HER DIAMONDS IN PAWNSHOPS
With the disappearance of a young woman who had entree to several fashionable homes on Fifth avenue, New York, and the discovery by the police of many diamonds in Bowery pawnshops, a diamond swindle amounting to more than $100,000 is believed to have been uncovered. A man with whom the young woman formed a partnership in the sale of diamonds on memoranda is also missing. The Grand Jury will begin an investigation.
The investigation by the police resulted from the arrest of Francis E. Cocks, a diamond broker, on Saturday, charged with withholding diamonds intrusted to him by another broker. Cocks' explanation to the district attorney was that he gave the diamonds to the young woman to sell and that she had not returned them. Other brokers then told of having given the woman diamonds to sell on commission and a search of pawnshops resulted in finding about $9,000 worth of these gems.

The woman, who is described as about 30 years old and handsome, has been missing since October 31, as she always carried between $10,000 and $50,000 worth of diamonds, a stock sufficient for a month, her absence gave the dealers no concern. She began selling diamonds on memoranda in a small way two years ago, and last year her sales are said to have amounted to more than $500,000.

The woman's dealings with the brokers began by small purchases on which she paid half the price quoted, later paying the full amount. Soon she began taking out larger stones, saying that she had left them at various fashionable homes for approval. As her accounts were always paid, her credit soon became unlimited.
