Helicopter Lands on Truck With 5 1/2 Inches to Spare

BRINGING ANXIOUSLY, with blocks ready in hands in case of accident, are two men waiting for a helicopter to land on the top of a truck, but the men (on either side of the truck) need not have worried—the 'copter made it safely, even though it had only 5 1/2 inches to spare all round. The demonstration, held at Northampton, England, was to prove the maneuverability of a new British helicopter, the Cierva Skeeter, and the pilot, looking at the 5 1/2 inches, thought he'd given ample proof.

Mr. Charles Dignan of Cleveland, Ohio, is a guest of his cousin, Mr. George Key and Mrs. Key in Summerside. Mr. Dignan, who was born in the western part of the province, and is now eighty-one years of age has not missed one Summer in the past seven years in visiting Summerside.-S.

Government and trade unions have been seriously embarrassed. The dispute is likely to leave a legacy of important problems for discussion, touching on the fundamental relationship of the trade union movement to the Labor Government.

OTTAWA, July 22—(CP)—Canada's atomic scientists believe they can't be too careful in handling radio-active substances. A Government expert said today every possible precaution is being taken at the Chalk River basic research plant, 125 miles north of Ottawa, to protect personnel and people living in the area.

He spoke particularly of the burying ground for substances used at Chalk River which must be removed because they may be dangerously radio-active. The burying ground is well away from people. It is surrounded by wire fence and guarded.

The men that handle the job of burying atomic wastes are experts. Unless improved methods are found of decontaminating materials which have become radioactive, the burying ground will remain contaminated for years.

Every person working in the plant is provided with a number of ways of discovering whether he is being affected by radio-activity. Inside the plant any equipment that is highly radio-active is protected, usually by lead or concrete.

On Tuesday, July 19, a large gathering of Milton Junior Farmers and other adult guests enjoyed several films which were shown by Mrs. Morris Deacon, Fieldman, Department of Agriculture. Following this, Mr. Garth Hooper, President of Milton Junior Farmers conducted a short business meeting.

A judging class, Monday, July 18th, of mature Holstein cattle was held at the home of Aubrey and Bernard Doucette members of the Acedian Calf Club. The attendance ducted the class in the evening.

LONDON DOCK

Government and trade unions have been seriously embarrassed. The dispute is likely to leave a legacy of important problems for discussion, touching on the fundamental relationship of the trade union movement to the Labor Government.

(The C. S. U., in a telegram to Canadian officials at Ottawa, said the ending of the London strike "must not be construed that the C. S. U. strike (against Canadian deep sea fishing) does not go on."

The Union said it had received assurances from west coast dockers in the United States and from the World Federation of Trade Unions that they will not work on Canadian ships blacklisted by the C.S.U.)

Even before the mass meeting, signs had appeared that the strike was breaking up.

The dock workers adopted a resolution demanding the resignation of Lord Ammon as chairman of the National Dock Labor Board. Last night Lord Ammon was fired by Prime Minister Attlee from his ministerial post in the House of Lords as Government whip.

The 76-year-old peer incurred the Cabinet's ire when he said it had "gone crazy" after it repudiated his "get tough" ultimatum to the dockers.

Council with a Commonwealth combined staff and standardization of equipment.

Domestic Affairs On domestic affairs the statement said that if the Conservatives won there would be an overhauling of the Coal Board, which operates the nationalized mines, and the Government bodies of other industries under state control.

The Labor Government's five-year term expires July 26, 1950. The election is expected to be held in May or June, but the date has not yet been set.

The platform also carried an answer to the Labor Party's repeated threats to curb the powers of the House of Lords. A bill in the House of Commons, due to become law in December, cuts from two years to one year the time the Lords may delay enactment of a bill. The Conservatives proposed reform of the House of Lords so that persons other than those holding hereditary titles may be members.

The Conservatives promised to recognize both Scotland and Wales as separate entities, with authority over local affairs, though tied to England economically. The Labor Party has sought support in Scotland and Wales by discussing various "home rule" plans.

The statement's foreign affairs section pledged the Conservatives to "restore our own greatness and give courage and confidence to a bewildered world."

The statement presented again the suggestions for a new Commonwealth tribunal to consider intra-Commonwealth disputes and a British Commonwealth Defence formation from the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington.

At Chalk River Canada's reactor is located at Chalk River, Ont. It is a "research reactor" designed to produce isotopes (radio-active materials) for research and also to test the action of atomic radiations on various materials.

It's a faster-working reactor than those produced in the United States.

No information was available as to how Canada's reactor compares with American reactors in size. The size of reactors in the United States has not been disclosed.

The Canadian reactor employs "heavy water" as a moderator to promote the action of the neutrons generated in the pile. This is the same moderator employed in the American reactor at Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago.

In Fuel Field Discussing latest United States plans in the field of reactions designed to seek propulsion for sea and aircraft, electrical power and practical use, and the "breeding" of precious atomic fuels—Hafstad said:

"Of course, the nation has had reactors of various kinds from the beginning of its atomic energy program. A series of reactors was built during the war culminating in the crude single-purpose production reactors at Hanford."

"The next phase in the historic development of reactors calls for designing and constructing of reactors which are larger, more complicated, and more difficult to build than any we have produced thus far."

"As in any new technical development, there are many uncertainties and many risks involved. It is here that the experts disagree on details of designs of reactors which will do the jobs that need to be done."

"Largely, for this reason, in the four years since the end of the war, no really new or greatly improved versions of reactors have been built in this country. The reactor of the most advanced design and performance is in Canada."

R.C.A.F. Blue Sox Win From Red Sox 12 to 6

The R.C.A.F. Blue Sox defeated the rival Airforce team, the Red Sox, in a regular Town League baseball fixture at the High School diamond last evening by the score of 12 to 6. The game was loosely played, and although some good plays were in evidence some very sloppy baseball was also displayed.

Thurmeier, starting pitcher for the Red Sox, disposed of the Blue Hoes without any trouble in the initial frame, but met with a barrage of base hits in the second session, and the onslaught being continued in the third, he was forced to give way to Lowery after seven runs had scored. Lowery got through the remainder of the third, and the fourth without mishap but in the fifth the bats of the Blue Sox began to boom again and five more counters were chalked up before McCulloch came to Lowery's relief with two out in that frame and retired the last man.

Robertson, starting pitcher for the Blue Sox, though inclined to be wild at times, allowed only two hits in four innings. These bingles coming in the first inning together with a hit batsman and an error, accounted for two runs, and the Red Sox got two more in the third on two walks and another hit batsman. The losers scored their two remaining tallies off Caloren, who took Robertson's place on the mound in the fifth inning.

Hume and Walters, Blue Sox catcher and left fielder respectively, each had three safe hits in three appearances at the plate. MacKenzie, first sacker on the winning line-up, hit two for three.

was reduced by the rain but in spite of this a successful class was held just within the large barn doors. There are members who still have not calves for this year, but are carrying on with their yearlings.

In the afternoon most of the members calves were viewed by Mr. Morris Deacon, Fieldman, Department of Agriculture. He also conducted the class in the evening.
