National Railways Chairman Impressed With Crops

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 6.—"Our western trip we were, of course, greatly interested in the coming crop and were all impressed with its volume. Especially was this apparent in districts that for the last few years had not taken off a crop because of drought conditions. The early moisture conditions this year went a long way in putting these districts back on their feet and there is a general feeling of renewed optimism and hope," declared Hon. C. P. Fullerton, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Canadian National Railways, on his arrival in Winnipeg after a short tour of Western Canada.

"Weather conditions are playing some queer pranks (?) the western crop, however, and because of the recent intense humidity and extreme heat, steam rust will take a considerable toll in certain parts. Rye cutting is fairly general now and a uniform crop is expected. Crops will be late in the Peace River country because of the excess early rains, but conditions there are good and damage from any source will be practically nil."

"The Pacific Coast has a better tourist business to Alaska than for many years. Because of the increase we were forced to augment our regular Alaska service with four special cruises by the S. S. "Prince Robert." These four extra trips have been booked to capacity and our regular boats have done splendidly. It has been an exceptionally good year for our coastal steamships.

"I paid a short visit to Maligne Lake to look over the additional accommodation constructed to take care of the summer tourists. This area is becoming more and more popular with visiting fishermen. The opening of the Tonquin Valley area is also good news to those interested in heading the mountain trout and I notice that Rex Beach was a recent successful visitor.

"Our trip was one of general inspection. We looked over our line closely and will be in good position to do our share in moving the new crop," stated the Chairman.

Others in the official party were J. Edouard Labelle, K.C., Member of the Board of Trustees; S. J. Hungerford, President, Canadian National Railways; A. E. Warren, Vice-President; C. B. Brown, Chief Engineer; H. A. Dixon, Chief Engineer Western Lines; Dr. W. J. Black, Director of Agriculture and Colonization. After spending a day in the city conferring with local officials, the party left on the Continental Limited for Toronto.

Jasper Golf Tourney Draws Large List

JASPER PARK LODGE, Alta., Aug. 6.—Never before in the history of Jasper golf has there been more interest than there is this year in the Tenth Annual Totem Pole tournament to be played here September 1st to 7th. Practically every city represented last year will be in again, with a great many registrations already made at the secretary's office.

The tournament will start off with the Men's Handicap against Par the first day. On Monday the qualifying rounds for both ladies and men will be played and flight play will follow. By the use of a special system an extra day of competitive play has been arranged. Concurrently with the qualifying round the highly competitive International Team Matches are played and this competition has always proved one of the features of the tournament.

Friday morning the ladies' finals are all played and the mixed greensome, a very popular feature, is played in the afternoon. On Saturday the Totem Pole championship and the men's flight finals are played with the Totem Pole match scheduled for 36 holes. Saturday afternoon the ladies' Handicap Match against Par is played and later, in front of the Lodge, in a most picturesque setting, with Lac Beauvert as a background, the prizes will be presented by Hon. W. L. Walsh, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta.

The golf course is in excellent condition and offers a perfect test of good golf. A feature of Golf Week is the varied program which proves as popular for the high handicap player as it does with those who can flirt with Par.

Ability To See Comfortably
The object of a modern eye service is to enable patients to see comfortably. That means seeing without strain on the eyes. And also the avoidance of many bodily results of eye strain. That thought deserves the consideration of all who are not certain of the condition of their eyes.

CALIFORNIA TO PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND
I met a neighbor just the other day,
I really feel like bursting into song;
Though, honestly, I am ashamed to say,
Unhappily, I have lived close by so long.

I found her friendly, kind and very sweet;
As though I were her own, she welcomed me;
Not as a stranger she had chanced to meet
As I entered her small home beside the sea.

Dear little Island, I have never seen
A spot more lovely, flowers bright, more gay;
Majestic trees or foliage more green,
I can't say when, but I'm coming back some day!

MAN DRAGGED FROM DORY BY SWORDFISH
VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Aug. 7.—Wilfred M. Pratt, 25-year-old Fairhaven fisherman, was dragged beneath the sea Sunday by a swordfish and lived to tell the tale. Working in a dory, Pratt harpooned the swordfish, and took in the slack on the line until he was alongside the fish when it suddenly dived.
The line became entangled about Pratt's feet and he was pulled overboard. Before he lost consciousness in the deep water, he cut himself free and rose to the surface. Fishermen in a nearby dory, who saw the accident, hauled him out.
At the U.S. Marine Hospital here Pratt said he had no idea how deep he was taken before he cut

WINTER STYLES SHOW Features Hybrids
PARIS, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Hybrid fabrics as varied as Burbank's plant mixtures, were evident today in the clothes shown at Winter style shows.
Uneven surface, such as quilted and ribbed faconne effects, marked many of the garments which often combined two materials.
There were black wools, studded with sequins and tufted with tassels and fringe, and ribbed faconne coats of wools and multi-colored tweeds.
Evening gowns were fashioned of crinkled crepe and quilted silks shot or dotted with lame threads. There were also changeable silks and velvets.
Afternoon clothes featured plain and crinkled crepes, satins and velvets, sometimes flaked with shimmering lame.
Dogs Being Employed To Smell Out Opium
SHANGHAI, Aug. 8.—After the bloodhound comes the "drug hound."
Police dogs trained to follow the scent of opium and other illicit narcotics, have been used with great success at Chingkiang to assist the Opium Suppression Bureau of Kiangsu Province.
Recently when a suspected smuggling vessel arrived in Chingkiang, the "drug hounds" were unleashed, and made at once for one of the cabins. Search revealed that a quantity of narcotics and equipment for opium-smoking was concealed. Chiang Cheng-chuan, the occupant of the cabin, confessed that he had been supplying the ship's passengers with the drug.
Chiang who handed over to the military authorities, and the Opium Bureau prepared for more extensive use of the "drug hounds."

Trousered Dresses New for Afternoon
PARIS, Aug. 8.—(AP) Paris dress-makers through their organization, Paris, acceded to-day to the request of buyers that they ship their New York bound models on the French liner Ile de France rather than the German Bremen, and turned their attention to the equally troublesome problem of waistlines.
The waistlines of Winter garments slipped a notch lower. One designer dropped belts about an inch below normal on day attire. Others displayed frocks designed without front belts and with lowered side incrustations an inch above the hip bones. They gave the effect of indefinite waistlines. Some clung stubbornly to the natural line, but Vera Borea went in the other direction, pulling waistlines up one to two inches above normal by means of wide belts.
The appearance of trousered afternoon dresses set buyers talking and pushed the problem of skirt lengths into a back seat although designers showed skirts as high as 15 inches from the floor. The trousered skirts had a slender top skirt slit to the waist, disclosing the trousers beneath and some of them let several inches of trouser leg appear below the skirt hem.

Buck Jones At Capitol
Lovers of the great outdoors and the doings of the clean, two-fisted men who are close to life in the raw should not miss "The Crimson Trail" to be shown at the Capitol Theatre for it is so packed with tense drama, excitement and thrilling situations, that you feel almost punch-drunk when it is finished and that really brilliant actor and hard rider, Buck Jones, has come out on top.
Both the writer and director of this film should be commended, for they have removed this film from the type in which you see a lot of men chasing a lot more men

New Fangled Ideas Revive Old Art
The Exhibition of Contemporary British Needlework, to be held early next year in Sunderland House, London, is expected to be the most notable event of its kind in recent times. While work commemorating the royal jubilee will be seen in numerous important entries, the needle artists have been reminded that the motif should show the influence of contemporary art and living if it is to rank as significant, creative art.
The domestic use of needlework is to be the one stressed. Some exhibits will be shown in furnished rooms, as integral parts of the interior decoration of the house. It has been pointed out that the restrained use of pattern in the present-day walls and floor coverings gives better scope for discreet needlework than was given by the houses of former periods. In other words new-fangled ideas bring back honor to an old craft.
It is expected that the exhibit will show that good needlewomen no longer confine themselves to following traditional patterns, but are adapting their art as part of the life of the twentieth century.

"Karloff In Bride of Frankenstein" At Prince Edward

The motion picture's strangest drama was unfolded yesterday on the screen of the Prince Edward Theatre, where the half-raising Universal story, "The Bride of Frankenstein," opened an engagement of three days. It is strong fare, but a thrilling, action-filled picture which fires the imagination as few films have done, and without question sets a new high mark in the realm of the so-called "horror picture."
The present picture is a sequel to the original "Frankenstein" of three years ago, telling of the creating by a half-mad scientist of a "Monster" in human form, built up from parts of dead bodies. This grotesque creature embarked on a wild career of murderous destruction, with his crimes mainly prompted by bewilderment and fear. In "The Bride of Frankenstein" he learns to talk, and becomes part of a vast excitement when a woman is similarly created at the height of his triumph. Then follows a crashing climax which will leave any audience well-nigh breathless.
As before, Karloff is starred as

Erection of Flats Has Odd Reaction

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 7.—(CP)—A curious reaction on the meat trade has occurred in this city. Since the erection and occupation of so many flats there has been a distinct falling off in the sale of beef in favor of mutton. This is thought to be due to the easier cooking of the mutton, which also requires less attention to the oven. As a consequence, although costing mainly to a splendid season in South-West Africa, beef is both plentiful and cheap—indeed, it is doubtful if it had ever been so cheaply sold as now—the Cape Town public do not seem to appreciate it, and mutton, although dearer, is seemingly much preferred.

Racing Results

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 7—Gibson White's speedy fillies, Rosalind and Rosette, trotted one-two in the National Stake for two-year-olds at Rockingham Park today to gain the major parts of the $4,016 purse.
It was a smashing triumph for Rosalind, soundly beaten last Saturday by Recovery, which was far back in the ruck today.
R. J. Reynolds' undefeated Jack Orr had to come from behind to win the two-year-old pacing division of the National stake and with it most of the $1,910 purse.
BIRKENHEAD'S NEW RECORDEE
(Canadian Press)
BIRKENHEAD, England, Aug. 7.—F. Bertram Reece has been appointed recorder of Birkenhead to succeed C. T. Wilson, who has been appointed a Metropolitan Police Magistrate.
Another good idea would be to have "Post No Bills" signs on all mail boxes.

POSY BOWLS
So popular is the posy bowls with their attractive wide flanges proving that their sellers have difficulty in keeping up the supply to equal the demand, according to the managers of certain Edinburgh shops. A very attractive bowl was seen recently in one of these shops in a delicious shade of raspberry pink—the loveliest thing imaginable! Another beautiful bowl, in opaque glass, is of a deep sky-blue tint, while still another appears in deepest primrose yellow.
