SPORT NOTES

FOOTBALL

This good old game has had a hard luck streak this season, that is as far as weather conditions were concerned. At the beginning of the season the prospects looked bright and it was confidently expected that it would come back with a bang, but the weather changed and the old pigskin was forced out for a long period and then it seemed harder than ever to get the boys to take the same interest they were showing in the earlier stages of the season.

However Saint Dunstan's and Prince of Wales kept hammering along and took the advantage whenever possible with the result that their last encounter showed a marked improvement over the first, but the P. W. C. boys had the extra punch that pulled them out on top and won for them the Intermediate Intercollegiate championship.

This was somewhat of a surprise both to the Saint Dunstan's squad and to themselves, as their team was made up of practically all new material to the game, but under the skillful coaching of Prof. W. J. McDonald and the determination of the players to make good, coupled with that spirit of never say die, they showed the way to their old rivals the Saint second team. To the P. W. C. boys we extend congratulations on their splendid achievement as the result of hard work well done.

The Saints second team men all worked hard and gave their all to bring their college out on top, but their failure to do so we hope will only spur them on to making greater endeavours for next season in which we wish 'em luck.

Mount Allison and Abegweit's this week staged what might be truly termed a hectic battle on the Abegweit field which owing to heavy rain was anything but fit for bringing out the finer points of the game, but both squads fought a hard fight when again hard work and the consistency of team play showed its part to great advantage for the Mount A. Boys.

The Abegweits, while playing a hard game, fighting against the odds of lack of practice all the way, still a stellar brand of ball for a team that did not have one practice together this fall, it showed the boys for one thing that practice makes perfect and the Mount A. were nearly all that.

Today the Saints and Abegweits clash in their second game for the Provincial title at the Abbie grounds where they defeated St. Francis Xavier College, three to nothing. The game was played on a field covered with snow from last night's storm and accurate handling of the ball was almost impossible.

The technical college scored their try in the second half, when their three quarters combined nicely to have the wing man go over in the corner.

The try was not converted.

The Technical College will now play the University of New Brunswick for the Maritime title. This will be the third in as many years that these two teams have played in the final.

World Famous Ballad Provides Basis of Fine Film Romance

SONG OF TWO CENTURIES AGO SERVES AS INSPIRATION FOR PICTURE COMING TO SCREEN IN MODERN SETTING.

Using a popular ballad as the basis of a screen tale proved so successful in the case of "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," one of the outstanding productions presented by Columbia Pictures last season, that this company has taken the title of another well-known song for one of its features of the current season—"Sally in Our Alley" now at the Prince Edward Theatre.

The words and music of "Sally in Our Alley" are known everywhere. The original "Sally," in the poem written by Henry Carey, a prominent English author, teacher, poet, and musician, about 200 years ago, was a simple English maiden, the sweetheart of a shoemaker's apprentice. She lived in the same neighborhood as her lover, and their simple courtship is featured in the song.

In Columbia's adaptation of this ballad, "Sally" is a joyous little Irish maid, who lives in a tenement alley. Her sweetheart is a young plumber lad. When Sally is left an orphan at her mother's death, she is adopted by three kindly foster-fathers, a Scotch merchant, a Jewish pawnbroker, and an Italian ice-cream man. A wealthy aunt becomes interested in Sally and she is taken away from her unpretentious friends to her aunt's luxurious home. How she discovers that wealth is not the most important factor in her happiness provides the material for the events that bring the ending of the picture parallel to that of the song.

Shirley Mason, who demonstrated her particular aptitude for East Side-Uptown portrayals in "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," is starred in the title role of "Sally."

Richard Arlen, who was loaned to Columbia by Paramount Famous Lasky for the juvenile lead in "The Blood Ship" and gave a highly commendable performance in the part, plays opposite Miss Mason as her plumber sweetheart.

Included in the supporting cast of "Sally in Our Alley" are such well-known names as Alec B. Francis, Paul Panzer and William H. Strauss as the trio of foster-fathers; Kathryn Williams, as the wealthy aunt; Florence Turner, as Sally's mother; and Harry Crocker, as a wealthy suitor. Walter Lang directed.

Around Old Heidelberg an excellent scenic feature and "Smith's Candy Shop" a very laughable picture completes this fine special week end program which is repeated today afternoon and evening.

Miles Comes Back

John Miles formerly of Sydney Mines and now of Hamilton, Ont., came back to Nova Scotia this week and staged a real come back. Many followed the long trail grind were of the opinion that Miles would never again breast the tape a winner over a full marathon course, but in this they were wrong. Miles not only breast the tape a winner by a wide margin, but finished with a great sprint and was apparently quite fresh and was only about fifteen minutes behind his time made in April 1926 in the longest Marathon. Miles is keeping to the long route, letting the shorter distance alone and in this we think he has solved the problem of aging coming to the fore over the long distance route.

Nova Scotia Tech. Are Champions of Eastern Section

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 10.—The Nova Scotia Technical College today won the championship of the eastern section of the Maritime Intercollegiate Football League when they defeated St. Francis Xavier College, three to nothing. The game was played on a field covered with snow from last night's storm and accurate handling of the ball was almost impossible.

The technical college scored their try in the second half, when their three quarters combined nicely to have the wing man go over in the corner.

The try was not converted.

The Technical College will now play the University of New Brunswick for the Maritime title. This will be the third in as many years that these two teams have played in the final.

Vic Foley is Victor Over Kewpie Eckland

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Nov. 11.—Vic Foley, of Vancouver, B. C., former bantamweight champion of Canada, gave Kewpie Eckland, of Seattle, a boxing lesson until the referee halted the scheduled six round bout in the fourth round.

Some of the Pro. teams have already clashed in exhibition games, and judging by the weather the first thing we know the ponds will be frozen over and then for the first floor on the Arena.

It may be a little early yet to speak of hockey here, and yet it is, there is the conditioning of the players to consider and from the time they are able to don the blades until the first games are called leaves little time for this essential part of the training.

We would say this is the time for this part of the program and then it will have all the more time for other important parts of the game when the ice forms. So let's not have it too late.

Wonderful Show At Strand Theatre

THOMSON SCORES GREAT SUCCESS.

Fred Thomson and his wonderful horse, Silver King, breezed across the Strand theatre screen last night registering another conclusive motion picture triumph.

As in previous films of the great West, Thomson wanders off the beaten path in this latest of his starring pictures for FBO "Silver Comes Through" and by virtue of his splendid performance in an unique story wins his way characteristically into the hearts of his enthusiastic fans. "Silver Comes Through" possesses a liberal quota of thrill material developed to the nth degree by the vital performance of the popular Western star, aided by his wondrous horse, and it has a well-defined love theme of a most wholesome type.

Edna Murphy, who plays the leading feminine role, is again seen at decided advantage in this, though it is her first opposite Thomson. And the remainder of the cast including William Courtwright as Miss Murphy's headstrong rancher father, whose love for horses nearly proves his undoing, Harry Woods as the "menace" and Mathilde Brundage, is splendid chosen.

Briefly, the story recounts Thomson's adventures as a rider of the cattle range in an effort to "Pal," "Silver King," in a thrilling cross-country race, in an effort to win the hand of the woman he loves and at the same time to save her father from financial ruin. The story moves freely through its picturesque Western atmosphere and works up to a tremendously appealing climax to the accompaniment of a surprising series of thrilling episodes.

The last chapter of "Melting Millions," kept the serial fans keyed up until the final fade out. The advertised comedy missed communications but will be shown today at all shows.

BOXING

Since the boxing match of a week ago at Charlottetown between McKenna and Runcorn there has been little doing of local interest, and there has been quite a lull until today it was again renewed when it became known that McKenna, the ideal of the middleweight class in the Maritimes was just nosed out of the decision at Halifax by Rene Devos of Belgium and middleweight champion of Europe, the fight account gave it as a fierce battle and well, we can believe this as McKenna is some game slugger with a wild cat attack.

Devos' boxing ability must have been of the very best, for McKenna's motto is "Fight a boxer and box a fighter," it would seem from this that Devos got in ahead on the motto and boxed a fighter, but at that it must have been some hitting scrap and no mistake, McKenna was breezing along strong and removing 'em all by the k.o. route until he met Devos, possibly his little temporary set back will do him more good than harm.

HOCKEY

This grand old and exciting national pastime game is just around the corner, in fact the Pro. League will get going next week on Tuesday night, Nov. 15th with Montreal at Ottawa, Canadiens at Americans, Rangers at Toronto, Chicago at Boston, Detroit at Pitts-

FOOTBALL

This afternoon at 3.30 at the Abegweit grounds the Saints and Abbies will meet in the second football game for the Island title, the Saints have already won the first by 6 to 0 and the Abbies will have to take today's game to be in the running.

Should the Saints win they will once again become the Island champions and the old pigskin will likely be laid aside for another year, should the Abbies hold them to a draw, another game at least will be necessary. Can the Abbies do it? Some say no, and yet the Abbies have come through before and if they can furnish the same brand of ball as they did against Mt. A. they

The Man Who Had No Use For Life Insurance

THIRTY years ago, he was a prosperous merchant with a business worth $50,000.00. His ambition was to develop it to a value of $100,000.00. For months, he resisted all arguments to buy life insurance, but, finally, signed an application and received a thirty-year endowment policy for $3,000.00.

At the end of thirty years he wanted to retire. But times had changed. His business had not grown, as he expected. Instead of the $100,000.00 of his early ambition, he salvaged only $11,000.00!

Accumulated profits had brought the total payment he received on his $3,000.00 endowment to $2,200.00.

Thirty years ago he had little or no use for life insurance. Today he says insurance is like an anchor in the cross-currents of life.

Armistice Day

despatch rider going over a road that the enemy had just vacated saw ahead of him a motor cycle lying in the ditch and a few thin props sticking out of the grass nearby. As he neared the spot the props proved to be limbs and between them was lying the body of Ned Koxning with a smile on his face and his glassy eyes looking through the trees to Heaven. The hundreds of thousands of little wooden crosses over there bear silent testimony to a similar sacrifice.

What for that immolation of young manhood whose broken and bleeding bodies were left lying where they fell or gathered up to be restored to permanent invalids. As Edith Cavell said, "Patriotism is not enough." The partial peace we have gained is not a sufficient atonement. It is all in vain unless it tends to the establishment of something permanent—in vain unless we catch their spirit, unless we bring the loyalty and devotion which they brought to duty and put it, not to the increasing of armaments to make further war possible but at the feet of that One Who Himself was Crucified but out of death was able to bring victory; that One has said, "I am come that they might have life and that they
