CANADA KEEPS FIFTY-EIGHTH THANKSGIVING

Autumn Festival Was Started by New England Colonists in 1621.

(By The Canadian Press) Remindful of uneasy days when the Pilgrim Fathers carried their blunderbuses to church, yet lost many a good dinner to marauding redskins, Thanksgiving was one Canadian holiday frankly adopted from the early settlers of North America.

With the Dominion Thanksgiving on Monday, Canadians were more than seven weeks ahead of their American cousins in keeping the day officially fixed on both sides of the line for expressing gratitude "for the blessings with which the country has been favored during the year." In the United States the fourth Thursday in November is proclaimed annually by the president and the governors of various states.

The Pilgrims held their first official Thanksgiving Day in 1621. Primarily a religious service in gratitude for crops, it became an annual festival in Connecticut in 1647 and in Massachusetts in 1680. It was 1817 before New York State felt grateful enough to set apart a day every year for public manifestation of it.

George Washington and various succeeding presidents nominated Thanksgiving day for sundry victories of war and blessings of peace but the earlier chief executives of the United States were diffident about making it a national perennial. Andrew Jackson, Carolina-born "Old Hickory" who headed the Washington administration from 1829 to 1837, declared he "would have nothing to do with that Yankee holiday." He refused to proclaim it during his terms of office. Many Southerners saw "a relic of Puritan bigotry" in Thanksgiving.

In 1864 President Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday in November and that day has been named every year since.

In Canada one of the earliest recorded Thanksgivings proclaimed officially was for the peace between Britain and France after the seven years War, of which no small part was fought on Canadian soil. In historic Halifax, Sept. 28, 1763, was appointed Thanksgiving Day. Another official celebration is on record as of Jan. 10, 1799, when Lower Canada (Quebec) gave praise for "the signal victory over our enemy and the manifold inestimable blessings which our kingdom and province have received and daily continue to receive."

The war triumphs were Lord Nelson's defeat of the French on the Nile and the repulse of American troops invading Canada after the Revolution. The first Thanksgiving Day in Upper Canada (Ontario) was June 15, 1816.

As an annual Dominion holiday Monday's observance of Thanksgiving was the 58th, Thursday, Nov. 6, 1879, was the first, by proclamation of the Marquess of Lorne, then governor-general, in the second ministry of Sir John A. MacDonald. Up till 1900 the holiday was annually proclaimed for the first or second Thursday in November. Then with the development of the week-end holiday it was observed on a Monday, generally in October.

After the War parliament for some years combined Armistice and Thanksgiving Day Nov. 11 but in 1931, following representations of veterans' organizations, that date was set aside annually by statute as Remembrance Day. Thanksgiving was advanced to a Monday in October.

In 1935 the proclamation appointed Oct. 25 - a Thursday, resulting in protests from many quarters. Hon. C. H. Cahan, then secretary of state, said he had reason to believe church leaders were favorable to the return of a mid-week date.

Canada On Committee To Study Covenant Reform

BY GEORGE HAMBLETON Canadian Press Staff Writer

GENEVA, Oct. 9 - (CP Cable) - After a three-hour fight over procedure, the General Commission of the League of Nations Assembly decided tonight to recommend the appointment of a special committee of 28 members of the League to study the question of reform of the Covenant.

Canada was one of the 28. Behind the scenes lay a struggle between Moscow and Berlin. Chile wanted the views of non-member states ascertained "either by direct approach or by convening a diplomatic conference." Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Foreign Minister, sensing an invitation to Germany, fought the Chilean delegate.

Stanley Bruce of Australia, who was both chairman and rapporteur of the Commission, submitted a report which in effect passed the question of consulting non-member states to a new committee. Chile fought the report as not going far enough. Litvinoff challenged it as going too far.

Up and down with amendment and sub-amendment the fight waged. In the end the Commission adopted a couple of amendments from the French delegation which made the recommendation read: "The point raised by the Chilean delegation might, it seems, be met by the fact that the committee possibly will have to consider appropriate methods of ascertaining the views of non-member states."

The special committee will consist of Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, the United Kingdom, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, China, Czechoslovakia, Ecuador, France, Greece, Iraq, Italy, Latvia, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Uruguay and Russia.

Austrian Cabinet Offers Resignation In Crisis

VIENNA, Oct. 9 - (AP) - A Chancellor spokesman revealed tonight that all members of the Austrian cabinet had offered their resignations to Chancellor Schuschnigg during a lengthy session devoted to the Heimwehr crisis.

It was indicated Dr. Schuschnigg had refused to accept the resignations. The spokesman said Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg and Dr. Schuschnigg made peace two weeks ago whereby Von Starhemberg was to become head of the new militia dropping his leadership of the Heimwehr, his private army, which would be incorporated into the militia or disbanded.

Von Starhemberg, however, it was stated, changed his mind today and now demands leadership of the militia and the Heimwehr as well as the vice-chancellorship.

President Wilhelm Miklas arrived at the heavily guarded chancellery this evening where the cabinet has been considering the Heimwehr crisis for the past three days.

The tense situation in Austria political affairs arose when Von Starhemberg ordered the expulsion of his arch-rival, Major Eiml Fey, former vice-chancellor, and Fey retorted by announcing that he himself would seize leadership of the Vienna Heimwehr.

'Miss Pacific Fleet' At Prince Edward

'Miss Pacific Fleet' comes to port today at the Prince Edward Theatre with that famous quartette of film comedians, Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell, Hugh Herbert and Allen Jenkins heading a cast that includes hundreds of gobs and marines.

The picture is based on the rollicking comedy by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan and is said not only to be hilariously funny but to carry a humorous love triangle between Miss Blondell, Jenkins and Warren Hull, the radio star who has the romantic role in the production.

Miss Blondell and Miss Farrell are teamed as a couple of wise-cracking chorus beauties who run a con-cession at an amusement park on the Pacific Coast. They are put out of business through the cane ring-ing skill of Jenkins.

Hugh Herbert promotes a beauty contest, which includes a prize fight with 5,000 votes awarded the winner to give to his girl friend. This is staged between Jenkins, who has fallen in love with the chorus beauty, Miss Blondell, and one of the local pugs.

Laughs tumble over each other in a series of hilarious situations to a melodramatic, although laughable climax, in which there is a kidnapping, a motor boat chase for the abducted girl and a free for all battle including not only the sailors but their sweeties.

Fay Wray And Ralph Bellamy In 'Roaming Lady' At Capitol

Exciting adventure races across the screen in "Roaming Lady," co-starring Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy, which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre. The film presents Miss Wray as a madcap millionaire's daughter, in love with the devil-may-care Bellamy, an aviator employed by her father. The difference in their social positions, coupled with a perverseness in both, brings nothing but lovers' quarrels, which finally culminate when Bellamy is virtually shanghaied by her father and sent to China.

On the way, Bellamy, discovers that Fay has stowed away in the ship to be near him. The ship is diverted by a treacherous crew into the hands of a Chinese rebel chieftain who impresses Bellamy into his army as a military flyer.

The sequences which follow are replete with action, particularly the final scene which show the thrilling and spectacular escape of the principals from the rebel's camp.

The production is fast-paced and replete with action, comedy and romance. In the principal supporting role is Ed Gargan, brother of William Gargan, as a helper and friend to Bellamy. Thurston Hall has the role of the father.
