bought right along.

Wall Street is very much interested in a story that General Motors intends to change its operations to allow for the manufacture of only four cars—Cadillac, 16 cylinder, LaSalle 12 cylinder, Buick 8 cylinder and Chevrolet 6 cylinder. This would mean scrapping of several models but would also mean the concentration of a few cars rather than twice the number mentioned.
