

THE QUEEN'S COUNTY GUARDIAN

Head Offices in New Prowse Block--Charlottetown.

James Simpson, Bay View, was in the City yesterday.

The plumbers of this City were kept busy yesterday owing to the intense cold of the previous night.

The machinists of the P.E.I. will play the accounts office a friendly game of hockey in the Arena tonight at seven o'clock.

The Dutchess of this city are out with a challenge for the plumbers. This is no pipe yara. There will probably be laughter when the teams get together for their game of hockey.

Any civic candidate who is disposed to allow his photo to go on the scene in the Opera House should communicate with the manager of Fairland. Every man has an equal privilege with another.

The temperature dropped to nine below zero on Monday night, and continued very cold through the early morning. A nine o'clock yesterday it had risen to six below. It then grew a little milder and at one o'clock it registered three below but gradually fell again and at six it was six below. Last evening it promised to be milder and at nine o'clock had dropped to three and a half below.

Last evening a crowded house greeted the Baptist choir in the school room. A very enjoyable evening was spent in listening to beautiful instrumental music and vocal selections of high order. The playing of Prof. Earle and his young daughter was a marked feature of the entertainment. The selections by the soloists Misses Rattray, Nicholson, Harrison and Stenford pleased the audience greatly. The violin solo by Mrs. Lee was a pleasing number. The vocal solo by the Misses Hunter and Deckerdund were exquisitely rendered, also the choruses by the choir. Miss Edith Craig of Middleton delighted the throng with her rendition of "When the flow-ers come in" by Millard. She gave as a recall a lovely waltz song. Mr. Colwell thought nothing of a severe cold sang very nicely and at the whole the Baptist choir concert was a great success and one of the events of the season. The meeting in the Baptist school room Monday evening was unusually interesting and largely attended. Six speakers discussed very pleasingly the qualities to be admitted in young men and young ladies. Editor Cotton of the Examiner was first speaker and was followed by J. T. McKenzie and Geo. W. McPhee who spoke of the qualities they admired in a young man from their respective standpoints, of an editor, business man and a young man himself. Mayor Eaton, J. D. Seaman and Rev. G. H. White spoke of admirable qualities in young ladies looking through the eyes of a business man, a teacher and preacher. Each address was very interesting and if all the young people of Charlottetown were such as were referred to this would be a model community. B. H. Jenkins occupied the chair and a vote of thanks was tendered the speakers of the evening.

A splendid audience greeted the programme at the concert in St. Paul's school room last evening. The living pictures were very true representations of the different subjects chosen and were beautifully set off by scenery specially painted by Rev. S. J. and Mrs. Woodroffe for the occasion. The musical program was highly commended upon. Pres. Le Masard in closing made a most complimentary speech, kindly thanking all who had taken part in any way in making the evening the grand success it was.

In the matter of supplying the Prince Edward Island Railway with water, about which there has been some friction for some time past, it appears by the following telegram received by S. W. Oraboe, Chairman of the Waterworks Commissioners that the rate demanded by the Water Commissioners has been accepted to-- Moncton, N.B., Jan. 31. "Railway department has decided to enter into an agreement with the City of Charlottetown for supplying the railway with water which requires at the rate of fifteen cents per thousand gallons minimum charge per annum ($1200) twelve hundred dollars and agreement to be for five years. I will have the agreement prepared and sent to you as soon as possible for execution--Dr. Pottinger.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Ann Stringer, who died on Saturday last, took place yesterday from the residence of Jas. McKay, DeBable, to West River Cemetery. The deceased, who was a most estimable lady, has been an invalid for some time past and had reached the advanced age of 90 years. Mrs. Stringer, who was a sister of Allan McQuarrie, Charlottetown, leaves to mourn one son, Hugh, who lives at the Brae, West Prince. The funeral at the house was well attended, D. S. McQuarrie, Crapaud, being the undertaker.

The musical business which Alexander Horne, City, purchased some time ago from Miller Bros., has been moved from Sunnyside to Kent Street in the store so well and favorably known as the Central Music Store. The building has been thoroughly renovated and with its new and attractive fixtures is one of the most convenient and pleasant salesrooms in this City. The entrance to the store appeals to the most particular. The large plate glass window has been lowered while the new door of plate glass gives the entrance a most inviting look. The interior of the store has been papered the woodwork grained and the office which has been moved to the back has a full view of the store and is most convenient. The three "silent salesmen" show to the best advantage the exceedingly fine musical instruments, and harps, banjos, mandolins, flutes, violins, etc., carried by the firm. Their line of music books, sheet music, talking machines, etc., can be most conveniently looked over while at the back of the store are displayed pianos, organs, sewing machines, etc. The work rooms, were all kinds of repairs can be had or made, is on the second floor where will also be displayed second hand goods. Altogether this branch of the business which is so ably managed by Allan Forsythe, is worthy of a visit from all interested in music of any kind.

Walter Simpson, Bay View has contributed an article on "The farmers literary society, a great factor in making farm life enjoyable," in the last issue of the Farmer's Advocate. Among other interesting things he says in speaking about the Bay View Literary Society. "Our literary society meets every two weeks, when books are exchanged, and we have discussions on questions that are agitating the political, industrial and social world. At other times some member reviews a book that he has read and studied, and the book and his views of it are discussed by the members. Occasionally we have a "newspaper night," when the editor proceeds to read a paper containing his own editorials and contributions on various subjects by the members, which, along with some of the "Spice of Life," makes an interesting entertainment. With such excellent books for reading, and with interesting and profitable discussions every two weeks, and a good lecture sandwiched in now and again, there are no dull times with us during the long winter, and, when the season ends, in April, we feel that we have had an enjoyable as well as a profitable time. The spirit of our society lies in the advancing intelligence of the tillers of the soil, who have it in their power to make and keep Canada one of the best-governed countries in the world. We hope the time will never come when the "When wealth accumulates and men decay," but rather that farmers of the country, that are doing so much to make it, will guard faithfully the ballot and not for the trusts. Such societies as ours among the rural population will contribute largely to the result."
