

Roosevelt's Visit would Make history.

OTTAWA, April 22.—(CP)—Should President Roosevelt achieve his hope of visiting Ottawa next month? It will be the first occasion on which a United States President has visited the capital while in office.

Specific plans have yet to be announced, but it is known the President would certainly be asked to attend and address a joint sitting of the House of Commons and Senate if he visits while Parliament is in session.

News of the proposed visit, announced yesterday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, aroused the keenest interest here. Already many requests for reservations have reached local hotels for the period May 10 to 15, tentatively set for the presidential visit.

No information was available here as to whether Mrs. Roosevelt planned to accompany the President on his proposed visit to Ottawa, but officials said tonight the pleasure of the government would be that much greater if she came.

It is expected arrangements will be made to have the President visit the House of Commons, the Senate on the floor of the chamber, and deliver an address there.

The last man who was not a member to speak from the floor of the House was Rt. Hon. James W. Lowther, former Speaker of the British House of Commons, when, as president of the Empire Parliamentary Association, he presented the Speaker's chair to the Canadian House of Commons, May 20, 1921.

Should the President make the visit, he would in all probability stay overnight at Rideau Hall, the residence of the Governor-General and Princess Alice, and might spend one night at Kingsmere, the Prime Minister's country home in the Gatineau Hills.

On his visit to the Parliament Buildings, the President would see the Memorial Tower and, as is customary in such cases, there would be a state dinner at Rideau Hall for the President.

It was thought likely that the President would dine with the Prime Minister at Laurier House or Kingsmere.

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT" FIRST THING EVERY MORNING

St. George's Day At West Kent

West Kent school pupils assembled in their hall, Tuesday morning to honor St. George, the patron Saint of England and also to pay tribute to the gallant struggle at present being waged by England against tyranny.

The pupils sang patriotic choruses including, "Land of Hope and Glory, There'll Always be an England, and Rule Britannia. An address on St. George by Capt. N. W. Lowther featu ed the program.

Capt. Lowther gave an account of the deeds of St. George, and reminded the student that most of these tales are legendary. The principal thought was that St. George died a martyr in the cause of liberty and, for this reason, England has adopted St. George as a symbol of her ideals.

Capt. Lowther closed his stirring address with the following prayer for England which he hoped that the pupils would practice.

Tonight and every night God Save England!
Tonight and every night While fires are still a light Where roaring skies rain death So long as men have breath For all free men to fight— God Save England!
God Save the Right!

French-Canadian Attitude Appreciated By Lord Halifax

(By J. U. Gauthier, St. Lambert, Quebec)

The words that follow are a message which I feel it is my duty to communicate to my Canadian countrymen. — English and French. I wish to point out to them the great honor which was bestowed upon them in my humble person through Lord Halifax at present Ambassador of Great Britain to the United States.

AT LORD HALIFAX'S Recently His Excellency has been kind enough to receive me with a kindness and generosity which has deeply touched me. Lord Halifax unofficial invitation will have results.

LADY HALIFAX SHARES SENTIMENTS OF THE ENGLISH AMBASSADOR

Lady Halifax shares the sentiments of her distinguished husband towards us and knows how to translate in turn in the most amiable fashion the feeling which were held and revealed by our gracious Sovereign, the Queen of England, when she visited Canada.

I took advantage of the opportunity to express to their Excellencies the sincere admiration that we have for them and the Royal Authority which they represent towards evidently wished to give proof of his extreme interest in regards to the whole of Canada, and, but also particularly with regards to the French-Canadian minority which I represented on the occasion of the moment.

I confess that I was very strongly impressed, at the outset, — furthermore, in an agreeable manner — by the distinguished silhouette, elegant and very sweet, of this marvellous person, Lord Halifax. He is very tall, so tall that a Parisian Revue pictured him recently as "taller than the tallest guard of the King of England". And, if one could have written of him that he was in his country the best dressed man amongst the English, he appears to me in the United States to be the best dressed man of all Americans.

MORAL CHARACTER OF MY DISTINGUISHED HOST

True Englishman, of real origin, Lord Halifax carries with him undeniable proof of the most personal characteristics as well as the best of his nationality. This man, who just assisted in the United States like Mr. Churchill in England, a part of the heaviest responsibilities in international politics and in the extremely complex evolution of the actual war, showed, at the very outset of our interview, a clear intellect, sure of itself, entirely aware of all the problems of actuality, of an ardor in going straight to the point of a firm soul, courageous, able to blend the nuances of the most attentive emotion to the irresistible statements of a man of great authority.

It is known that he won, in his country the confidence of the people as well as of the aristocracy. France, in the United States, as well as the most fortunate ones, the sympathy of the Catholics as well as that of the Protestants.

LORD HALIFAX AND THE FRENCH CANADIANS

Therefore, His Majesty the King of England could not select more dignified a person to represent him in the United States, perhaps with the anticipated hope that Lord Halifax's field of influence would extend beyond the American borders and would be felt no doubt, but effective even by the Canadian people.

That is why I must underscore, in a special manner, the kind words that His Excellency has been nice enough to address to me and of the generous sympathy which he has manifested towards our Canadian-French population. Encouraged by so many of his delicate attentions I did not hesitate to post the Ambassador of Great Britain with our generous and heroic war efforts, especially in view of the fact that our Canadian families are incomparably more numerous and our population more restricted, the proportion of our volunteers and the accrued taxes so much heavier to carry are proof in a tangible manner of our substantial sincerity and of our loyalty towards the English cause.

In the same interview which His Lordship granted me, I made the invitation and expressed desire that his Lordship should visit Canada, and get a true idea of our real sentiments and devotedness towards the British Royalty and British Commonwealth. I sincerely hope my

GOD ALONE FINAL MASTER OF VICTORY

After all in spite of the state of war actually existing, humanity is the only consideration here and humanity in the Christian sense of the word.

The French Canadians, like Your Excellency, I took the liberty to point out to Lord Halifax, — are deeply Christians and with you they think that if the world suffers in spite of the unbelievable atrocities, and we are sure of this to the belligerents, who — through and ties and universal hatred, — will in spite of the unbelievable atrocities, have found ways and means, to charity, as soon as circumstances maintain a few sentiments of permit it.

Deanna Durbin, 19, who spent her childhood earning $1,000,000 in the movies, escaped from her wedding reception in a shower of rice early April 19 and went on her honeymoon with Vaughn Paul, 25, the only boy friend she ever had. They were married April 18, at Hollywood, Calif., in the Willshire Methodist church, while 6,000 stood silently and 900 friends wished Deanna well within. The blue-eyed bride was what society reporters call "radiant" in an ivory satin gown and a tulle which trailed to the floor. Paul, the second assistant director for Deanna's first picture, when she was 14, looked scared when he joined her before the white-haired minister, Dr. Willis Martin.

Stresses Island Tourist Charms In Boston Speech

An address on Prince Edward Island was given on Easter Monday, April 14, by Mr. Joseph A. Bernard, Tignish, at a meeting of the Canadian-American League, Inc., in Boston. Upwards of 2,000 former Prince Edward Islanders were present. A Boston paper refers to Mr. Bernard as "a probable appointee to the Senate of Canada" and a cousin of Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Minister of Naval Defense in the Dominion Government. Following is the text of Mr. Bernard's address:

"I am deeply grateful for the invitation to speak to you at this gathering of friends because I feel that you are all former Canadians and because I know that there exists in all of you that public patriotic spirit, that love of country which exemplifies all that is good, strong and noble, and which always exerts itself whenever the occasion demands or requires it.

"To this great country of the United States separated from us by only an imaginary line, where no guns or cannon prohibit free intercourse of our people, we owe an immense debt of gratitude, and I feel it because you Americans have taken to your bosom in your many industrial centres untold thousands of our people, whole families and households born throughout Canada but chiefly in the Maritime Provinces have moved across the border and into these United States, and here, I am very happy to say, have found remunerative employment, erected homes, brought up their children, and on such occasions there is nothing better or more healthful and refreshing than a trip to 'The Island'. It is nature's remedy which will rebuild the nerve cells because it is a quiet, fascinating and friendly place, and the visitor can escape the noise and bustle of city life and have his wasted energies restored. You are WELCOME to P. E. Island. The LATCH-STRING is always on the outside to our visiting friends. Our hospitality to visitors has become a patriotic duty which will help our byword. We have many comfortable overnight cabins and large private homes where the finest of fresh fruits, fish and vegetables are available, and we have some of the very finest hotels to be found anywhere, whose charges are most reasonable.

"Prince Edward Island is Canada's Garden Province. Every Wednesday in June, July and August is a half holiday. There is good offshore cod fishing, lobsters are plentiful in the two open seasons, while clam digging may be enjoyed by everybody at hundreds of beaches all over the Province. Our famous Malpeque Oysters are known the world over for their distinctive flavor. It is the home of the silver fox industry and let us not forget that the P.E.I. 'spuds' actually bring a premium on the New England markets. There are many long uncrowded beaches where visiting parties may enjoy themselves without fear of interruption and where sun, wind and the red sand build healthy bodies and create contentment.

"Your United States dollars bring a premium in Canada and therefore your vacation funds are

New Greek Gov't formed

ATHENS, April 22.—(AP)—Admiral Alexander Sakellariou, a navy career man, tonight formed a half-military, half-civilian cabinet with King George II as premier.

The admiral took the post of vice-premier.

The cabinet was reduced from 20 posts to 10.

The new cabinet met immediately after taking the oath.

The 56-year-old Premier, less than three months in office, shot himself at his home.

worth more and will give you additional pleasure. There are no bothersome details necessary to enter military zones. Tourist traffic flows as freely across the border as ever even though there is a war on.

"You may bring your auto, personal effects and whatever you may feel is necessary for your trip without paying any duty on them. In addition you may also bring in the value of $100 without paying any duty on it. You do not need a passport and you are not subjected to any more questioning at the border than before the war began. Besides these things there is the knowledge that when you are visiting Canada, you are doing a patriotic duty which will help our war effort, because every dollar of American cash spent in Canada is eventually used by our Finance Board to purchase war material in the United States. Therefore come to Canada on your holidays and when in Canada don't forget to visit our million acre farm, Prince Edward Island, The Garden of the Gulf."
