A Sister Of Mercy

MISS GEORGINA FANE POPE IS A VETERAN OF TWO WARS AND DEAN OF THE MILITARY NURSES OF CANADA

(The Canadian Magazine)

One of the wittiest and merriest of women in the life of Charlottetown today is one who has spent almost seven years of her life on active military duty with Canadian troops abroad, and many more years on garrison duty. She is Miss Georgina Fane Pope, one of the daughters of Judge W. H. Pope, a Father of Confederation, and sister of Sir Joseph Pope, for so long the loyal private secretary to Sir John A. MacDonald.

Forty years ago, when the nursing profession was still in its infancy and it was still a new thing for girls of culture and refinement to devote themselves to attendance on the sick, Georgie Pope set out from Charlottetown for New York, where she entered the Bellevue Hospital, the mother of training schools in America.

After her graduation in Bellevue Hospital Miss Pope, who had already indicated her executive ability, went direct to the post of superintendent of a private hospital in Washington, in the vanguard of that host of Canadian nurses who have since established themselves in the choicest posts in the nursing profession in the United States. From the private hospital Miss Pope went to the Columbia Hospital for Women in the same city, where she started a training school for nurses.

Later she went into further post-graduate studies until the autumn of 1899 when, for the first time in its history, Canada was arming troops for the defense of the British ideal abroad. Canadian troops must have Canadian nurses. Canadian women have kept pace with their men throughout the country's history of colonization and settlement, and Canadians should not travel abroad in defence of their national principles without their womenfolk in attendance.

Col. J. L. Nelson, then director of medical services at Ottawa, offered Miss Pope the privilege of organizing a little nursing service which was to sail abroad with Canada's first overseas contingent, to the South African War.

There were no precedents, not even a uniform for Canadian nurses. Miss Pope selected a uniform which consisted of a bicycle skirt and a Russian blouse, with brown leather shoes and belt, a khaki hat with a red brush.

There were three other sisters in Miss Pope's little detachment, a brave little band of pioneer women, who boarded a troopship at Quebec in October of 1899, to the music of bands, and the tears and cheers of friends along the piers. A month later they landed at Capetown.

"And we were afraid the war might be over," confessed Miss Pope as she talked of her adventure.

The Canadian women had to bid a cheery farewell to their men as they were entrained for the front. They were not to see any of them again until they came down the lines ill or wounded.

Canadian Nurses at the Cape

The Canadian nurses were sent to Number One Hospital at Wynberg where they were badly needed. At that time there were only forty nurses on duty in the whole of the armisties at the Cape. A year later there were a thousand.

The first patients to pass through the hands of the Canadians were men from the conflicts at Magersfontein and Modder River. On Christmas Day the four nurses reached a new post, a six hundred bed hospital at Ronderbosch, where they lived under canvas for six months in daily terror of scorpions and snakes, and suffering from sand and rain storms.

A little after a year from her arrival at the Cape Miss Pope and her nurses were returned to Halifax aboard a transport, there to form a little reserve of nursing sisters. But fresh trouble developed at the Cape and a third Canadian contingent sailed eastward, with eight nurses attached. Miss Pope was one of them. The nursing sisters sailed to Liverpool, and then embarked at Southampton for Durban and Harmsmit.

There Miss Pope remained until peace was signed.

When the British troops left Halifax and a Canadian garrison took over the defence of the city, Miss Pope was appointed to take charge of the station hospital and there began long years of devoted service to the soldiers and sailors of the port city.

A Nurse in the Great War

When the Great War broke out, Miss Pope again volunteered and was among the first to cross the sea, rather mean trick which was played

Delegates To Maritime Meeting At Sackville Have Busy Day.

SACKVILLE, June 6.—The Maritime Conference of the United Church in Canada, at Saturday morning's session of its seventh annual meeting, passed a resolution taking a strong stand against the liquor traffic in all its forms, and condemned the systems of government sale of liquor in the eight provinces which have adopted the measure as being a failure. The resolution also expressed the opinion that there is only one solution to the problem and that is complete prohibition. The Conference also passed resolutions protesting against the practice of raising funds by means of lotteries, and affirming the obligation of communities to ensure an opportunity of employment for all of their citizens. Another resolution expressed belief in industrial insurance on a contributory basis. Considerable time at this morning's session was occupied with the hearing of reports and other routine business.

SACKVILLE, June 5.—(Special)—Speakers at Friday's evening's session of the Maritime Conference of the United Church were Mrs. R. A. Jamieson, of Saint John, president of the Conference Branch of the W. M. S., who brought the greetings of that society and spoke briefly on the work being done; Dr. H. F. Munro, superintendent of education for Nova Scotia, who spoke on "World peace and disarmament," and Rev. Dr. R. B. Cochrane, of Toronto, secretary of foreign and home missions. Rev. Mr. Cochrane took for his theme "The task of the United Church in Canada today."

The chief items of business at this afternoon's session were the reports

Morning Session

Rev. G. Campbell Wadsworth, D. D., Saint John, conducted the devotional service this morning. He was assisted by Rev. E. E. Stiles, Hantsport, N. S., and Rev. William Girwood, Canso, N. S.

A telegram was received from the Manitoba Conference, which is also in session, expressing good wishes for the Maritime Conference.

Rev. Dr. Clarence MacKinnon, principal of Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, spoke of a resolution of the Windsor presbytery concerning the need of the presbytery having closer supervision of the studies of students for the ministry and for a policy that would have graduates take up the more difficult fields.

Dr. MacKinnon made a plea for laymen to consider the motives that should actuate them in the calling of ministers.

In reference to the appeal for the Pine Hill fund, Dr. MacKinnon said that while the college received $16,000 before Union this year it received only between $11,000 and $12,000. About $31,000 has been subscribed toward the $50,000 fund, and $18,000 has been paid.

Rev. Dr. F. H. Holmes, of Fredericton, spoke on the obstacles which beset the appeal. He thought that when an appeal is made for educational institutions it should be a combined appeal. He offered a motion commending the work of Pine Hill Divinity Hall and that the campaign for $50,000 be carried on to a successful end.

Dr. G. J. Trueman, president of Mount Allison University, reported a record attendance. The college has all the students it can care for. The large numbers is an indication of the interest of the people in education. Sixty-eight men in the university are preparing for the ministry, as well as seven or eight more in the academy. With very few exceptions, they are measuring up to the qualifications.

Rev. W. C. Ross, principal of the Ladies' College, reported a capacity attendance in that institution. Almost 200 girls were in residence. He made an special appeal for the organ department.

Rev. W. T. Ross Flemington, principal of the academy, reported the largest attendance this year and the largest class of graduates in the history of the institution.

Increase Shown

D. W. MacDonald, New Glasgow, N. S. reported for the committee of the missionary and maintenance fund, of which he is conference chairman. The committee noted with appreciation that in a year of depression the Conference had raised $231,780, being an increase of $5,615 over the previous year. The objective for 1932 is $300,000.

Rev. Bayne Earle, St. Stephen, reported an increase in attendance over the previous year. There has been a total decrease of 3,000 from the best year since union, however. A survey of the field seemed necessary to see that all children had opportunity for adequate religious education. The Tuxis and Trail Rangers and C. G. I. T. programs were heartily commended.

Rev. E. V. Forbes, of Shubenacadie, reported for the special young people's training school to be held in Sackville in July. Eight young people have been registered. A strong staff has been secured.

Dr. G. J. Trueman introduced the new secretary of religious education, Rev. R. W. O'Brien, M. A., in warmest terms of commendation. Mr. O'Brien spoke on the importance of a Christian character training.

Mr. Earle presented the recommendations of the committee, which were accepted by the conference.

At the afternoon's session, the Conference passed a resolution of condolence to Mrs. J. T. Cavers and family of Toronto, whose husband, Rev. John T. Cavers, former secretary of the Inter-provincial Home for Young Women at Covedale, died in Toronto today.

Banquet Held

The Pine Hill Divinity Hall Alumni Association held its banquet in the Ladies' College this evening, Rev. C. E. Crowell, of Amherst, was elected president for the ensuing year. Among the speakers was Dr. R. B. Cochrane, of Toronto, Dr. Thompson, of Pine Hill, and Dr. MacKinnon.

Mr. Lewis Stuart, South Lake, was a recent visitor to Charlottetown.

Miss Cecilia Mossey, Bothwell, arrived home on Saturday evening from U. S. A.

Miss Dorothy Moynagh, teacher at Lakeville School, spent the recent holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moynagh, Souris East.

Visitors to South Lake on Sunday May 31st included Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cameron and daughter Margaret, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davis and their son John, of Charlottetown.—C.

TINY LOCOMOTIVE WORKS

MULLENS, W. Va., June 8.—Vernon Musser, a machinist, has built what he believes to be the smallest steam locomotive capable of operation. It is 22 inches long, with a boiler 13 inches long, withstanding a pressure of 75 pounds. Alcohol is used for fuel. The boiler has 21 flues with a throttle in the dome.

GLEANINGS FROM HAZELBROOK

The many friends of Mr. Philip Wood are pleased to learn he is able to be home again, after his recent operation in the P. E. Island Hospital.

Mrs. Margaret Wood, Cross Roads, spent Sunday in Hazelbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lund and family, who spent the week end in Bethel, returned to their home in St. John, N.B.

Messrs. George and James McDougall, Bangor, were recent visitors here, the guests of their sister, Mrs. Harold Carver.

Mrs. Kent Jones is visiting at her old home in Northam.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones have taken up their abode in Hazelbrook. Their many friends wish them "A long and happy wedded life."

Mr. George Humes, Iris, spent the week end here, the guest of Mr. Olyver Myers. Splendid violin and harmonica music was furnished by Mr. Humes while in Hazelbrook and greatly enjoyed by all who had the pleasure of hearing him.

Miss Gladys Birt, teacher, Bethel, spent the week end at her home in Pisiquid.

The many friends of Mrs. H. Jenkins are sorry to learn of her indisposition.

Mrs. Lennox Weatherbie, Millview, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Hannock Carver.

GET PALM LEAF BOOKS

CHAPEL HILL N. C. June 8.—Three East Indian sacred books written on strips of palm leaves have been presented to the University of North Carolina's library collection by Dr. W. P. Jacobs, of Colombo, Ceylon, a native of North Carolina. The books are written in the Singhalese language.

MT. ALBION

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Fraser, City, were visitors to Mt. Albion on Sunday, the guests of Mr. W. J. Carver.

Mr. Russell Clark, Mt. Stewart, passed through Mt. Albion on Sunday.

Miss Amy Myers, Hazelbrook, was the guest of her sister Mrs. Garfield Shaw, Alberry Plains on Sunday.

Mr. John H. Myers has in his possession a wild duck which he keeps as a caller. Missing her from home he made a search and discovered that she was setting in a nearby grove, and what was his surprise when on Sunday out she came with twelve handsome ducks, of which needless to say, Mr. Myers is justly proud.

The Misses Julia and Margaret Myers were recent visitors to Alberry Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Peardon and Master Johnny, Mrs. Helen and Wm. Peardon and Mrs. Phillip Lane, were recent visitors here the guests of Mr. W. J. Carver.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 8.—The comprehensive bookkeeping system of an alleged Al. Capone liquor syndicate which collapsed here Tuesday with the arrest of nearly 40 persons was a source of concern today to men listed as its patrons.

Chet Keyes, assistant district attorney announced that with reports that such a system had been seized, dozens of persons had appealed to him for immunity from publicity. He said they included men of high social, business and professional standing and one clergyman.

The books, accounts disclosed, named nearly 800 retail customers in Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska and Texas.

Miss Pope describes herself whimsically as a back number now, but she confesses that the sight of soldiers or sailors marching, a bugle call or the sound of drums sets her foot tapping and her heart singing with the old enthusiasm.

Miss Julia Myers, student at C. B. C., is to be congratulated on having successfully passed her examinations and secured her diploma in the business department.

Service at the Hazelbrook Baptist Church on Sunday was conducted by the Rev. G. E. MacDonald, Secy. of the Lord's Day Alliance who delivered a forceful and eloquent address. Rev. A. C. Vincent was present and introduced the speaker. During the service Miss Frances Wood rendered a beautiful solo.
