U. S. Steel Supply Likely To Tighten

CLEVELAND, Aug. 8—(AP)—Finished steel shipments probably will break all records in 1948, but the tight supply situation is likely to get uglier. Steel magazine reported today. The magazine reported total movement of more than 32,500,000 net tons of finished steel in the first half of this year, exceeding by nearly 371,000 tons the record in the last half of 1947. The wartime high was 31,766,000 tons in the first half of 1944. But, steel continued even if production continues at the high rate anticipated, expansion of tonnage allotments under the voluntary allocation plan may cut the amount of steel available during the fourth quarter to meet the pressing demands of rank and file consumers. Last week steelmaking operations rose one point to 94 per cent of capacity, the equivalent of 1,695,000 tons, Steel reported. The magazine's composite price for finished steel held at $90.03 last week compared with $74.41 a year ago. Semi-finished steel's composite was $74.83 against $56.80 in the first week of August, 1947.

Vincent Davis, of Toronto, holidaying at Daytona Beach on Sturgeon Lake, saw the roof of the inn about to collapse and ordered Mrs. Fowler, of Leaside, Ont., another guest at the inn, to stay in a corner while he attempted to give some support to the walls. A beam struck him as it fell. A half hour later he was dead.

N. Y. Stock Market Uncertain Last Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(AP)—The stock market had Congress on its hands last week and didn't quite know what to do about it. With the exception of Wednesday, when leading issues moved briskly forward, the market sawawed without getting very far one way or another. Brokerage officials reported that concern over what Congress might produce in the way of credit or price control legislation was the main barrier to a more active market. Berlin was also mentioned. Trading volume for the week dropped to the lowest level in five months. Turnover failed to pass the 900,000-share level on any one day. And the slow action was almost infallible sign that professional traders—as distinguished from the public at large—made up the market. The Associated Press composite of 35 wholesale commodities dipped to 189.92 on Friday from 190.32 a week earlier when the index showed the first Friday-to-Friday advance in six weeks. Industrial and consumer metals rose to new 1948 highs on Friday while textiles and grains and cottons dropped to new lows for the year. The other components, food and livestock, also declined.

The regular monthly meeting of the Stanhope Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Douglas on July 8th. The meeting opened by the president having members recite the Creed in unison. The roll call was answered by 13 members. The minutes of the last meeting were read, and approved as read. Receipts for donations from W. I. were read. There was no other correspondence. It was again decided not to have pantry sale. The cards ordered from Homer Warren were distributed to the members. It was suggested that the monthly of our Institute be published in the Guardian. The roll call for the next meeting to be answered by members giving the maiden names of their grandmothers. No report was given on the annual convention as the delegates were unable to attend. The sick committee made reports. New sick committee is Mrs. Malcolm MacLauchlan and Mrs. Louis Kelly. Mrs. Joseph Robinson kindly asked to her home for the next meeting. The treasurer also gave her report. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem and a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, after which a social hour followed. Collection $1.75.

Beechwood Gardens

(By Picture Joe) A more picturesque spot than Beechwood Gardens would be hard indeed to find. From the top of the loftiest terrace one gets a splendid view of the West River lying majestic and serene, forming as it were, a foundation for the lovely gardens themselves. Almost surrounding the gardens is a crescent-shaped grove of beech trees, whose protecting shade shield this bit of paradise from the heat of summer as well as from early frosts. It was after this beautiful grove that Mrs. Gordon MacMillan named her gardens. Beechwood Gardens are situated at Cornwall, five and one half miles from the Capital City of Charlottetown, now in their 16th year, they have come a long way from the tiny plot they were when Mrs. MacMillan started the venture. Upon entering this lovely Eden one immediately is captivated by its artistic arrangement and, in fact, the entire grounds being laid out in square lawns, introduced by terraces, with steps leading from the upper to the lower garden, the two being divided by the MacMillan residence. The upper garden being younger and consequently not quite so mature as its sister plot, I shall confine my article to the wonders I encountered in the lower garden. Surrounding these beautiful children of nature is a native white spruce hedge about four feet high and nicely manicured to give the whole setting a most pleasing effect. A second border of honeysuckle and lilac further enhances the beauty of the scene, making the flowers themselves stand out more conspicuously, like a picture in a gilded frame. If you are a lover of beauty you would linger, as I did, for over two hours in this bewitching paradise, with its hundreds of different species of the flower kingdom, and have Mrs. MacMillan explain patiently to you the names and habits of each plant. To one as ignorant as I of horticulture her knowledge appeared to be almost uncanny and she discussed this flower and that as

Shrub Roses

(Experimental Farm News) What are popularly regarded as the protected and tender queens of the garden—Hybrid Perpetual and Hybrid Tea Roses—are familiar to many gardeners. Few, however, realize the wealth of hardy shrub roses that can provide interesting contrasts in the shrub border all through the season, says R. W. Oliver, Director of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. The best known of these is Harrison's Yellow because its profuse, pale yellow single flowers have graced the dooryard of Canadian farm homes for almost 200 years. Like most of the shrub roses it has only one short season of bloom, but has attractive small foliage throughout the summer, followed by black fruits in fall. As it suckers freely the growth is always dense. The red leaved rose (Rosa rubrifolia) on the other hand makes very thin, leggy growth and has a few red single flowers. Its chief attraction is its dull purple red foliage that offers a pleasing contrast to the greens of other shrub roses. The Japanese fruiting rose (Rosa rugosa) has rough crinkled dark green foliage and colourful scarlet fruits. The species has large single carmine flowers but many attractive hybrids have been produced from it. Several of them like Mme. Georges Brunt, Sir Theo. Lipton and Blanche Double de Coubert have large double flowers with prolonged season. Others, like F. J. Grootendorst, flower pretty well over the season until frost. The smooth rose (Rosa blanda) has almost no prickles. The variety Betty Bland is a tall upright shrub with good sized double pink flowers. By contrast the dull purple wood is very attractive in the shrub border during winter and spring. Because all these roses are hardy,
