BOMBER KAYOES SCHMELING IN FIRST ROUND

German Battler Knocked Out After Little More Than Two Minutes Of Fighting

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, June 22—The Brown Bomber came back tonight—all the way with an explosion that electrified the fight world and smashed Germany's Max Schmeling into a helpless, sprawling figure of defeat in less than one round.

Dusky Joe Louis waited two years to avenge the one and only defeat of his professional career but then took little more than two minutes to achieve it under the Yankee Stadium's floodlights with a devastating blast that produced the quickest ending in pugilistic history to a world heavyweight championship match.

The 24-year-old Alabama negro, knocked out in the same ring in 12 rounds by Schmeling in 1936, turned loose an attack of such suddenness and ferocity that the German never had a chance.

BEATEN TO PUNCH

Beaten to the first punch by the Bomber's snake-like left, Schmeling was knocked down three times and so badly battered that his handlers threw in the towel in token of defeat as the time-keeper tolled the count of "eight" on the last knockdown.

The finish came after two minutes, four seconds of the first round as a howling crowd of 80,000 onlookers, thrilled by the negro's spectacular rush to triumph, witnessed the most sensational heavyweight title finish since Jack Dempsey flattened Luis Angel Firpo at the Polo Grounds in September, 1923.

Dempsey's memorable conquest came after 57 seconds of the second round, a total of only three minutes, 57 seconds of whirlwind action.

Schmeling, a picture of confidence beforehand and favored by many to become the first ex-champion in history to regain the heavyweight crown, never had a chance after the bell rang for the first round.

JUSTIFIES PREDICTION

Louis, justifying his own prediction of a short finish, achieved it one round sooner than he expected, with a two-fisted onslaught that left the huge crowd as excited as Schmeling was dizzy after it was all over.

The champion took command on the first exchange, belted Schmeling unmercifully about the head, and quickly had the German in distress. Max was on the verge of going down within the first minute, but covered and hung grimly to the ropes, near his own corner, as he tried desperately to save himself.

Finally forced into the open, Schmeling went down on his side, with a rolling motion, after being clipped with a hard right to the head. He was already so groggy that he took no heed of either the count or warning yells from his own corner. He struggled to his feet, after only three seconds, to meet another withering blast.

On the second knockdown, Schmeling sprawled to all fours, after Louis fired both hands to his jaw. The German's eyes were glassy, his mouth open, but his courage somehow pulled him back to his feet, after a count of only one.

Referee Arthur Donovan, rushing between the two as he waved Louis aside, grabbed Schmeling's gloves to wipe them on his shirt, then stepped aside.

FINISHING PUNCH

Panther-like, measuring his man, Louis stepped in quickly to deliver the finishing punch. His right shot out, landed heavily on Schmeling's jaw, and the German went down for the last time.

Max rolled over on his side, instinctively trying to regain his feet, but there wasn't a chance he could do so. At the count of eight, Max Machon, Schmeling's trainer, tossed the towel into the ring and quickly followed it as he rushed to the aid of the beaten man.

It was thus a technical knockout victory for the champion but it hardly could have been more devastating or complete.

Schmeling did not land a single damaging punch and only once connected with the right hand that spelled defeat for Louis two years ago. He countered solidly with his right, soon after Louis had rushed him at the outset. Joe said afterward that he felt the blow but it didn't even cause him to blink, nor was it followed by anything resembling the attack that made the German a fistic hero in 1936.

PARTLY PARALYZED

Schmeling insisted afterward he was partly paralyzed by a left with which Louis hit him, over the left kidney, after about a minute had elapsed, but the paralyzing effect of Joe's punches to the German's jaw were far more obvious and convincing.

Undaunted, the German went so far, in his dressing room, as to suggest he was, in effect, the victim of a "bad break" and insisted he would like a third crack at the negro. But the "breaks" were the dynamite in Louis's fists tonight and there was not the slightest question of supremacy in the minds of all onlookers.

The crowd didn't quite fill the Yankee Stadium and the gross gate receipts, it appeared, fell somewhat short of the $1,000,000 goal but fans who contributed more than $900,000 to the total "take", witnessed as rare a spectacle as the heavyweight division has ever produced.

The throng and the gate receipts were the biggest since Louis knocked out Max Baer in four rounds before a near $1,000,000 house three years ago. Baer, making a comeback of his own and ambitious to seek the title objective that was belted out of Schmeling's reach tonight, was among the spectators but saw nothing calculated to encourage his aspirations. Nevertheless a return Baer-Louis bout is in the making for this September.

Louis was a 2 to 5 favorite, in ringside betting, but he fought like a man determined to prove there was no reason whatever to speculate upon the outcome.

The man he was supposed to "fear" all but came apart under the deadly impact of his punches. The outcome not only proved that a blast to the chin is far more effective than psychology but satisfied the Louis backers that Joe's defeat of two years ago now could be ascribed definitely to overconfidence or an "accident" or both.

By avenging the one black mark on his record Louis removed any lingering question of his right to be champion of the world.

Famous Helens Steal Show At Wimbledon

BY SCOTTY RESTON
Associated Press Foreign Staff

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 22—(AP)—Two famous Helens stole the show at Wimbledon today—Helen Wills Moody by taking a first step toward he hoped-for eight All-England women's tennis title and Helen Jacobs by fainting in a dressing room.

At the end of almost a year of imperfect health, and 15 pounds underweight, Miss Jacobs collapsed on a bench in the clubhouse just before her scheduled match against the British Wightman Cup player, Joan Ingram.

The match was postponed until tomorrow.

The crowd of around 25,000 which crowded the centre court to see Mrs. Moody's return was drenched late in the afternoon when rain forced suspension of play.

Wearing her familiar eyeshade and a flaming scarlet sweater, Mrs. Moody seemed determined not to run any more than necessary in her opening match. She played well enough, however, to defeat Mrs. Harry C. Hopman, Australia, 6-3, 6-4.

Jean Saunders, the former Calgary player, defeated Miss R. Thomas of Great Britain 6-3, 6-3, in a dull match that found Miss Saunders not extended. Vancouver's Jean Milne was defeated in a mixed doubles match in which she paired with George Morell, Great Britain. Henry Billington and Joan Ingram, Great Britain, won it 6-3, 6-1.

Alice Marble, 1936 United States champion, gave up four games before hitting her stride to defeat Sheila Piercy of South Africa, 6-4, 6-0. Donald Budge disposed of Henry Billington, 7-5, 6-1, 6-1.

Betty Nuthall of England eliminated Dorothy Andrus of New York, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

The seeded ranks in the men's competition remained intact when Budge was joined in the third round by H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England; Henner Henkel, Germany; Ferenc Puncec and Dimitri Mitic, Yugoslavia; Ladislaus Hecht, Czechoslovakia and Kho Sin Kie, China. Roderich Menzel, fourth seeded player from Czechoslovakia, was all-square with W. C. Choy of China when rain halted their match.

Fighters Await Gong In Gigantic Boxing Card At The Forum Tonight

Fit and ready for the gong was the word received from Leo Kelly and Dannie McCormack last night as they wound up their training for the most important ring battles of their careers which take place tonight at the Forum with Kelly meeting the Dominion middleweight champion Ray McIntyre in a 10-round battle, and the Souris boy taking on the fast, brilliant boxing Cecil Braithwaite from Toronto.

Never in the history of Island boxing has such interest been manifest in a fight card. All day yesterday as fight fans discussed last night's heavyweight title match between Louis and Schmeling discussion on tonight's encounters at the Forum was bound to creep into the various conversations and the majority inclined very strongly to the thought that both Kelly and McCormack tonight will give the Upper Canadian boxers plenty of fight before the final gong or referee's ten count halts the battles.

All four principals will enter the ring tonight at the peak of condition. The quartette of able mittslingers have taken their engagements very seriously and all will be out to end their scraps in the quickest way possible. And anything can happen in either scrap. All four are clever boxers but they also carry T.N.T. in either hand once that right opening presents itself so that the fights are liable to end suddenly and dramatically.

Kelly and McIntyre are both very evenly matched both physically and in ability. Both are just 21 years of age with McIntyre carrying a slight advantage in weight and Kelly possessing the longer reach, and the Charlottetown boy also has had 11 pro fights to McIntyre's eight. Not very much experience to boast of perhaps but in those eight fights McIntyre has shown how good he is when he captured the Dominion title from Len Wadsworth just recently. His rise in the game reads like a story from one of the Horatio Alger books but where Alger's tales were fiction the story of Ray McIntyre is the real McCoy.

Kelly hasn't had the meteoric pro rise of McIntyre since he turned professional but his fighting has mostly been confined to Island circles as he hadn't had the chance that came his opponent's way. But taking a peek at his last days in the amateur ranks one finds that in a brief campaign in the States where he won the Albany Golden Gloves tournament and was adjudged the best fighter in the tournament, he certainly stamped himself as a very bright prospect for the ring game. Endowed with wonderful courage Leo Kelly always is at his best when hurt. Then he is like a wounded grizzly as he tears in regardless of the consequences and usually whoever his opponent may be finds it a difficult task to avoid the storm of leather "Irish" throws at him. Ordinarily a slow starter Kelly has corrected this fault of late and his Island followers will see a wonderfully conditioned boy come out of his corner tonight throwing gloves at the reigning Dominion champion of the middleweights.

Glancing briefly at Braithwaite and McCormack, again we find two boys at their peak and both anxious to get their engagement over with as quickly as possible. McCormack, victor over Porter McIntyre of St John just a week ago, will arrive in the city this morning after completing his training yesterday and word from Souris yesterday was to the effect that all his loyal backers are confident of seeing Dannie hurdle his greatest test in the squared circle.

Braithwaite, as fast and clever a boxer as has displayed his wares here in a long while, went through a stiff workout yesterday to complete his training. Not that he needed it any but the colored boy is the type that wants to be going every minute. He is continually crowding an opponent with a whip-like left flashing continually and a right hand cocked for the finisher. That is his style briefly and as he flashed down out of the ring yesterday showing not a trace of fatigue or even breathing fast his only remark on the outcome of his meeting with McCormack was brief and to the point and that was: "I am going to finish my job tomorrow night just as quickly as I can." That was all but the manner in which he said it indicated plainly that behind his words was the utter confidence that he could do it.

Dannie McCormack can supply the answer tonight and perhaps he will supply it in a manner confusing to the ever-smiling Braithwaite.

Much has been said of the main eventers but it shouldn't be forgotten that two preliminary bouts will supply all the action that any one could crave for. There is first that meeting between Dan Mullins of St. Peters and Neil Cheverie of Souris, two bearcats from up the country. In a meeting at Souris last week these two put on the best fight of the card with Cheverie being awarded a close decision after the pair had slugged it out for the entire fight. With much rivalry between them tonight's meeting could be classed as a grudge battle with both boys picking up just where they left off at Souris.

Then there is the Jimmy Allen, Charlottetown, vs. Ernest Greenidge of Toronto scrap. Allen making his first start against Young Claybourne last Friday night after a couple of years absence from the ring showed himself to be a two-fisted, game battler with plenty of steam behind his punches. He won a close decision on that fight and although being up against a little stiffer opposition tonight in the person of Greenidge who has been working out with Braithwaite, nevertheless his backers and handlers are fully confident that Jimmy will give the visitor a merry time of it during the time the battle lasts.

Advance sale of tickets soared yesterday as fans began angling for good seats and the promoters of the affair are fully confident that tonight's card will draw the largest crowd ever to witness a boxing card on the Island.

Maxie Claims Body Punch Was Unfair

By HAROLD J. FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 22—Joe Louis actually let a smile cross his face in his dressing room tonight after his startling one-round knockout of Max Schmeling.

In fact the usually stolid countenance broke wide open as he indulged in a long laugh when an admirer shouted: "So they don't come back, eh Joe?"

"I got what the folks call revenge—and how," said the Brown Bomber when the joyous screams of welcome subsided as he entered the dressing room after flooring the German.

"I had to throw only three good punches to get him. I snook him up a bit with a left that was right hard. But the body punch that came right afterwards was the one that started him down the hill. Then a right to the jaw did the work."

Joe admitted he was a pretty good fight prognosticator. He said he fully expected such a swift victory.

Told that Schmeling claimed the body punch Joe referred to was a smash over the left kidney that left him paralyzed, Louis replied: "Shucks, that was a body lick and not a low one. At that, it was a good punch."

Two doors away, the beaten German declared: "It was absolutely unfair. The first punch hit me so terribly in the kidney, I could not move. I was like paralyzed.

Did Max want to meet him again?

"Oh yes, sure. He haf licked me now and now I go home but I come back and lick him again. You watch and see."

Louis earlier had said he would give the German another fight, adding: "But I sure feel better about being champion since I finally got even with him."

Referee Arthur Donovan said the blow must have been murderous. He heard Max scream when it hit while the ringside observers saw the German twitch with pain.

"I'm not quitting," was Schmeling's final shot. "I want another bout and this time it will be different."

Louis meantime is looking forward to meeting Max Baer in September. He figured Baer would be better than Schmeling because he "can take a punch better."

Imperials Play Rovers Tonight

Rovers seeking their tenth victory of the campaign, tackle the Imperials in tonight's City Softball League encounter at the Park diamond. Down in third place as a result of their recent defeat by the Indians, Imperials are anxious to climb a little closer to the runner-up positions at the Rovers' expense and are going to make an effort tonight to have their strongest lineup on hand. At full strength these Imperials are on a par with any team in the league and although they are trailing in third position at the present time nevertheless when coming to picking winners they just cannot be forgotten.

The game is to start at 6.15 sharp and both teams are advised to be on time as the umpire-in-chief has full authority to award any game if a team cannot field a full squad at the starting hour.

Juvenile Game At Park Tonight

The league-leading V-8's will play the Hawks this evening at the Victoria Park diamond in a scheduled Juvenile Baseball League game.

The V-8's are thus far undefeated, while the Hawks have yet to win their first game.

Standing of the league follows:

	GP.	W.	L.	Pts.
Chevs	4	2	2	4
V-8's	3	3	0	6
Nashes	4	2	2	4
Hawks	3	0	3	0
