The Woman Who Loved and Earned

BY JANE PHELPS

A Modern Story of Home and Business

GERRY DECIDES NOT TO TELL

CHAPTER 81

I had not dreamed it was so late. And I had intended to tell Robert of Marion Hovey's insulting talk the moment he came in. But I simply said:

"I did not know it was so late. Did you have a good time?"

"No, I never have a good time any more." His answer was ungracious in the extreme, but I never noticed. Long after he slept I lay going over what I had heard — the opinion that a woman who brazenly acknowledged she loved my husband, had of me.

I had intended, when telling Robert of the things Marion Hovey had said, to tell him also that she had declared her love for him. Now I commenced to waver. If he thought she cared in that way, would it not be an added temptation to him to be with her? Yet I knew that once I commenced to talk of her, my visit, it would be almost impossible for me to keep that confession to myself. By the time the morning broke, I had decided to tell him nothing about it. I would not mention my visit. If she told him, why I would decide then what to say.

But I was unhappy, terribly so. Had I, who loved Robert so intensely, really ruined his life? Was I to blame for his drinking, his visits to the pool room?

"Do you love me, Robert?" I asked when he was dressing. It was the first time I had asked such a question, and he looked his surprise. Then he said:

"What has made you think I do not."

"Oh, nothing! I just wondered. Perhaps it is because you go out so much later, and leave me alone."

"I should go mad if I stayed here sucking my thumbs, thinking of things—or listening to how many hats you have sold."

"I won't talk shop, Robert, if you will stay with me, I promise. I haven't realized I talked so you were bored."

"You can't help it. Women who work are all that way."

"Shall we go up to the Weeds tonight, dear?" I asked.

"I don't care. Go if you want to."

"Very well, come home early, and we'll get dinner somewhere, and then go up there. I'll telephone Betty we are coming."

When we were first married and I had not met these friends of his, Robert was enthusiastic over them, and for a long time afterwards. Now he scarcely spoke of them, and never proposed spending the evening with them as he used. I had laid it to his pride. He had lost a good position, while both Frank and Carson had been advanced to a better one at about the same time. But I must do something. I would not lose him! In spite of Marion Hovey, and what she had said, he belonged to me.

I reached home before Robert did, and made myself as attractive as possible.

"Why the glad rags?" Robert asked when he came in. "Who's going to be there besides us"

"No one! Betty said we would play cards." Then I said: "I dressed up for you Robert. We haven't been out together in so long I thought you might like to see me look nice.'

"You look nice all right. But everyone knows you pay for your own clothes—that I couldn't buy you a dress like that out of my princely salary."

"Don't Robert! Please be nice tonight." I felt that I should cry in a minute. The lack of sleep, the emotion, my unhappy day full of unpleasant thoughts, had left me in a nervous state which I determined to hide so that Robert might enjoy the evening. And the very thing I hoped would please him had only brought bitterness.

"Come on, I'm ready" was his answer.

We dined simply at a restaurant about half way between our home and the Weed's. Then we walked the remaining distance. Robert had chatted amiably through dinner, and the walk in the fresh air had quieted my nerves.

"It's time you came!" Frank declared. "I told Betty the other night I must have done something to offend you."

"No, indeed, Frank! We have talked of coming, but something has interferred every time," I replied. "But we are coming oftener now. How would it be to set one evening a week for cards either here or at our house?"

"Fine and dandy!" Frank returned. So it was settled, although Robert had not spoken.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

Winnipeg May Experience Another Strike

TORONTO, March 17. — That Winnipeg may again experience another strike this year is foreshadowed by a despatch from that city to the Toronto Star today. The correspondent says:

"Although the possibility is discounted by officials of many unions of the 'international' faction and by the community generally, events are shaping rapidly toward a situation at the city hall, which presents an almost exact parallel to the preliminaries of last year's upheaval."

In Memoriam

CHARLES MELVILLE STEWART

The death occurred at Hopefield on Tuesday February 11th ult of Charles Melville Stewart at the early age of thirty seven years. The deceased contracted a heavy cold which later developed into pneumonia. Although medical assistance was difficult to obtain it was apparent the hand of the grim reaper could not be stayed. He leaves behind to cherish his memory a wife and three small children; also an aged father and aunt besides two sisters and two brothers to all of whom the many friends extend sincerest sympathy. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. D. McKenzie, pastor of the Presbyterian church Montague. Interment being in the cemetery at Lower Montague.

PLAYING AT TRAMS

Little Ethel was prattling in her aimless way, and sister Maude was naturally quite unsuspicious.

"Papa," said Ethel, "do you remember the trip we made to grandma's last week?"

"Yes," replied the father, absentmindedly.

"In the train," persisted Ethel.

"Yes."

Sister Maude yawned. She had been up later than usual the previous evening and the evidence of her weariness could not be suppressed.

"Do you remember," continued Ethel, "what the conductor said?"

"Yes," answered the father, still without looking up from his paper.

"He said," asserted Ethel, "that if you didn't want to pay for me you'd have to take me in your lap and let someone else have my seat."

Sister Maude roused herself enough to look puzzled and anxious.

"I remember," said the father. What of it?"

"Oh, nothing much," replied Ethel, "only I think Maude and that young man who's going to be my new brother were playing trams when I——"

"Ethel!" broke in Maude, sharply.

"——and trying to ride for one fare!" asserted Ethel, triumphantly by way of conclusion.

Money makes the automobile go, and the automobile makes the money go—and there you are.

Uric Acid In Meat Clogs The Kidneys

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

Prominent Germans Visit ex-Kaiser But Not Admitted

(Dom. Press Special.)

THE HAGUE, March 17.—Several prominent Germans arrived in Ameroggen yesterday for a visit to the former Kaiser, according to advices here today. They were not admitttd to the former Emperor despite repeated attempts.

COMING FASHIONS AT FRENCH CAPITAL

PARIS, March 16.—Many Parisienaes are already asking one another what will be worn in view of the approaching spring. They have been told that not only coats, but bodices are to be worn in different materials. A fine serge skirt, for instance, has an easy fitting bodice of voile or silk, with shaped basque, on redingote lines. The three-piece custom will be much in evidence as the spring advances, and reliable authorities are of opinion that the coatfrock will be to the fore, although in some quarters this is disputed. There is no doubt that the tighter-fitting bodice will be seen with pannier skirts. Accordion pleated skirts are shown on many of the new models, and very attractive they are. Unfortunately they so soon crease at the back and require constant pressing to keep them in good order. Pleats are also a feature of the new tailor mades. Notwithstanding the fact that colors of the most vivid description are worn for all smart occasions, the black dress is as popuar as ever. This is not a matter for surprise, for it is smart, has a distinction all its own, and is economical into the bargain.

That the "Empire" waist will not prevail this season will be welcome news to a great many women, for it suits only a few. The waists of the new coats are decidedly lower, approaching in fact, the normal. One feature of the new tailored suits is the severity of the coats as compared with the short, rather tight skirts, that are all more or less trimmed. If not slightly draped. There can be no question as to the becomingness of the gracefully draped skirt on a slender figure, and a slender effect is not difficult of achievement by means of well-arranged drapery.

Blouses, except in the case of tailor-mades, are not now worn inside the belt, but are given a short frill at the waist. Some smart bouses, however, are quite long, draped at the sides and embellished with embroideries in animals and birds of weird designs in Eastern styles. Leading shops in this city are showing some very lovely, but fragile confections in lace, ninon, and georgette. All are beautifully embroidered, and made entirely by hand. The greater number have elbow sleeves, and each has a distinctive and always becoming collar, in some instances of the "Byronie" type. The transparencies are all made up over metallic tissues of chiffon, the sheen of which is seen through the veiling Tulle will be largely used for trimming and sashes, and is seen on materials of all kinds, especially in alliance with voiles and silks, etc. Milliners also find innumerable uses for it.

NURSES IN CALGARY WANT $50 A WEEK

CALGARY, Alta., March 16—Discussion is rife here over the action of the Graduate Nurses' Association in raisng the charge per week for the nurses of "flu" cases to $50.00. The nurses justify their action by the heavy duties which devolve upon the nurse, whole families often being stricken at the same time. Mrs. C. R. Edwards, convener of the Public Health Committee of the Local Council of Women, strongly protests, saying that if the resolution of the nurses is put into effect it will be cheaper to die than to call in trained assistance. She argues that the humanitarian side o fthe question is the first thing that should be considered.

JAP. TROOPS IN SIBERIA HAVE REVOLTED

LONDON, March 16.—A revolt has broken out among several units of the Japanese troops in Siberia, according to a wireless despatch sent out by the Soviet Government at Moscow. The soldiers ripped off their shoulder straps and substituted red straps, the despatches adds.

Growth of the revolutionary movement in Korea is aso reported by the despatch, which says that the Japanese authorities have made many arrest. At the same unit, the Soviet message asserts, the Japanese government is taking special measures to fight the communist movement at home.

Mothers' Advice

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The right influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl. When a girl's thoughts become sluggish with headaches, dizziness, or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs and a desire for solitude, her mother should come to her aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of this medicine, and what it has done for their daughters.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For 3 months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I did not know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. FINCH, 605 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

THE KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

The following poem is by Jack McAuliffe, late K. of C. Secretary and the only undefeated lightweight champion pugilist in the world, and it is the only poem on record by a prize-fighter.—

When Democracy was threatened, and each one paid the price,
By doing work laid out for them,
with sufferings and sacrifice,
Some made the ammunition for the boys who shouldered guns, While others gave relief to the sick and crippled ones.
The Red Cross work is noted for its efficiency and skill
By aiding shocked and shattered minds to control their nerves and will.
The Jewish Welfare League will live for their kind, unselfish deeds,
They always lend assistance to the sons of other creeds.
The Y. M. C. A. did wonders, too,
in this and other climes,
By cheering frail, dejected lads
who were homesick many times
The Salvation Army's noble bands have won eternal fame,
For valor shown on battlefields immortalized its name!
Still there's another legion that never asked for pay,
The bold Knights of Columbus,
kings of charity's array!
And they were on the firing line
when our boys were falling fast,
And oft they quenched the thirst
of him who was gasping out his last.
They never thought of danger,
they had duties to perform,
Their object was to comfort the souls in the bodies that were warm.
The K. of C. oft gave what is dear,
his life, his limb, his all;
His only thought was to save the wounded who would fall,
For he knew some woman waited for that man with aching heart,
And he pictured anguished tears of grief which helped him play his part.
Thank God the war is over, 'tis a page in history,
But when glorifying units, don't forget the K. of C.

SOBER GREETINGS

John Barleycorn, wham Rabbie lo'ed
—He lo'ed too weel, alas!—
Is dead, and gane tae Montreal—
Ye cann get a glass.

Nae mair we brew a peck o' maut,
Nor taste the "barley-bree;"
The gloom upon our faces is
A fearsome sicht tae see.

"For auld lang syne" we canna take
"A cup o' kindness yet;"
Sic things the Holy Willie men
Insist that we forget.

But cheer ye up, ye brither Scots:
Although they check and nag us,
They canna break our courage quite
Sae lang's we hae the haggis.

The "Monarch o' the puddin' kind"
We'll eat St. Andrew's Day,
And as we sit aroon the board,
These words we still may say:—

It's a wee bit o' haggis,
It's a wee bit, that's a'
Tak' anither bit o' haggis
Before ye gang awa'.

It'g a' that they hae left us
O' St. Andrewe's ancient feast—
The alt-meal puddin' cookit in
The stomach o' a beast.

AVENUES OF COMMUNICATION

Still a new means of communication has been devised. No longer is man to be dependent on the air for the rapid transmission of messages; for, a new invention—modeled afloat a barge in San Diego bay, California—has made possible the sending of messages through air and water. And, appropriately enough, the test of proof came when the United States Navy department sent a message from Annapolis, Maryland, to the British Admiralty, telling, in this manner, of the arrival of the R-34 in America. Bold adventurer had conquered the air, indeed, but not long before another group, less spectacular, harnessed the sea and land to their own particular requirements

DRESSED BEEF.

Some soldiers at camp spied a cow in a nearby field and after capturing her with the intention of having a drink of milk on the owner they dicovered to their disgust that she was dry.

A disappointed doughboy leveled his gun at her, saying: "She'd look better to me as dressed beef."

"Give you $5 if you turn the trick," said another. "It's a go," said the first one. "I'll turn her into dressed beef before morning and claim that $5."

None of us thought he meant it, but in the morning he claimed the money, saying the cow was now dressed beef. We had to be shown so were taken to the field, and there, sure enough, the cow was dressed. She was careering about the field in a complete outfit of the kitchen police.—Exchange.

4,000,000 "VICTORY" MEDALS

The Army Council (British) has issued an official description of the one title ("Victory") for a war medal that the Germans can never claim. The ribbon is the same for all countries, and consists of the familiar two rainbows joined by red in the centre. The medal will be round, an inch and a half in diameter, and made of bronze. The face will carry a full-length figure of a winged Victory, and the borders will be plain. The reverse will carry the legend. "The great war for civilization" in the language of the country giving the medal, and either the names of the coats of arms of the Allied Powers. The medal is given to all who served in a theatre of war, and it is expected that 4,000,000 men and women will be entitled to it. It is also given to the next of kin of the fallen.
