Reminiscences Of Rev. Dr. Bryan Of Local Interest

The following interesting letter from Rev. Dr. J. Ingram Bryan, of the University of Japan, a former Prince Edward Islander, appears in W. D. Taunton's "I.C.R." column in Saturday's Halifax Herald:

1123 Masaka, Isogo, Yokohama, Japan, Sept. 27th, 1933.

My dear Taunton:—I am deeply grateful for the last copy of the Halifax Herald received, that for September 2nd, giving an account of the Warburton and Bryan families of Foxley River and Freeland, Prince Edward Island. It is impossible to tell you what pleasure it gave me to read of people and things with whom and which I was familiar when a small boy ten years old. I will remember the agitation over the land question, when the local population had to pay rents to the Warburtons; some of the people were allowed to purchase their land outright and to away with rents; then the Dominion Government, after Confederation, bought out the remaining owners, but the holders of the farms had then to pay the rent to the Government as a sort of tax, or else borrow money to purchase their right to ownership and pay interest on the loans. The matter was placed in the hands of Bannerman Warburton, then a young and rising barrister, who accommodated the farmers with loans at rather high interest, until they were able to pay off the principal. In some ways the "freedom" was less free than under the old conditions with the Hon. James Warburton as landlord; for he was an extremely kind and considerate man, who did not unduly press a holder who was unable to pay the rent, or even labor on the Warburton estate, in payment of rent. But the financiers who extended loans to buy out the land from the Government were not so lenient; the interest on the loans had to be paid when due, or face a foreclosure of mortgage. Some of the smaller farmers had great difficulty in finding even the small amount of interest when due, and did not find relief from this annual nightmare until their sons grew up and went to America to earn money to pay off principal and interest. Well, it is all over now; and the modern generation knows nothing of all their grandfathers and grandmothers went through to free the land from all past obligations and yet bring up families to be decent, independent citizens.

It now seems so long ago that I can hardly believe that I knew most of the names mentioned in your article. Mr. and Mrs. Warburton, of course, I knew well; and they were awfully kind to me as a child. The sons were usually away at school, and I did not know them so well until they and I were grown up and met again in Charlottetown where the Warburton family settled after Bannerman opened a law office there. George Warburton studied medicine and went into the Indian Civil Service. James also studied medicine and settled down to practice in Charlottetown. Dick was drowned in the Mississippi and Bannerman became Judge of Probate in the capital. Your article mentions only one of the Warburton daughters, Martha who died from an accident on the ice in childhood; but the other daughters were delightful women too, and I forgot whom they married. After the Warburtons left Foxley River their big estate was purchased by the Hon. James Yeo, who held it for his son John, now living at Northam, if he is alive; and then it was bought by my next brother William and later by my youngest brother Herman Bryan who has now sold it to Senator Creelman McArthur. I should much like to know which of the many McArthurs the senator is, as I have known so many. The 700 acres are still half forest land, and the rest cleared for agriculture. How often have I trod these forests which seemed so vast to me in childhood, expecting to meet bears, which were reported from time to time, or wild cats which used to kill sheep. How exciting it was to us children to join with our elders in tracking a cat in the fresh snow to his lair after it had killed a sheep in the fold during the frosty night! Modern kiddies do not know such fun as this. Dogs tread the cat, and parents brought him down with a charge of buckshot.

The Warburton family were neighbors of ours at Portarlington in Ireland; and had some influence in inducing my father to settle down as a neighbour to their son, the Hon. James, at Foxley River, though another influence was my father's brother, John Bryan who had come out to take over the land owned by John Hughes, an estate almost as big and just as valuable as the Warburton's. Hughes had no children, and gave the land to my Uncle John, and he divided it between his two sons, George and Hughes. The article in the Charlottetown Guardian says that this land is now owned by my brother James, but it is still in the hands of George, I think.

Your reference to the "right little tight little island," convinces me that you have a very warm spot in your heart for it and its people; and the secret of this, I think I have discovered from a casual reference of yours to the Charlottetown Examiner, in the office of which you admit having worked. If this is so, then you have lived in Charlottetown, in the good old days of Mr. Whalen, of whom I often heard good things; and so you know personally some of the life on the island. I have not seen the Examiner for a long time; and I now forget whether it amalgamated with the Guardian or not. Cotton, of the Examiner, was a friend of mine, though, as most of my congregation were Liberals, I had to support the Patriot, one of my last compositions in Charlottetown being an editorial for it on the departure of the Island troops for the South African war.

Your great kindness in reference to the Island makes me rather too egotistic in dwelling on that side of your very valuable column in the pages of the Herald. I sometimes think that the readers of the Herald do not fully realize the great importance of your work or they would send you more letters than they do. To all those of us who care abroad, and have good memories, and no less to those who are at home and should be interested in the history of the Maritime Provinces, your articles should be, and to many of us are, most precious, reminding us of so many friends of long ago, whom otherwise we might have forgotten; and also of the progress of our home land during the past fifty years.

I feel that it is the duty of all who are thus reminded of the very interesting past, which you so ably recall for them, to write to you and tell you any new facts they can remember, and thus do their part to assist you in the full presentation of the past that, I am sure, you desire to give the more intelligent readers of the Herald. Not only should they write to I. C. R., but to the people he mentions who are old friends of theirs or of their family; and thus create a woven bond uniting in permanent friendship the various scattered friends who owe birth, breeding and education to the three lovely provinces down by the Atlantic shore. Personally, I should be delighted to get letters from any who knew me in the days of my youth and manhood down by the sea.

I had a strange letter some time ago, though not through the Herald. It was addressed "J. Brun, Toko." The Japanese postman insisted that it was for me, though I refused to acknowledge either the name or the address. He contended that there was no other foreigner in Japan with this name. I replied that I was not that foreigner intended. But it was nearer to the spelling of my name than any other he could find in the postal directory. He proposed that I should open it and see. I accepted challenge and lost the bet. It proved to be for me, written to me by a young Micmac Indian from the Island, whom I had known in childhood. It came about that after he was a man he visited my old home at Foxley River, where his father, in my day, used to come regularly to sell baskets; and he asked my mother where I was now living. She said "Tokyo"; and so he went home and tried to write me a letter, adopting phonetic spelling: "J. Brun, Toko." Fancy the "sagacity" of the Canadian post in deciding where to send the letter! You cannot imagine how interested and pleased I was to get that queer but most kindly note from a young aborigine whose ancestors mine had displaced. The Indians, as you know, live on Lennox Island, just off the coast at Port Hill, where they have their own Roman Catholic Church and a school, the priest visiting them for Mass once a year, when we all used to attend. With ever so many thanks and best wishes, I am

Yours sincerely,
J. INGRAM BRYAN

FOUND DEAD
NEW ALBANY, N. S., Oct. 22.—A shotgun in his own hands ended the life of Maynard P. Oakes, 51, at his home here Saturday. A coroner's jury decided death had been "intentional or accidental."

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

THE BAPTIST CHURCH
Yesterday being "Bible Society Sunday" the Rev. A. C. Vincent delivered an interesting sermon on "The Bible and the Society that circulates it." Reference was made to the origin and progress of the British and Foreign Bible Society, one of the most romantic stories in history—to the great ideal of the Society, the circulation of the Holy Scriptures among all men in their own language, without note or comment. The unchanging word still carries a living message to a changing world. It shall and ought to endure for its cultural value and because it meets the deepest needs of mankind.

At the evening service Dr. Vincent continued his very interesting series of sermons on "Men whom Christ changed." The music of the day was of the usual high order. Sunday School had another day of encouraging attendance. It was intimated that on Wednesday evening the Rev. (Capt.) W. A. White, O.B.E., would be the speaker. Dr. White had a most distinguished career as a chaplain during the war, being the only colored chaplain in the British armies. He is an eloquent speaker and all are cordially invited to hear his message.

The evening service was broadcast by station CCKC.

ST. DUNSTAN'S BASILICA
The retreat in preparation for the Feast of Christ the King opened at St. Dunstan's Basilica last evening, when Rev. Fr. Knox, S.J., preached the first of a series of sermons. After solemn High Mass at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, the Blessed Sacrament was exposed. At the evening service the Basilica was filled to capacity. Father Knox preached a most inspiring sermon on the Holy Eucharist, from the text in Luke: "A certain man made a great feast and invited many." The Blessed Sacrament was carried in procession around the church by His Excellency Bishop O'Sullivan. After the procession the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament was given by His Excellency Bishop O'Sullivan with Rev. Dr. Bernard Gillis as deacon, Rev. Leonard MacDonald as sub-deacon and Rev. Louis A. Dougan as Master of Ceremonies.

THE SALVATION ARMY
Adj. and Mrs. Stevens were welcomed back from Toronto where they attended the congress meetings. The keynote of all the services for the day was that a better time is coming when much good will be accomplished and souls brought to Christ.

A service was held at the Richmond Street Infirmary and an open air service was held for the benefit of some sick comrades on Reserve Street.

There was a good attendance at all the meetings and all joined heartily in the singing and enjoyed the addresses given by Adj. and Mrs. Stevens.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH
My chief reason for writing from week to week in this column is that I may be of some service, that some word or thought may be of help to some one. I was impressed with these words spoken by Dean Brown of Yale Divinity School. "Every life has a responsibility that cannot be delegated to any one else, and 'finding yourself' means finding that responsibility. There are no superfluous lives. Accept yourself not as a finished product, but as one with potentialities. Not because of, but in spite of your handicaps you can work out some service in life. Accept your hand as it was dealt you, and then, without wasting time bemoaning bad cards, play the game."

The usual services took place yesterday, Rev. Mr. Brown preaching in the morning from Philippians 1:5 "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." What was in the mind of Jesus? He interpreted God to us as Father, the fatherhood of God and the pre-eminent attribute of God was Love. In the evening Rev. Dr. Ramsay delivered a sermon appropriate to "Bible Sunday." His text was from Isaiah 55:10 and 11, "My word . . . shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it." He referred to England's greatness being founded on the Bible, that the nations cannot have permanent peace until they recognize the teachings of The Prince of Peace, that we must get the Scriptures back in our schools somehow also back in our homes somehow. Let us preach the Word! Let us read the Word!

Sunday School had an attendance of 378 being two less than last Sunday. The principal musical feature was the Recital by Professor Kendall and the Choir assisted by Mrs. Jasper Ings, A.T.C.M., who contributed selections on the violin to the delight of those who remained after the evening service to enjoy the programme prepared and to assist by their presence and their offering in the work of the Choir. There was a solo by Mr. T. W. Bentley, an anthem by the Choir, a duet by Mrs. Roy Cudmore and Mr. George Johnson, besides organ selections by Professor Kendall.

SACRED SONG SERVICE
A very inspiring service was conducted in Zion Presbyterian Church last evening, by the students and young people of the city, immediately after the regular diet of worship.

Mr. Lorne MacKay, P.W.C., student, presided, and Mr. John Denny read the Scripture Lesson. The Rev. Canon E. M. Malone, of St. Peter's Cathedral addressed the youthful congregation, taking as his theme the life of John Keble. He was accorded perfect attention and was tendered the thanks of those present by the Chairman.

Miss Jacqueline MacDonald, of St. James Choir, rendered a solo "Shadows" with imitable talent. Several of the old Gospel Hymns were sung from the Book of Praise, Professor Thompson being at the organ.

The young people were led in prayer by Rev. G. Carlyle Webster, who also closed the meeting with the Benediction. The service throughout was meritorious of highest commendation, and those who took part in it are to be complimented for the cheerful yet dignified manner in which the meeting was carried out. These services are being sponsored by the Student's Christian Movement of Prince of Wales College, in cooperation with the Young Men's Christian Association of the city, for the purpose of providing the young people with an opportunity for active Christian service, and for the promotion of true Christian Fellowship.

The meeting in Zion Church last evening was the fourth in this season's series. A similar service will be held in St. Paul's Church at the same hour next Sunday. All students and all young people are invited to be in attendance.

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Large congregations attended both services of the Central Christian Church yesterday, when two inspiring sermons were preached by Evangelist R. George Quiggan. In the morning sermon reference was made to Wm. Carey, the founder of the first Protestant foreign missionary society, who responded to the great challenge "Attempt great things for God, and expect great things from God." Though Carey received little encouragement at first, he persisted in his purpose and challenged his hearers to do something about the task of world missions.

Under the head "Expect great things of God" the speaker quoted Philippians 4:13 "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." The fact that the great masses of people are untouched by the Christian Gospel is tragic and the answer to this great problem is "Greater expectation on the part of God's people." One man with God is a majority. The one who believes that the risen Christ is with him is irresistible. It was while the little apostolic band was waiting in prayer that it was endowed with the power of the Holy Spirit. Out of that prayer meeting came Pentecost with its three thousand additions to the Church. We achieve so little in our Church work, because of our pre-occupations. Paul flooded Europe with the Gospel of God because his keyword was: "This one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Imperial Monthly Income Policy
Will provide a monthly cheque for your family

It will send it to your home for 60 months, for 120 months, for 180 months, for 240 months according as you wish to arrange. The man who wants to provide as substantially as possible for his family with the least investment will find the answer to his problems in the Imperial Monthly Instalment Policy. In case of his death this Imperial Policy steps in and enables the family to carry on. They know exactly what income they have and how long it will last. They have an opportunity to make definite plans for the time when this income will cease. Think of the relief it would mean to your widow to know that for even 5 years (60 months) she and the children would be provided for. And this Imperial Policy will also furnish the holder himself with a definite monthly income should he survive a period agreed upon.

are just, but facts that neither can be fulfilled nor are honorable we will not sign."
Applause rose in a frenzy when he added: "We will not cooperate in signing dictates."
Hitler said the world must not believe there now was any organization or party in Germany which would ally itself with those who thought they simply could ignore Germany's honor and her right to live.

OVERTHROW

throw the Government until the last hope for a compromise was exhausted and adjournment of the Chamber came after a four-hour session.
The franc's jeopardy was emphasized by Daladier Saturday evening when he told the radical Socialists: "Only yesterday 200,000,000 gold francs were withdrawn from the Bank of France."
He said foreigners were already speculating against the franc. "Is there a single Frenchman, whatever his politics, asked the speaker, 'who wishes to revive the days of 1926?' — When the franc sank to a value of 50 to the dollar.

At The Cross Roads
The government fears a speculative raid on the franc, Georges Bonnet, Minister of Finance, intimated, saying: "A grave uncertainty hangs over our franc" and "France is at the cross roads."
Bonnet said it was an exaggeration to assert that the fall of the dollar caused the treasury's troubles but added, "suppose the dollar and the pound are stabilized soon. There would be no doubt that would happen if the French budget were unbalanced. The pound and the dollar then would appear stable compared with the franc and the foreign capital that sought refuge here would cross the frontier."
"In any case the stabilization of these monies will cause us difficulty. We will succeed only if our francs are sound."
Defeat of the cabinet seemed certain when Premier Daladier entered the Chamber with hundreds of police gathered outside to guard against a possible demonstration.
In the session which followed M. Bonnet and Lucien Lamoureux, Minister of the Budget, spoke for the Government and Paul Reynaud spoke for the opposition.

German Unity
"The time when Germans were fighting Germans is over and will never return," declared Hitler. Hitler appealed to the storm troopers, saying: "It is our life work to create an organization that will forever guarantee German unity. In so doing we best insure the cause of peace on earth. There is no better guarantee of peace than the fanatic unity of the German nation."
The German leader emphasized that the German people were not warlike.
The applause was renewed when Capt. Ernst Roehm, chief of the storm troops, swore on behalf of the troops their loyalty to Hitler until death.

voted majority. Mr. Boucher never took his seat in the present Parliament as an election protest followed. The courts last winter declared him unseated on the grounds of irregularities.
Three Candidates
Restigouche-Madawaska will have three candidates from which to make their choice—J. E. Michaud, Liberal; Paul L. Dube, Conservative; and J. L. G. Annett, Farmer-Labor. The vacancy was brought about by the death about the time of the opening of the last session of the sitting member, M. D. Cormier, who had been elected by 10,037 votes against 9,489 for Mr. McEvoy, Liberal.

Tragedy Feared As Search Reveals Little
LIVERPOOL, N. S., Oct. 22.—(C.P.)—Extensive search was underway tonight for Shirley Eisner, 26 year old commercial traveller, missing since he set out in an outboard motorboat Saturday morning on a duck shooting trip.
He was headed for Pudding Pan Island, several miles from this port, and friends feared choppy seas had wrecked his small craft. The boat was last seen near the harbor mouth by passing fishermen.
Today, vessels combed the harbor's outer reaches and the search extended several miles to sea, but the searchers failed to sight the motorboat and Eisner was believed lost. A Royal Canadian Mounted Police plane flew several miles to sea also, but its occupants did not spot the craft.

WIDOWS WITH FAMILIES DEPORTED
TORONTO, Oct. 21.—(C.P.)—By means of a co-operative plan negotiated between the local and provincial Mothers' Allowance boards and the city, two widows and their families will be returned at the city's expense to England, where relatives have undertaken to care for them. A large part of the expense will be absorbed over a period of months by the provincial board. A substantial saving to both city and province is involved in the plan, which relieves both administrations from any further claim of the individuals thus benefited.

STRATHCONA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of this institute was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Jardine on Wednesday, Oct. 11th, thirteen members and one visitor being present.

Meeting opened by repeating the Creed, followed by roll call answered by "How to improve the Institute." Minutes of two previous meetings were read and approved. Sick Committee reported and the same Committee was re-appointed. Mrs. Walter Burdett and Mrs. Samuel Wood were appointed delegates to attend a Dental Clinic meeting at Bridgetown. Program consisted of readings by Mrs. Alex MacKay, Mrs. Walter Burdett and Mrs. Herbert Ross.

Next meeting, the annual meeting, is to be held at the home of Mrs. John MacKinnon, roll call to be answered by the name of a former school teacher and an amusing incident that occurred at school during her teaching term.

Liberal Leader In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—(C.P.)—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Federal Liberal leader, returned to Ottawa Saturday from the constituency of Restigouche-Madawaska, N. B., where he spoke in support of the Liberal candidate, J. E. Michaud. The Liberal leader addressed large meetings in Campbellton and Edmundston and smaller gatherings at Kedgewick and San Quentin.

on the western tour, but declared himself "mentally refreshed" by contact with so many of his friends and supporters in the six prairie cities visited. Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Regina were visited in order, and the Prime Minister delivered speeches. In addition to the public meetings the Prime Minister interviewed scores of individuals and delegations in every city visited.

Cabinet Meeting

Tomorrow Mr. Bennett will probably call a Cabinet meeting to deal with business accumulated during his absence, and it is possible some announcement will be made with respect to the compromise reached between the Running Trades of the Canadian Railways, and their employers, over the wage dispute. To his western audiences Mr. Bennett gave a detailed account of the Government's activities since 1930, with particular reference to relief efforts, trade agreements and the World Economic Conference. He described the World Wheat reduction agreements but did not attempt to explain the methods in which it is proposed to effect the reduction in acreage. In Regina he met with representatives of the Prairie Province Governments to discuss this question but no decision was reached and further discussions will be held, probably in Ottawa.

A feature of the Prime Minister's western speeches was his references to the proposal to set up a central bank. He made no secret of the fact that Canada, at the World Conference, had endorsed a resolution recommending the establishment of Central Banks in all developed countries, and that in his opinion the exchange and credit activities of the Dominion would be greatly aided by the setting up of such an institution.

Balance Budget

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Oct. 22.—(C.P. Cable)—Glad tidings from the legislature indicate taxes will not be increased in 1934. A balanced budget for the year was presented this week end. Despite ravages of hurricanes and floods during the last few months, the Colony is expected to have a surplus of $22,000 for the present year.

"HUMAN" GORILLA CAPTURED

A gorilla which natives thought was a "retrograde human being" was among the 7,000 specimens obtained by the Percy Sladen Expedition in West Africa. The gorilla is five feet tall and has an arm-span of nine feet. Its characteristics were remarkably human, declared I. T. Stephenson, leader of the party, on his arrival at Plymouth, England. For 11 months the party worked in unexplored jungles in the British Cameroons, and obtained data of outstanding importance on the fauna of West Africa. Squirrels equipped with brightly-colored parachutes by which they fly from tree to tree, frogs covered with hair and armed with claws, and a giant water shrew belonging to a species believed to have been extinct millions of years ago, were among the specimens brought back.
