

The Tea Taster

is a very important personage in the factory where teas are blended and packed. He brews the beverage with great exactness, and directs the experiments for new blends from his judgment of the taste. The taster who was responsible for our "Matchless" blend of Ceylon tea has had his good taste endorsed by many housekeepers, which is the true test of a tea's taste. 55c lb., 5 lbs. or more, 50c.

to be put in motion to prevent these losses before we start another season. The quality of butter was not affected to the same extent as the cheese. The character of make has improved some, but flavors, in many places was under finest. The creameries that have graded cream and have taken part in the Dominion Educational Sealing Contest conducted by the Dominion Department have shown the greatest improvement. The matter of cream testing received more attention last season. I found the samples correctly taken and the work in general well done. One part that needed a little more attention was the mixing of the samples and the reading of the fat at a proper temperature. The testing of skim milk for the loss of fat has shown more than usual interest on the part of the patrons. We have had samples left at our office that contained half the quantity of fat contents of normal milk, this proves that some separators in use are not receiving the necessary care. Would it not be well for each separator owner to look into this matter and prevent this loss. The Dairy Exhibits at the fair were larger than in 1919. The cheese exhibit at Charlottetown had fifteen entries, four cheese from each factory. Five of these lots scored first grade and received the money awarded. The other nine lots graded second and were not entitled to any of the money. The chief defects were flavor and texture also poor finish. The butter was the best we have ever had. The cream was especially selected and pasteurized. An view of grading dairy products for export in the near future the question of better raw material and more care in manufacturing and cooler curing rooms, the keeping of the whey tanks and drains and proper care along general lines will be factors that will lead up to satisfactory grade of cheese and butter. Some further effort should be made toward improving marketing conditions, which have not been entirely satisfactory and cannot be very much improved until the grade is marked on each package. The boxes will need to be of a better quality and better made than we have had, more particularly last season.

AT PRINCE STREET SCHOOL.—The pupils of Prince Street School spent a very enjoyable three quarters of an hour yesterday afternoon when Capt. Laing of the Navy League gave a lecture, illustrated by a large number of views in the school hall. The Capt. started his remarks by describing a Roman galley and then traced the development of ships to the present palatial ocean steamer. The lantern was operated by Commander Lew in. Principal Seaman presided and before closing thanked the speaker for the treat enjoyed by the pupils.

SUPREME COURT.—Supreme Court was again adjourned yesterday morning until Saturday next. For the first time in many years it will be necessary to adjourn the court over another session as the February Term for King's County opens next Tuesday in Georgetown. The adjournment until Saturday, is in formal compliance with Statutory law and the Court will meet only to enable counsels to fix a date upon which the court might re-open after the Georgetown session. As this will be a brief session, it is expected that the Milling Case will be proceeded with on March 6. The adjournment of the case has been necessary on account of the illness of Mr. Justice Hazard, the presiding judge. The last witness on the stand Tuesday was Mr. McDonald, of Winnipeg, an experienced miller and a member of the Canadian Food Board.

purpose than to sell it. As an Association we are fully conscious of the tremendous importance, socially, financially, and in every other way of the dairying industry of millions of dollars to a country, cannot help but enter very materially into the social, political and financial progress of the country. Hence too much attention cannot be paid to the regulations and conditions under which such an industry is carried on. Having these points in view the importance of the industry can scarcely be overestimated. It will be seen by the statistics to hand, that the year 1921 has been an adverse one in our history which is due in great part to the dry season, the decreased prices in dairy products and the high cost of manufacturing. There was scarcely any rain all summer, the growth that did exist was marvellous under such conditions, and as a result the shortage of feed this coming spring may become serious in some parts of the province and ultimately injure the prospects for 1922. The cheese market was to say the least, treacherous and uncertain and as a result many salesmen were misled and lost chances of making thousands of dollars for their patrons. But these are conditions peculiar to the unsettled and abnormal state of the Commercial World, subsequent to the Great War. The present is a critical time in the history of the dairy industry, owing to conditions arising out of the war. Butter too had dropped in price. The exports of butter for 1921 was abnormal on account of some "carry over" from the previous year. New Zealand is now our great competitor and we have reached the point where it must be admitted that New Zealand exports are larger than ours, and that we have to take second place among the dairy exporting countries of the world. However, I feel certain the dairy markets will not again resume former prices, but will maintain such prices that will make the industry remunerative to those engaged in the business. I think the time has come when the use of Oleomargarine should be discontinued in Canada. This Oleomargarine was admitted into this country from the United States free of duty, while there is a high duty on Canadian butter entering the United States. This was done on account of the high price of butter fat. But the price of butter is now so low that it is within the means all who desire it. Therefore, a resolution should be sent to the Honorable, the Minister of Agriculture to the effect that its use is now detrimental to the butter industry in this country. The high cost of supplies is just now affecting the industry which I believe may be speedily adjusted. Some further effort should be effected in the purchase of dairy supplies. Many factories are buying their supplies from hand to mouth through the season, thus paying long prices and double freight rates. I feel sure that our local dealers in dairy supplies could sell to us at greatly reduced rates, if the factories would early give their dealer an estimate and order of their requirements for the season and having the same shipped in bulk it will be surprising if the future does not witness material changes in the general conduct of the dairy industry. The purchase by the Government of a whole seasons output of cheese or butter from New Zealand or Argentina at an all-round price in such case has put ideas into the minds of producers which are likely to bear fruit in the future in the direction of securing some sort of general supervision in each country for the standardizing of grades of quality, identity in terms of approximation of selling price, at which must inevitably tend to the welding of each country's export trade into a harmonious whole, possibly after the fashion of the Danish butter sale, which is very strictly controlled by the consent of the shippers for the general good rather than in the interest of individuals.

In reviewing the printed statements of the different factories one notices quite a variation in the average price received per lb. for cheese and butter. This should not be in a small territory such as ours. Our goods should be sold co-operatively, according to value, and put on the market at the proper time. The injurious practice of shipping cheese from the factories when they are only a few days old should be discontinued. Both buyers and salesmen are to blame. The trade in dairy products is international, and as far as prices are determined by the law of supply and demand, it is supply and demand operating on a world-wide basis. The Canadian surplus of butter and cheese is important only as it adds to the world's total supply. Local conditions affect the situation very little if at all.

Whereas the grading of cream for the manufacture of high quality butter and the grading of butter fat for a reliable trade is a viable and necessary part of the welfare of our dairy industry and whereas legislation has been enacted by the province to enforce the grading of cream and butter, and whereas the Dairy Association of P. E. I. do hereby request our provincial legislature to enact and enforce such legislation as will effectively enforce the grading of cream products to its own manufacture in the future, and enforce the grading of butter according to the standard grades as laid down by the Federal Dairy Division, before being offered for sale, Whereas the combined high cost of dairy supplies was considered to be doing a great injury to the Dairy Industry and whereas it is the general opinion that Co-operative buying of supplies would be an advantage, and whereas the cheese box industry is in a most unsatisfactory condition, Therefore be it resolved that we the Dairy Association of P. E. I. do hereby instruct the Directors to appoint a Secretary with power to act on their authority concerning the co-operative supplies as may be found necessary.

Whereas the continued high cost of Dairy Supplies was considered to be doing a great injury to the Dairy Industry and whereas it was the opinion that Co-operative buying of supplies would be an advantage, Therefore resolved, amount of butter to be disposed of that we are in favor of buying

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

PRODUCT OF CANADA BEST BY EVERY TEST

Whereas the Dairy Industry is the most important branch of Agriculture in the Province of Prince Edward Island and whereas the present low prices received by dairymen for all dairy products makes it necessary to open the market for dairy products both at home and abroad should be stimulated and enlarged in order that the business may be suitably remunerated. And whereas the admission of Oleomargarine into the free duty into this Country from the United States while there is a high duty on Canadian Butter and whereas the use of oleomargarine as a substitute for butter without the knowledge of the purchaser is unfair and injurious to the manufacturers of Oleomargarine and a detriment to the war on account of the high price of butter fat, and whereas the price of butter is now so low that it is within the means all who desire it, Therefore be it resolved that the members of the Dairy Association of P. E. First time I met him, I said: "There's some one to tie to"
Smith was telling how real quality needed no second introduction. And that's the testimony so many people have given about Grape-Nuts. They didn't have to learn to like it. Wheat and malted barley, skilfully blended, and slowly baked for 20 hours, in our great, sanitary food factories, are developed into a natural sweetness, richness and crispness that make an immediate appeal to the taste. The exceptional nourishment which Nature places in these best of the food grains is perfected for complete and ready digestion and assimilation. Grape-Nuts builds for health and accomplishment.
