Another institution to which we will refer, because it fits more closely into the size and conditions of our Dalton institution, is that of the Sanatorium of Saskatchewan. This institution is almost self-sustaining from patients' fees alone. In the year 1918 there were 197 patients admitted, 140 discharged, and 57 remaining at the close of the year. The total cost of maintenance was $86,962.10, of which the patients' fees amounted to $80,085.20, donations $780; the "NET COST OF OPERATING THE INSTITUTION" being placed at $6,096.90. How does this compare with those infamous ghost stories and malicious fables circulated by our treacherous public utility wreckers that they might put their blighting curse upon the grandest philanthropy ever established by any one individual donation to the people of this province? From the day that Sir Charles Dalton first projected this great gift the destructive gang practiced their shameful knocking, and all through its successful management in the days of Conservative rule they never ceased in their attacks, by resolutions in the House and misrepresentations in their press, to punish the unfortunate white plague victims of our province, in order to satisfy their damnable craze for the creation of political capital by which they foolishly expect to reap a party advantage.

CHALLENGE TEA

—EVERBODY COME and hear the Superintendent of Education lecture in New London Hall, Monday evening, Sept. 5th. Sale of home made candy, Admission 15c.

—POSSIBLE KENSINGTON ENTRIES FOR LABOR DAY SPORTS.—It is quite likely that James H. MacDonald and Lorne Bowness will enter for the Labor Day sports in Charlottetown. The former for the high hurdles and the latter for the shot put, both are local winners and local winners always have a chance against all comers.

John Doe, mule, fined. NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—"John Doe," mule, was fined $25 for obstructing Jersey City traffic today. John wandered from home in the rush hour this morning and lay down for a nap across the Greenville area line tracks at Ocean avenue and Dwight street. The first car that came along tried in vain to budge the mule by striking it. The crew tried moral suasion with equally vain results. After fifteen minutes ten cars were tied up. The combined efforts of the ten motormen and ten conductors brought nothing but an annoyed kick from the mule. Finally the reserves were called from the Ocean avenue station. Their attempts were equally futile until Policeman Eggers recalled some "cigars" of Italian origin in his pocket. Three puffs from a lighted "rope" so affected the mule it tottered to its feet. Before it regained full consciousness the mule was bound "hand and foot" and lifted to the rear platform of one of the trolleys. It was given a free ride to the Ocean avenue station, where its owner may have it upon payment of the $25. The mule was booked as John Doe and charged with obstructing traffic.

A GREA EDITOR

"Years ago," Philip Guedella writes in "Supers and Supermen," when a gentleman's collars impinged upon his cheeks and the Great Victorians were still in the nursery, the five penny "Times" was edited by John Thaddeus Delane. While ingenious persons were perfecting the Steam Locomotive and inventing the Electric Telegraph, his opinion were the admiration of his countrymen, its information was the envy of the Cabinet Ministers and its independence was the despair of foreign Sovereigns; it was, in fact, the repeal of the newspaper stamp duty made possible what was elegantly termed "a Brumagien to young gentlemen with seal-skin waistcoats scrutinized its sporting intelligence behind the ample paddleboxes of the steam packet, and old gentlemen in plain rugs and travelling-capes read it anxiously in railway-trains to see whether Mr. Cobden had yet succeeded in running his unhappy country. Prince Lord Palmerston burnt it with the utmost regularity, and President Lincoln expressed the gratifying opinion that it had more power than anything in the nursery, the five penny "Times" was edited by John Thaddeus Delane. MUTT AND JEFF

Ambition is one Thing, But Sleep is Something Else

By Bud Fisher

LET FORTUNE GET AWAY. All that glitters is not gold, but lack of glitter is not a certain test for worthlessness, it was found by gold diggers along a river in Papua, British New Guinea, recently. While searching for gold the men encountered a bluish-gray, flakish substance which they cast aside as worthless. Two months ago two pounds of this substance was bought in London by an American firm for approximately $8,000, or eight times the value of the same amount of gold. It was osmiridium, a member of one of the hardest metals known and used for the tipping of fountain pens, and for delicate bearings of fine machinery. It is worth $200 an ounce. When the prospectors learned the value of the substance they hurried back to the river and learned that tropical rains had washed away most of the precious stuff. By careful work they raked together what was left, had it refined and sent to London.

THE EXPLANATION. Returning home from the park a man was jubilant because he had won prizes at several of candy stands. "I got four boxes of candy, two keeple dolls, seven stickpins and a chicken," he told his wife. "Yes." "And that suit with the big checks." "Why, certainly." "And that loud tie?" "Yes, but what's the difference?" "That accounts for the winning of all those prizes. I'll bet a cookie that stand keepers thought you were a sapper connected with the outfit." HOW ABOUT MENDACITY. Cynicus remarks that all a man needs to win a woman are audacity and pertinacity.—Boston Transcript.
