CANADA'S UNSOLVED MYSTERIES

(By Thomas Green)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
(Copyright, 1934, by The Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Conspicuous in Ontario's crime annals, the trunk murder mystery of Abe Rubenstein, young Brooklyn, N. Y., bookmaker's clerk, has remained unsolved for 21 years.

But in the records of "wanted men" in the police archives of two countries is a description of a stranger whom detectives have never been able to trace. He seemed to have dropped off the earth around Montreal, an Ottawa police official said recently. An early morning quarrel over a woman in a vacant lot at the rear of a downtown theatre, since demolished, was the motive for the crime, the authorities believe.

Flush with his winnings in an hotel room poker party with race track friends, Rubenstein pushed his chair from the gambling table at midnight Aug. 28, 1913, announcing he had to meet a lady friend. Two hours later he was seen on Queen Street, west of Bank, in the central part of Ottawa, in the company of two women. Two days later the body was found under a pile of coke in the cellar of an unused store nine blocks distant from where he had been last seen alive. Close by was a blood spattered trunk.

The police spread their dragnet. Provincial and private detectives were called in. The search for clues extended to various race tracks in Canada and the United States.

In Montreal, two men and two women were arrested as material witnesses. In Hamilton, the members of a vaudeville troupe were also detained. All were brought back to Ottawa to be examined and cross-examined. They testified at the inquest, but threw little light on the crime.

Piecing together the evidence, authorities reached the conclusion Rubenstein kept his rendezvous with his female acquaintance. He was seen walking up Queen Street with two women companions, followed by a man. An argument was heard near the vacant lot a few minutes afterwards. An hour later, a rig was rented from a liveryman "to convey a trunk" he was told by a stranger customer. In the early hours of morning, two negroes were seen carrying a trunk in the direction of the vacant store where the body was discovered later.

Examination showed Rubenstein had been struck on the head.

Lanny Ross—Chas. Ruggles—Mary Boland At Capitol In "Melody In Spring"

An excellent mixture of comedy, together for the fourth time, provide more laughs than ever, while "Melody in Spring" came to the screen of the Capitol Theatre yesterday, to present to patrons that reliable team of Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland, a new romantic singing personality, Lanny Ross, and the beautiful Ann Southern.

Paramount, impressed with the tremendous popularity of Bing Crosby whom it plucked from the air waves, stepped out a few months ago to take Lanny Ross from the "Showboat" hour, and seems to have hit upon another great star. Ross is young, handsome, and performs remarkably well for his first screen venture. He is a splendid singer, with a full, rich tenor voice. Ruggles and Miss Boland, teamed

Heiress To Millions Ward Of New York Supreme Court

By Francis A. Jamieson, Associated Press Staff Writer (By Guardian's Special Wire)

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Little Gloria Vanderbilt, 10-year-old heiress to millions tonight became the ward of a court.

Stern, bewhiskered Justice John F. Carew ended the bitter court battle between the child's socially prominent mother and aunt for her custody with this decree:

"The infant Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt is hereby adjudged to be the ward of the Supreme Court of the state of New York."

Then he parcelled Gloria's life—religion, schooling, home and holidays—between her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, and her paternal aunt, Mrs. Gertrude Whitney, wealthy sculptor. He ruled:

"That Gloria must live with Mrs. Whitney—the court's 'custodian'—five days a week in the Whitney Fifth Avenue mansion.

"That the child must be delivered by Mrs. Whitney to her mother each Saturday morning at 10 and Mrs. Vanderbilt must return her at sundown Sunday night. The mother shall have the child on Christmas day.

"That Mrs. Whitney rear the child as a Roman Catholic, employing a Catholic governess who will teach Gloria the religion and take her to church on all Sundays and holy days of obligation.

"That Mrs. Whitney shall continue Gloria's attendance at the Glenside School, at Roslyn, N. Y., and shall cause her to live in a manner suitable to her fortune at her country home in Old Westbury."

The mother shall have the child during the month of July and Mrs. Whitney will have the little girl's "uninterrupted society" from Aug. 1 until her school term opens.

The "jurist, who ended the mother's habes corpus hearing after witnesses for the aunt, including servants, attacked her fitness as a mother, closed his decision with the statement that both mother and aunt "are severely prohibited" from taking the child outside of the state.

Justice Carew declared in his judgment:

"The life led by this infant from the death of her father, Reginald Vanderbilt until June, 1923, was entirely and in every way unsuitable, unfit, improper, calculated to destroy her health and neglectful of her moral, spiritual and mental education, and that it so resulted to the child outside of the state, and to the detriment, damage and injury to the infant."

Then he added that the life lived by Gloria since June, 1923, when Mrs. Whitney assumed her custody, "has been fit, suitable and appropriate, and has resulted in a greater improvement of the infant physically and mentally and has tended to promote its best welfare, comfort and happiness."

He said the mother's "prima facie privilege" to the custody of her child "has been overcome by the evidence offered by both sides before me." The decision, Carew said, was made "solely for the promotion of the best interests and welfare" of Gloria.

MAID AND MISTRESS DISCUSS GRIEVANCES

CHICAGO, November 22.—Housewives and maids got together today and talked about each other to their faces.

The meeting was sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. committee on household employment. It learned from both sides said they were "astonished" were:

From the maids—That employers expect too much; talk too much about bridge parties about maids; ask maids to work too many of their regular nights off when they have dates; don't want to pay enough for part-time work.

From the employers—That maids loaf; that they talk too much about their employers; want higher pay for part-time work; won't work faster when given shorter hours.

Listeners said it was a draw.

BUCHAREST, November 22.—King Carol had a narrow escape from a serious motor accident this afternoon as he was driving through the principal street of Bucharest to receive the oath from new army recruits.

His car was struck by another coming out of a side street. The driver had not noticed that the street had been closed by the police.

Carol's chauffeur steered his car so that the collision had little effect. The driver of the other car nevertheless was attacked and beaten by the crowd.

STELLARTON, N. S., Nov. 21.—William Wilkinson, 24, of Broadway, N. S., driver of the car which struck and killed John Charles Butler Oct. 30, was acquitted of a charge of manslaughter by Magistrate William Richardson.

He gave a similar ruling when Crown Prosecutor J. Welsford Macdonald, K.C., asked to have the accused committed on a charge of criminal negligence. The prisoner, defended by E. M. Macdonald Jr., was released.

N.S. Lobstermen Win First Round Of Battle

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
MONTREAL, Nov. 21.—Nova Scotia lobstermen today won the first round of a legal battle concerning damage to lobsters in the Strait of Canso.

Justice Philippe Demers, sitting in Admiralty, dismissed a motion by owners of the steamer Thorshavn who sought dismissal of an action for $5,500 against them for damage taken by Delmas, C. Outhouse, fisherman of Halifax, and Ernest H. Himmelman, merchant of La Have, N. S.

Owners of the steamer contended that inasmuch as the claim stated the damage had been "done by a ship," and then amplified the statement by claiming it had been done by oil pumped overboard, the damage could not possibly have been done by the steamer and the action should therefore be dismissed before hearing.

With this claim rejected it is expected the action will be heard on its merits, possibly next month.

The background of the action is that Outhouse and Himmelman, represented in court by Brown, Montfort, and Mitchell as solicitors, claimed they were owners of a large number of lobsters, weighing 38,750 pounds, which were lying in crates in the waters of the Strait of Canso, at Mulgrave, N. S.

They had been shipped by the plaintiffs and were taken on board the motor vessel Radio III at Magdalen Islands for transportation to Bayview, near Gloucester, Mass. In constant of the terms of a contract for carrying them, they were placed in the waters for refreshment, after which they were again to be taken on board the Radio III for transportation to Bayview.

But before they could be reloaded, the Thorshavn, with a cargo of oil, ran aground on shoals and, it is claimed, some oil was pumped overboard to lighten her. This oil was carried by winds and tide up the coast, and quantities were swallowed by the lobsters, killing some and injuring others. Plaintiffs ask for a declaration that they are entitled to the damages proceeding for and condemnation of the defendant.

In asking that the court be held to have no jurisdiction over the claims and that there is no lien de droit between plaintiffs and defendant, the owners of the Thorshavn argued that the statement of claim specified "damage done by their ship," when their ship was not the instrument of damage.

The judgment was that "damage by a ship means damage done by those in charge of a ship, with the ship a noxious instrument. These words do not mean that the ship must come in contact with the thing damaged; a ship may be responsible for its excessive waves. I am of the opinion that when we do not necessarily mean a damage done by the whole body. We in-

Inferior Seed Costs Farmers Millions Yearly

(Canadian Press)
WINNIPEG, Nov. 21.—Appreciable progress was reported today in a plan to rid Western Canada of all undesirable mixtures of wheat. A survey of thousands of samples collected by the National Seed Grain Committee and taken from farmers' wagons, elevators and seed drills, revealed millions of dollars were lost annually to farmers sowing seed which had become mixed.

Each year since 1930 the committee, set up by the National Advisory Committee on Agricultural Services, has conducted a crop-testing plan. The objective is to raise as quickly as possible the general level of the quality of wheat produced throughout the west. Tests conducted in some areas revealed many farmers did not know the name of the variety of grain they were growing.

Hundreds of grain growers who thought they were growing Marquis were found to be actually producing curious mixtures of grain difficult to define. Some were wholly unsuited to the district. Approximately 40 percent of 15,000 farmers whose wheat was tested were found to be producing grain which might mean a loss to them of at least one grade and not infrequently from two to five bushels an acre.

The crop testing plan was inaugurated in 1930 when 3,200 samples of wheat were taken and grown in plots the following year. In 1933, 8,216 samples were tested and this year, L. H. Newman, Dominion government cerealist and those associated with him in the co-operative work of practical education, made contact with 15,000 farmers throughout the west.

When the plots approached maturity the farmers were invited to come and see the results for themselves. Field days were held and authorities on seed wheat from provincial and Dominion departments of agriculture and universities, explained what the growing disclosed. Analysis of the samples as a whole revealed 34.7 percent were Marquis; 20 percent Garnet; 11.8

Hunter River And Vicinity

Hockey fans of this community show an intense interest in the "Big Four" games. The great number attending the Charlottetown Forum is conclusive proof.

The citizens of Wheatley River deserve great credit for the diligent attention given to the Soldiers' Monument, which reflects a sincere desire to keep the Memorial permanently expressive of gratitude.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Hunter River United Church held their annual bazaar and chicken supper in the Masonic Hall, November 8. The affair was well patronized and net receipts amounted to $68.

A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Hunter River was held in the Masonic Hall, November 12. The purpose of this meeting was to consider improvements along the lines of public conveniences. The chief among these considered was the sidewalks. It was decided to make an immediate repair of the sidewalks and for this purpose a committee consisting of Messrs. A. B. Ouliffe, J. E. Andrews and F. J. Hoy was appointed to secure the necessary materials and appoint a day for the citizens to turn out in a body to make the necessary repairs.

Trade Following The Tourist

In these days it would seem that trade is following the tourist, at any rate in the case of trade between Canada and the British West Indies. The large increase in the number of Canadians visiting these Empire vacation lands of the Caribbean on the Canadian National Steamships is having quite an effect on the imports from Canada. The largest single item of imports into the island of Antigua, is wheat flour, which Canada is the chief supplier. Other imports are machinery, lumber, cotton piece goods, cornmeal, fish, bags and sacks, rice, hardware, cotton manufactures, meats, bottles and shoes, cigarettes and tobacco, manure. In addition to flour, Antigua exports to Canada are almost entirely made up of sugar crystals.
