THE FATTENING OF CATTLE.

From Prof. Robertson's Report for 1897.

Experimental tests in the fattening of steers were commenced at the Central Experimental Farm in December, 1890. The main object of the experiments was to obtain information on the comparative cost of fattening steers:—

- (1.) Upon a ration of which the bulky-fodder portion was mainly corn ensilage, hay and roots;
(2.) Upon a ration of which the bulky-fodder portion was mainly hay and roots; and
(3.) Upon a ration of which the bulky-fodder portion was mainly corn ensilage.

For the purpose of arranging such data as would be obtained from the tests in a manner which would be clear to the farmers and useful to them in making a comparison between the cost of feeding steers on the three different classes of rations, a cash value was estimated for the component fodders in each.

The following is a summary of the results from the feeding tests for three years with two-year-old steers.

From the tests of 1890-91 it appears that:—

- (1.) During the feeding period of 20 weeks, the steers which were fed upon ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal), gained in weight, on the average, thirty-three pounds per head more, and cost 7.33 cents per head less, per day for feed consumed, than the steers which were fed upon ration No. 2 (hays roots, straw and meal.)
(2.) During the feeding period of twenty weeks, the steers which were fed upon ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal,) gained in weight, on the average, sixty-one and a half pounds per head more, and cost 3.68 cents per head less, per day for feed consumed, than the steers which were fed, upon ration No. 1 (hay, roots, corn ensilage, straw and meal.)
(3.) When the experiment was ended, the steers which were fed upon ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal) were in the most attractive condition of the three lots for handling and selling.

From the tests in 1891-92 it appears that:—

- (1.) During the feeding period of eighteen weeks, the steers which were fed upon ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal), gained in weight on the average fifty-five and a half pounds per head more, and cost 3.75 cents per head less, per day for feed consumed, than the steers which were fed upon ration No. 2 (hay, roots, straw and meal.)
(2.) During the feeding period of eighteen weeks, the steers which were fed upon ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal,) gained in weight on the average thirty-six pounds per head more, and cost 3.81 cents per head less, per day for feed consumed, than the steers which were fed upon ration No. 1 (hay, roots, corn ensilage, straw and meal.)
(3.) The cost of feed consumed per 100 lbs. of increase in live weight, was 62.95 per cent greater on ration No. 2 (hay, roots, straw and meal.) and 48.32 per cent greater on ration No. 1 (hay, roots, corn ensilage, straw and meal) than it was on ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal.)

Conclusions. From the tests in 1892-93 it appears that:—

- (1.) During the feeding period of twenty-four weeks, the steers which were fed upon ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal) gained in weight on the average nineteen pounds per head more, and cost 5.06 cents per head less, per day for feed consumed, than the steers which were fed upon ration No. 2 (hay, roots, straw and meal);
(2.) The cost for feed consumed per 100 lbs. of increase in live weight, was 66.34 per cent greater on ration No. 2 (hay, roots, straw and meal) than it was on ration No. 3 (corn, ensilage, straw and meal).

Conclusions. From these tests for three years with two-year old steers it appears that:—

- (1.) On the average the steers which were fed on ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal) gained in weight on the average of 35.8 pounds per head more, and cost 5.33 cents less per head per day for feed consumed, than the steers which were fed upon ration No. 2 (hay, roots, straw and meal.)
(2.) On the average of two years, the cost of feed consumed per 100 pounds of increase in live weight, was 64.64 per cent greater on ration No. 2 (hay, roots, straw and meal) than it was on ration No. 3 (corn ensilage, straw and meal)—From Prof. Robertson's Report.

Choice Recipes

Peel onions under water if you do not want to cry. If the eye of a potato is small the potato is of good quality.

It improves chocolate to add a teaspoonful of strong coffee just before serving.

Never cook a vegetable after it is done. It detracts from the flavor. A very small piece of soda in the water, if it is hard, improves the flavor of vegetables.

A spinach omelet is not a common dish, and is an appetizing combination of eggs and the vegetable. The spinach is boiled, drained and chopped, then seasoned well and sauted in a little butter. When the omelet is set the spinach is added, before it is folded over and browned. When a good proportion of the spinach is liked, the whole surface of the omelet is covered, and the compound turned out on a hot chop platter and browned, egg uppermost.

ONION SOUP.

Chop six onions into fine pieces and fry them in a large saucapan with two ounces of butter or dripping-fat, stirring continually to prevent it burning. Add six ounces of flour, three quarts of water, pepper and salt, and cook 30 minutes. When done pour it into a tureen containing slices of bread.

SOFT COOKIES.

To one coffee cupful of butter allow three of sugar, one of cream and four eggs. Mix the butter and sugar before adding the eggs and cream. Mix a teaspoonful of soda in a pint of pint of sifted flour, mixed with the other ingredients to form a stiff dough to be rolled out, cut into squares and bake in a slow oven. Caraway seed may be added if desired.

BAKED BEEF AND POTATOES.

Select whatever cheap piece of meat you may desire, sprinkle it with salt, pepper and flour and place it upon a small iron trivet in a baking pan with peeled potatoes and about a half pint of water. It must be turned over on the trivet every 20 minutes and basted thoroughly with the fat which runs into the dish.

TO ESCALLOP POTATOES.

Beat boiled potatoes to a fine pulp and mix them with cream, a large piece of butter and a little salt. Put them into escallop shells, smooth them on top score with a knife and lay thin slices of butter on top. Put them into the oven to brown and serve hot.

READ THE PROOF!

GENTLEMEN,—I have for a long time needed something to make blood and build up my system. My blood was watery and thin, lacking strength and vitality. Last January a friend said:—"Why not try Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills? They will supply the oxygen your blood needs and give you health and strength." I told him I was very skeptical as to any benefit that could be derived from any proprietary medicine and had no faith in them. There the matter rested until four months ago, when reading so much about what Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done for so many people with impoverished blood, I concluded to give them a trial. I have taken four boxes and my unbelief so far as Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are concerned has been entirely removed. They are a splendid blood builder and strength restorer, and an invaluable medicine for weak, enervated people. This has been my experience, they having given me strength of body and strong healthy blood.
