Daring Flyer In Honolulu After Perilous Flight

Torrential Rain Nearly Spelled Disaster For Australian Flyer & Navigator On Flight From Fijis.

(By William H. Ewing, Associated Press Staff Writer) (A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) HONOLULU, Oct. 29—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, daring Australian flyer, sped through seeming certain disaster today to reach Honolulu and complete the second leg of a projected perilous flight from Brisbane, Australia, to California. Sir Charles and his navigator, Captain P. G. Taylor, disclosed they had fought torrential equatorial rain into which they flew at midnight from Suva, Fiji Islands. The rain clogged the air speed indicator on the leading edge of the plane wings, making it impossible to tell whether the ship was maintaining sufficient speed to give it headway. This instrument's failure nearly spelled disaster, Sir Charles said. He was fumbling in the cockpit, trying to get the indicator into action, when he accidentally released the retractable landing gear.

Air History Making

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) Aerial adventurers were scattered around the world yesterday and last night in a series of spectacular distance flights. Honolulu—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith set down his monoplane, Lady Southern Cross, after a flight of 3,179 miles from the Fiji Islands enroute to California. Crockett, England—James Fitzmaurice and Eric Bonar, pilots of the "Fifish Sweep" were laid up here with mechanical difficulties after starting a flight to Australia in the hope of beating records established in the recent air derby. Allahabad, India—Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller derby flyers on a back-track flight from Australia to England, rested overnight, their average speed on the return trip well over 200 miles an hour. Melbourne, Eight more planes in the England-to-Australia air derby were sighted aloft at the regional headquarters stated today, but the fall did not impede traffic in any way, all trains operating on schedule time. Snow was also reported at points in the Matapedia Valley as well as a slight fall at Campbellton, N. B.

Heavy Snow Fall In Quebec

MONCTON, N. B., Oct. 29—A heavy snowfall early today blanketed the country in the vicinity of Mont Joli, Que., divisional point on the Canadian National Railway main line about 90 miles north of the New Brunswick headquarters. Snow was also reported at points in the Matapedia Valley as well as a slight fall at Campbellton, N. B.

Application Approved

VICTORIA, Oct. 29—Application of the Probates Recognition Act of British Columbia to the Province of Prince Edward Island has been approved by the government here to put into effect with that province a reciprocity arrangement eliminating the need for payment of double death duties where estates are partly within both provinces. Similar arrangements are in effect with Ontario and Alberta.

Jones And Waller Set Fast Pace On Return Trip

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Oct. 29—Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller, Australian flyer and navigator, returned to Melbourne from England today, after a flight of 3,179 miles from the Fiji Islands to California. The pair, who were sighted aloft at the regional headquarters stated today, but the fall did not impede traffic in any way, all trains operating on schedule time. SEES HOPE OF BENEFIT FROM POTATO SCHEME

Advisory Committees of Producers From Each Province To Be Appointed Along With Board Members.

Results beneficial to the marketing of this year's potato crop are confidently anticipated as a result of last week's conference of potato men at Ottawa, stated Mr. J. J. Trainor, president of the P. E. I. Potato Growers' Association and a member of the Provincial Marketing Board who returned Saturday from attending the conference. Already action has been taken by the Fruit and Vegetable branch of the Department of Agriculture with a view to tightening up the grading regulations, Mr. Trainor explained. This will result in taking a considerable percentage of surplus potatoes off the market. The conference was attended by representative growers, producers and brokers from Ontario, Quebec and the three Maritime Provinces. It was unanimously agreed that some form of marketing regulation was necessary in the interests of all concerned in the potato industry. The idea was canvassed of establishing a marketing board for each province, but it was decided that this would be impracticable for this season's operations, and that the best course was to ask the Federal Minister of Agriculture to set up a board covering the five provinces under section 9 of the Dominion Act. The committee took action and prepared a scheme which they submitted to the Dominion Marketing Board, and after some alterations by the Marketing Board it was agreed, subject to the approval of the farmers of the five provinces. As the speediest means of bringing the matter before the farm producers it was decided to call meetings in the several provinces. The first meeting in this Province will be held in Charlottetown on Thursday night. This will be a central meeting for the whole province, but subsequent meetings will be held to explain the scheme, as opportunity permits.

NEW PILOT FOR PRICE SPREADS COMMISSION

Public Hearings Will Reopen At 11 A. M. Today.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Oct. 29—William W. Kennedy, Conservative member for Winnipeg South-Centre, succeeded Hon. Henry Stevens, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, as chairman of the Mass Buying Royal Commission today as it prepared to continue under a new pilot but with the same objective—detecting flaws and abuses in the Canadian industrial picture. The commission held an executive session this afternoon, preparing for the public hearings which will open at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning and continue until some time in December. The former chairman did not attend the meeting but it was announced this was due to private business, arising from his resignation as a cabinet minister. Fishermen from Nova Scotia will be the first witnesses heard by the commission but before a report is ready for the opening of Parliament, the following industries will be investigated, either striking new ground or following up evidence already heard: chain stores, agricultural implements, flour mills and bakeries, canners, textiles and possibly gasoline. It is hoped to conclude the inquiry in December as a report can be ready for the opening of Parliament. Announcement of the new chairman was made by Premier R. B. Bennett after a cabinet meeting, when the commission set as a member of the House of Commons, it elected its own chairman but the Government had the elective power when it became a commission. Mr. Stevens, although resigning the chairmanship, will continue as a member of the commission. Under the terms of the order-in-council appointing the commission, its duties and powers were established. Chairman Kennedy today gave his opinion the commission could review any subject touched by the former parliamentary committee. Any person or business whose affairs were investigated by the former committee may come before the commission, the chairman said. "That leaves it wide open to any person who said we did not hear his side of the question. The door is wide open." The commission will sit each day except Saturday and Sunday from 11:10 to 12 and 2:30 to 5 o'clock.

FORMER FILM STAR SUICIDES

Lou Tellegen, Star of Silent Films, Dies From Self-inflicted Wounds.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29—Lou Tellegen, matinee idol of the silent film days, died today from seven stab wounds in his breast which police said he apparently inflicted with a pair of scissors. The former husband of Geraldine Farrar, the opera singer, was found dying in a bathroom of his home, the blood-stained scissors near his outstretched right arm. Tellegen, 52 years old, died an hour later. Ill health and the fear he was losing his mind were ascribed by police and his physician as the probable reason for the act. Detective Lieut. Frank Egan, who conducted an investigation, reported the death was undoubtedly suicide. Mrs. J. P. Cudahy, in whose home Tellegen lived, said he had been ill and despondent and expressed fear he was losing his mind. The actor was once leading man for Sarah Bernhardt. In recent years he had been inactive on the screen. He was a matinee idol during the silent films.

Settlement In Fishermen's Strike Looms

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) BOSTON, Oct. 29—Settlement of a strike involving nearly 5,000 fishermen and allied workers which in three weeks has driven the price of fish up 100 percent and caused a shortage of fish for mid-western United States consumption appeared likely tonight. The Massachusetts Fisheries Association, embracing a majority of fishing vessel owners and dealers, agreed to meet a delegation of officials of the three unions involved tomorrow to discuss terms of a possible settlement. Spokesmen for both employers and workers expressed hope that the conference would end the walkout, now in its fourth week.

SIAM SURE MONARCH WILL NOT ABDICATE

Compromise Between King Prajadhipok And Government On Legislation Assured.

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) BANGKOK, Siam, Oct. 29—An attitude of calmness and confidence that King Prajadhipok would be persuaded to return to the throne of his native Siam prevailed tonight in Government circles. Government spokesmen issued assurances that Siam's legislative tangle growing out of promulgation of a law to which the King objected could be straightened out without the King going through with his threat to quit the throne. Refraining from Comment The Press was refraining from comment pending official instructions, and the country's 10,000,000 people were still largely uninformed of what was going on. The Secretary of the State Council said peace-making negotiations already were well under way and gave assurances the King would be persuaded to abandon his threat to abdicate. The diminutive King issued an ultimatum some two weeks ago, it was learned, threatening abdication unless the government acceded to his wishes. Objects to Law He objected to a law promulgated by the Government of Prime Minister Phya Bhalol depriving His Majesty of the last word in imposition of the death penalty in Siam, an age old prerogative of Royalty here. It was learned reliably that no formal abdication papers have been received from the King, who is in England, only a notice of his intention. Peace and order prevailed throughout the country. Reports of a revolution were branded as absurd. Discussions Proceeding LONDON, Oct. 29—(A. P.)—The Siamese legation affirmed tonight that discussions between the King and the Government at Bangkok over a newly promulgated law, to which the King objects, were still proceeding. They had been under way for nearly two weeks. The King, at his temporary retreat in Surrey, was awaiting a reply from Bangkok to his last communication.

TWO DIE FROM FUMES

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) TORONTO, Oct. 29—Believed to have been victims of fumes from fumigation operations, bodies of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Damour were found on the bathroom floor of their west-end apartment late today. Discovery of the bodies was made by police and neighbors who had been called to the scene. Efforts at artificial respiration proved unsuccessful. When the tragedy was discovered, the body of Damour was found fully clothed on the bathroom floor. His wife, in night attire, was sprawled across him, apparently having fallen over the man as she went to his rescue. Hydro cyanic gas was used in the fumigation but no one has stated definitely death was due to the gas poisoning.

REMAINS CONSERVATIVE

OTTAWA, Oct. 29—Hon. H. H. Stevens will continue a member of the Price Spreads and Mass Buying Commission. He will sit also on the Conservative side of the House of Commons at the next session of Parliament as Government member for East Kootenay. Clearly removing all rumors, Mr. Stevens announced definitely these intentions tonight.

British And U.S. Delegates Refuse Equality Demand

Terms Of Jap. Treaty To Supplant London And Washington Pacts Not Acceptable To Two Powers.

(By Harold P. Braman, Associated Press Staff Writer) (A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Oct. 29—Japanese proposals for a new naval treaty to supplant the London and Washington pacts are not acceptable to the British and United States delegates, it was learned today. The Japanese, it was understood, have been informed that the two powers are unable to accept Japan's flat declaration of the principle of equality and their proposal for a maximum or global tonnage basis of limiting armaments. The next move in the vital discussion was therefore up to the Japanese. It was understood that unless they modify their attitude, there is practically no possibility of a compromise. End of Collateral Pacts? A United States spokesman indicated the belief that tearing up the Washington Treaty of 1922 may mean the end of collateral pacts which now guarantee the open door in China and non-aggression in the Far East. The delegation understands that the Japanese would seek to change these pacts or end them entirely should naval limitation be thrown overboard. The next move was up to Japan. It was known that the British and United States delegations have studied ways of giving the Japanese a possible face-saving clause if it is specifically stated in any new treaty that Japan would not have a navy equal in strength to that of Great Britain or the United States. It was learned that until Japan is willing to make such a guarantee, any clause of the kind could not even be considered. Suggestions for a compromise, therefore, must come from the Japanese. Expiration Date of Treaty The seriousness of the situation was further emphasized in American quarters where the belief was expressed that unless the Japanese recede from their position the naval limitation will be a thing of the past within two years from next December, the earliest date at which the Washington Treaty could be destroyed. It was emphasized that there is no "common front" of British and United States interests against Japan, but that they merely agreed after intensively considering the Japanese proposals from all angles, that it would be a mistake to modify the limitation scheme under the Washington Treaty. Both occasions, delegations were represented as willing to make some concessions, like substituting the phrase "relative strength" for the principles of the treaties must be maintained. The Americans feel that military elements dominate the political situation in Japan, preventing the equality of equality already guaranteed by the existing treaties. They also hold that granting the principle of equality to Japan would give the other powers a chance to build upward rather than downward, since they also will want equal recognition. Remain Hopeful During the discussions at historic No. 10 Downing Street, the British and United States delegates (Continued on Page 6)

MAY ASSUME CABINET POSITION

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Oct. 29—The presence of R. B. Hanson, Conservative member for York-Sunbury, N. B., in Ottawa and his conference with Premier R. B. Bennett today has given rise to rumors that he is to be taken into the cabinet. The suggestion is that Hon. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health, would be made Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick with a shuffle of cabinet portfolios so that Mr. Hanson would not take over the department Col. MacLaren vacated.

HOME DESTROYED

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) YARMOUTH, N. S., Oct. 29—Fire early today forced Mrs. E. Vanenburg and her daughter Cella to flee in night clothes from their home into snow and hail and a biting 25-mile wind. The dwelling was destroyed while the owner, Aubrey A. Potter, slept through the excitement in a summer cabin a few hundred yards away.

Important Legislation Before British House

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Oct. 29—A heavy programme of important social, economic and political legislation headed by the vital problem of home rule in India, faces Parliament, which reconvenes tomorrow after the summer holiday to wind up the affairs of the old session and prepare for the state opening of the new by the King late in November. The Cabinet met today to put the finishing touches on the policies it will present, but consideration of the report on India is likely to be postponed, along with most of the other important issues, until the new session. Tomorrow begins the tag-end of the third session of the 36th parliament since the Union Act of 1901, and it is expected to occupy itself principally with cleaning up the work that was interrupted by the summer holidays. Legislation to be dealt with, either now or through the later winter, includes plans for increased Empire defences, moves to bring about an inquiry into armaments exports, various schemes for further aid for agriculture and industry, and many highly controversial measures of domestic interest. The Labor Party will again be headed by the veteran George Lansbury, who had made an excellent recovery of his strength after suffering a fractured thigh. Measures for increasing the Empire's defences will be discussed early in the session.
