No C.I.O. Peace Move Towards Rival Camp

By Tom Cowan
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 19 (AP)—A tumultuous session of the annual convention of the congress of industrial organizations, whipped into a cheering frenzy during a bitter attack by John L. Lewis against William Green and the leadership of the American Federation of Labor, served notice late today that there would be no immediate peace overtures to the rival labor camp.

In a fighting mood, the cheers of the packed convention hall sometimes drowned out his words. Lewis blasted a proposal by Sidney Hillman's clothing workers union for immediate peace to explore labor peace possibilities.

"It would be a waste of time," he declared, "to raise the hopes of millions of people in this country by making it appear that there is any possibility of peace."

When Lewis finished, the convention adopted a recommendation that the C. I. O. continue its present policy toward labor unity. This includes the maintenance of a standard of unity for any conference and continuance of the C. I. O.'s plan for organizing mass production workers into one union for each industry.

Frank Rosenbloom of the Amalgamated Clothing workers and the delegates earlier in the session that he was not satisfied with the progress the C. I. O. had made in the past year, and added:

"We want to explore the possibilities for peace and if we can get peace, we want it."

Lewis turned toward the members of his mine workers union on the floor to loose another blast at Green.

Obviously referring to Green's resignation from the miners' union after the A. F. L.-C.I.O. war began, and the subsequent issuance of a charter to the progressive mine workers union in Illinois, Lewis declared:

"The United Mine workers do not propose now or in the future to return to the A. F. L. and be led by a man who betrayed them."

William Green betrayed the union that honored and led him, and fled to the tent of its natural enemy."

The tumultuous debate over labor peace ended a session that began with dramatic fashion when Philip Murray, the only man mentioned by delegates as a successor to Lewis when the latter retires this week, announced to the delegates that he is not a candidate for the office.

Murray's friends said he made the announcement to clear his position in the convention, and that they believed he would accept the C.I.O. presidency on his own terms if it was demanded by a unified organization.

FIND WOMEN ARE MORE CAREFUL

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—J. A. Haugh of Toronto, chairman of the board of directors of the Textile and Allied Industries Safety Association, today said at an association meeting here that women in industry were more careful workers than men. He said that although more than 50 percent of the employees of Ontario's 1,202 textile and allied industries plants were women, they were involved in only two percent of the accidents for which compensation and medical attention were paid by the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board during the past year.

Scout News and Notices

A number of British Scout Troops have suffered the loss of their meeting places "through enemy action." In one recent week two Troops Headquarters were struck by German bombs and reduced to ashes.

Scouts of the 2nd Salish Troops, England, have their own fire-fighting unit, a trailer pump drawn by the Scoutmaster's car. They have on several occasions given valuable aid in fighting fires following German bombing attacks.

Boy Scout training is rapidly becoming an outstanding feature in the cultural development of India. A new experiment in education of major importance launched a year ago, and already a pronounced success, is the Punjab College of Physical Training and Scouting. The college plant comprises many acres of playing fields and gardens, in addition to the well equipped buildings; and every student is trained in the principles and practice of Scouting, including physical development. It will ensure sound leadership in the future for the Punjab.

A Scouting anniversary of unusual features was the banquet celebrating the 30th anniversary of the launching of the first Boy Scout Troop in Moose Jaw, Sask. The banquet was held in the same room of Zion Church in which the Troops was organized by Rev. Dr. J. F. Salton, in 1910, and the large gathering included a number of the original members of the group. Presentations included a Thanks Badge for Thomas Miller, one of the original leaders, and a 19-year service badge to Scoutmaster C. F. Kempton, presented by one of the first Scouts, Alderman A. E. Chagnon, and a Medal of Merit for Secretary V. Alex Saunders. Other "originals" listed in the roll call but not present included Mr. F. C. Irwin, for many years Assistant Provincial Scout Commissioner for Ontario, and Lt.-Col. Rufus T. Spooner, a leader of young people's work in the Salvation Army. The guest speaker, Provincial Commissioner S. J. Latta, talked of "The Relationship of Scouting to Democracy."

17,000 used medicine bottles of the desked size were collected by the Boy Scouts of Saint John, N.B., for the district hospital unit of the R.C.A.M.C.

The Boy Scouts of Norway are reported still carrying on notwithstanding the unenviable attitude of the German invaders. They are cutting timber for winter fuel supplies, and are assisting in selling the "Norway Pin" to raise funds for the rebuilding of the ha dest hit sections of Norway.

Not forgetting, in spite of the war, the Scouts' promise to be kind to animals, the 1st Harmondsworth Boy Scout Troop, England, have conceived the idea of starting an animal ambulance, and is helping look after animals, particularly cats and dogs, injured during air raids.

Imperial Headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association is receiving numerous letters from men in His Majesty's Forces expressing appreciation for the Boy Scouts of America training. One Scout wrote to thank his Scoutmaster for teaching him to swim so that he was able to swim from the beach at Dunkirk to a barge, and subsequently escaped.

Wide publication in Canada of a Louisville, Ky., dispatch announcing that two experimental troops of Air Scouts were to be organized by the Boy Scouts of America brought inquiries to Dominion Scout Headquarters concerning such plans for Canada.

There is no intention of teaching Canadian Boy Scouts to fly. Two new Scout Airman Proficiency Badges recently inaugurated, the "Flying Lions," were adopted with the object of generally instructing Scouts in the principles of aviation but particularly with the purpose of qualifying them to give landing directions and other aid to flyers circling to find an emergency landing place. Special attention in the instructions is given to procedure to be followed and help to be rendered in case of an aeroplane crash.

THE MORNING STAR

A jewel on the brow of the morn, It ushers in a new-born day, It may be calm, it may be storm, It is for serious work not play.

Morning glory is so sweet, Grand aspirations it doth raise, Let it lead us on our lagging feet, To duty, but give God the praise.

Another day, a gift divine, For virtuous ways and noble deeds, So you say this day is mine, To cultivate flowers or weeds.

The morning star invites new life, Of faith and hope in our souls, 'Tis not for raucous or for strife, For good deeds it you enrolls.

Another day of war and strife, The grapple of beleaguered cities, 'Tis thus the nations waste their life And dissipate day's fruitful hours.

Another day to vanquish faults, Or some obstruction in our way, But at this weaker hours, And in inaction wastes the day.

A precious day, a gift of God, To grow in moral stature strong, In patience bear correction's rod, Uphold the right, beat down the wrong.

A voice inspired speaks from far, And promises him that overcomes, That glorious gift, the morning star, But not for him, who duty shuns.

TEN ARE ARRESTED

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP)—Police said tonight they had taken four women and six men into custody early in the morning who allegedly were distributing tracts through the city and suburban sections. Two of the women were held on nominal vagrancy charges and the others were allowed to go after questioning, police said.

They said the tracts contained matter similar to those of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect before it was declared illegal under the Defence of Canada regulations.

PILOT PLANE LYING PRONE

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Fighter pilots of the future will fly their super-fast machines while lying on their stomachs because this will be the only way the human frame can bear the strain of banking and pulling out from a dive at the speeds certain to be reached, the Evening Standard Air Correspondent predicts.

Pilots flying in the orthodox sitting position would be more liable to "black out"—a loss of vision caused by an abnormally sharp movement which produces pressure inside the skull and acts on the blood vessels in the abdomen. Dilation of these vessels withdraws blood from the brain into the abdominal pool but if the airman is lying down while taking sharp curves there is less tendency for the blood to surge into the abdominal pool.

The correspondent did not believe the prone position would make much difference to the pilot's efficiency as a flier. He would be able to see everything below, above and around him. Mirrors might help him see to the rear.

Moreover, the prone position of the pilot would assist the streamlining of the fuselage of super-fighter in that it could be reduced in depth made more rounded, and possibly shortened.

Eric The Skunk Hailed As Hero By Institute

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The American Wildlife Institute today hailed the skunk as the new woodland hero of the land.

The much-avoided little animal has proven his right to recognition on the slopes of the New York Conservation Department's Saratoga nursery, world's largest forest tree production plant.

Zealously cultivating several million seedlings and transplants, the Saratoga scientists became alarmed when they discovered the nursery tract harbored almost as many grub worms and tree shooters.

The worms began cutting into the young trees and there wasn't much the scientists could do about it.

Enter the skunk—just a lone skunk.

Now grubs make a tasty morsel for skunks, so the one that arrived at Saratoga suddenly found himself overwhelmed with a delicious plenty of things he holds best in life.

The seedling situation improved remarkably. The worms disappeared, did everything to make him happy. They even built him what are described as the finest living quarters ever provided for a skunk.

In "protective custody" since early autumn, the little tree saver has become docile and gentle as he goes about his conservative work.

The skunk has not been deodorized, hence he commands the greatest of consideration even from those who don't realize the value of his work. No unnecessary noise is encouraged near his pen.

Things have been so easy that there are ugly rumors the animal is getting fat and lazy of late.

His work has been done well, though, and in the United States conservation program he's saved whose forests-to-be.

SEES MANY MOOSE ALONG THE RIGHT-OF-WAY

MONCTON, N.B., Nov. 19.—Moose are becoming plentiful in New Brunswick once more, according to Robert Magee, of this city, who states that he has seen numerous moose while engaged on his route as a locomotive fireman on the Ocean Limited of the Canadian National Railway between Moncton and Campbellton, which crosses him through the famed Miramichi district of the province. He states that he has seen many moose along the right-of-way and when in Albert County recently he saw one in a game hunting during the season in between trips is of the opinion that the beaver has a lot to do with the scarcity of otherwise of moose. His theory being that the beaver in constructing their dams create backwaters where the moose can go and wallow to get rid of insects.
