

Had Piles For 9 Years

Dominion Inspector of Steamboats Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

False modesty and fear of the surgeon's knife prevent most people from appealing to their physicians for a cure for piles.

Many people suffer on year after year, robbed of their rest and sleep by the terrible itching, when they could be entirely cured by a single box of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. O. P. St. John, Dominion Inspector of steamboats, living at 246 Shaw street, Toronto, states:—"I suffered for nine years from itching piles, at times being unable to rest on account of the annoyance caused by them. After trying almost all remedies, in vain I began the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which entirely cured me. I cannot speak too highly of it. I have recommended it to several friends, all of whom have been cured by its use." Dr. Chase's Ointment is recognized by physicians, druggists, and the public in general as the only absolute cure for piles. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

MANUAL TRAINING

Lord Minto Delivers Excellent Address.

UPON ITS INAUGURAT'N In the City of Ottawa—Tribute Paid to Sir William McDonald.

The following is the address delivered by His Excellency the Governor General at the inauguration ceremonies, Ottawa. After a brief introductory speech the chairman introduced His Excellency, who received a hearty welcome. His Excellency said:—

LORD MINTO'S SPEECH. It is with sincere pleasure and satisfaction that Lady Minto and I have accepted the invitation of the public school board to be present at the opening of the Macdonald Manual Training schools for the City of Ottawa. We all know that the people of Canada are to be congratulated upon the splendid opportunities which exist for the education of the children and youth of the country. The progress of the Dominion depends chiefly upon the intelligence, the honesty and the ability of its citizens, and these qualities, together with habits of perseverance and thrift, are most certainly inculcated and developed during the early years of life when the minds and the bodies of the pupils are plastic under the training influence of skilful teachers.

In a comparatively new country like this it is of the utmost importance that institutions of learning and courses of study should provide for the thorough education of those who are to follow any profession; and it is no less in the highest interests of the state that the elementary schools should give the best possible education to those children whose school life ends when they leave the public school. A British report on this subject has lately very truly said: "The progress of the people in wealth and material prosperity must largely depend on the education given in the primary schools."

In accordance with this view during recent years the educational authorities in the leading countries of Europe and also in the United States have been supplementing the course of study from text books with various forms of manual exercises and object lessons; as after careful consideration they have found that this class of training tends immensely to develop the most useful faculties of the pupils, which are neglected when the

TRAINERS and ATHLETES

MAKE USE OF Paine's Celery Compound

The Only Medicine That Gives Nerve Force, Strength and Endurance

Trainers and athletes in every department of athletics must be vigorous and healthy men if they would excel in bicycle races, football, running, jumping, skating and snowshoeing. The athlete should have a well balanced nervous system, blood fresh and pure, and the organs of digestion should at all times be in the best condition.

For many years Paine's Celery Compound has been the chosen health restorer of our best and most prominent athletes. It has done wonderful work and kept in condition men who have made world-wide reputations.

The celebrated John Graham who has trained athletes in Harvard and Columbia Universities, who is now superintendent of Boston's famous gymnasium, says: "I have used Paine's Celery Compound to my benefit, and no doubt that any person undergoing great physical strain will find it a grand strengthener."

J. R. Watson, Boston, holding the world's championship as jumper and pole vaulter, says: "The strongest of athletes often feel languid and drawn out. I have tried many things, but have found nothing that does me as much good as Paine's Celery Compound." James Michael, the great bicyclist, Rjertberg, the champion steeple-chaser, and other great athletes have declared that Paine's Celery Compound is the great tonic, regulator, nerve bracer and strength-giver for all who are weak, rundown or suffering from any ailment.

education is chiefly of a receptive character from books. In this age of notable progress in the various fields of human activity, it is not a matter for surprise that educators should express the opinion from time to time, that educational methods require to be improved to meet changed and still changing conditions. Evidently there will not be a finality to the process or methods of education so long as there are advances in civilization. In science and in human achievements.

Schools are the means which experience has taught us to use as the most convenient and economical way of conveying to the rising generation the mental wealth of the present and the past. It is now recognized that they can do that, none the less well, but rather the better through educating the faculties of the scholars which are not called into activity by lessons from books.

The report of the commission on manual and practical instruction in primary schools under the board of national education in Ireland contains much information on the subject. It was presented to the imperial parliament in 1898. Its members had ninety-three meetings; they took the evidence of one hundred and eighty-six persons whom they considered qualified to give information on the matters submitted to them; and they visited one hundred and nineteen schools, in the most of which they had an opportunity of seeing manual and practical instruction given.

Nothing can be stronger than the opinion expressed by the commissioners in favor of such instruction. I could refer to many passages in their report ably supporting in detail the views they express; but I think it may be better that I should leave to other speakers who I hope will address you this afternoon the task of dealing with educational technicalities in which they are so well versed, and I will only say that the experience of the educators the parents and the pupils in places where educational manual training has been introduced supports the expectations expressed in the report to which I refer. Ten years ago probably not more than fifty board schools in England had provided manual training; whereas it is now reported that the boys from nearly five thousand schools go to manual training centers.

It is with profound pleasure and keen expectation that we welcome to Canada and to this noble and useful work in our midst the manual training teachers who have come from Great Britain, and also the United States. They may be assured that those of us whose school days are long past will have an interest in their labors as deep, if not so evident, as that of the boys in their classes.

NOT TO TEACH TRADES.

But, ladies and gentlemen, I would ask you to understand that manual training is not intended to teach any trade or even the elements of any trade as such. Only as the alphabet and the art of reading are necessary to the literature of all professions, so manual training fits a boy to begin his apprenticeship to any trade with greater aptitudes and correspondingly better chances to be a skilful, excellent workman.

I hope it will be understood that manual training does not aim at preparing the pupils to earn their living through manual work, although it does help them in that honorable and laudable purpose after they take up their life work whatever it may be. Because the boys like it. It helps to keep them longer at school and thus gains for them a thorough education in other respects also.

Sir William Macdonald has certainly added another magnificent gift to those already conferred on Canada, and I am sure you will all agree with me that in selecting Prof. Robertson to assist in this great work he has chosen a man whose ability and personality would go far to secure the success of any undertaking. We have all heard of the generous gifts of Sir William C. Macdonald to the cause of higher education in Canada; and now he has put the people of Canada under a new debt to him by having placed in the hands of Professor Robertson a sum sufficient to provide manual training for the boys attending the public schools of at least one city or town in every province of Canada for a period of three years. They are expected to serve as object lessons to be observed by all interested. By the end of the present year provision will be made in equipment and instructors for training about five thousand boys and several hundred teachers. One may truly say that the scheme is one of high statesmanship in its plan, methods and endowment.

PLEA FOR THE GIRLS.

If I may be allowed to refer to one thing which the Macdonald manual training fund does not provide for, it will be rather to suggest what some like-minded benefactor may do for the girls than to imply that Sir William's benefaction is not complete in itself.

The fund provides for the training of boys only. We all know that woman-kind is the better half of mankind.

Manual training and practical instruction for girls in schools are not less important than for boys, though the subjects and exercises for girls would naturally be different from those for boys. Such exercises are admirably furnished by courses of study and practice under the heading of domestic science; and it argues well to know that in other countries and in other cities domestic science for the girls in the schools has followed close on manual training in woodwork for the boys.

In my opinion it would be impossible to overestimate the value to girls of the training afforded by classes in cooking, laundry work, general household economy and some slight primary acquaintance with first aid to the injured and nursing—knowledge capable of contributing so much to the happiness of the individual.

the comfort of the home, and the weal of the country.

Her Excellency the Countess of Minto and myself are greatly delighted with the keen and thoughtful interest with which the movement to introduce domestic science into the schools is already being supported in many quarters. We learn with great satisfaction that it is being favorably considered in and for Ottawa and several other places at the present time, and I can assure you that no one is more deeply interested in the scheme than Lady Minto herself.

Ladies and gentlemen, it is a great pleasure to me to declare the Macdonald manual training schools for Ottawa ready to receive boys for instruction and training; and Lady Minto and I wish them every success in the good work which is expected of them in this community and in Canada.
