Kensington Man Dead After Fight In Summerside

Edward Chappell of Summerside is charged With Manslaughter. Two Witnesses Testify As Inquest Opens.

The coroners jury which was summoned to act in the investigation into the death of Mr. Ian Darrach, 48, of Kensington early yesterday morning met at 9.30 Nov. 17 at the Prince County Hospital. Coroner W. B. Howatt presided and the jury was composed of the following members: John Campbell (foreman), John Harding, George Clow, Carl Crockett, Edward Monkley, Lee Moase, Chester Palmer. The jury viewed the body and after hearing the evidence of one eye-witness agreed that an autopsy be held to determine the cause of death. No specific date was set for the continuance of the inquest pending the outcome of the autopsy and the inquest was adjourned at the call of the coroner.

During the day Edward Chappell of Summerside was arraigned in Summerside Police Court on a charge of manslaughter. Pending further investigation and conclusion of the inquest he was remanded in jail by Stipendiary Magistrate E. H. Strong. The date of the preliminary hearing was set for Friday next at 9 a.m.

From the evidence of eyewitness it would appear that Edward Chappell and Ian Darrach had come to blows in front of the Soviet Cafe on Spring Street. Chappell was seen by witness to strike Darrach in the face and he (Darrach) fell backwards hitting his head on the pavement. He was taken to the Prince County Hospital where he died shortly after. Police stated that Chappell called them on the phone and said he had hit a man in front of Soviet Cafe. Chappell was taken into custody early yesterday morning.

Only two witnesses were heard and the evidence was as follows:

Peter White, Chief of Police (sworn) stated, "I know the body as that of Ian Darrach, Kensington.

John Gallant (sworn) said "I was outside the door of the Soviet when Ian Darrach and Edward Chappell came out. This would be about 12 midnight November 16th. Ian said to me 'Go over and get a taxi for me, I want to go home.'" As soon as Ian said that he and Chappell got into an argument. I then walked back into the Soviet as far as the stove. I then returned to the front of the store. As I reached the front of the store I saw Chappell hit Ian Darrach in the face. Darrach was standing at the edge of the curb, facing the Soviet. Darrach fell backwards and hit the back of his head on the street. I could not hear his head hit the street as the door of the Soviet was closed. Darrach had some liquor in him but he was able to walk and ask for a taxi to go home."

"I then said to Andrew Perry that Darrach is knocked out and we had better pick him up. We went out and Chappell was pretty near the Bank of Commerce Corner and going away at the time. I sung out to him "You made a nice job" but he did not answer. Andrew Perry and Cletus Walsh picked Darrach up and laid him on the steps. The Patrol wagon came along just about this time. We held him up (Darrach) and told them about this man being drunk and laid out. They took charge of Mr. Darrach. Sergeant Schurman and Constable Wedge were on the patrol. Darrach never moved after the fall. I had just come along to the Soviet about the time they came out. Chappell did not stay around after he hit Darrach."

Asked by the jury if they were quarrelling inside the Soviet, Gallant said "I don't know, I only saw them when they came out. I came along about that time."

Inquest adjourned.

MacDONALD - TURNER NUPTIALS

At seven o'clock on Wednesday evening, Oct. 14 an unusually pretty wedding took place at Glasgow Road when Miss Kathleen Elizabeth MacDonald, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. MacDonald, was united in marriage to Mr. Ivan George Turner, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner, Winsloe. Given in marriage by her father the young bride was very charming in her bridal floor length gown of white lace over satin which had long torso bodice and bishop sleeves. Her tulle veil was finger tip length worn in halo effect and banded with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath. Miss Verna Turner, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore a floor length gown of powder blue sheer fashioned on similar lines as the bride's. Her chapel veil was held by a halo of pink flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and baby's breath. Mr. Douglas MacDonald, brother of the bride supported the groom as best man.

The ceremony which took place under a very prettily trimmed arch was performed by the Rev. J. R. Skinner.

The Wedding March was played by Mrs Arthur Roberts, aunt of the groom.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold braclet; to the groomsman a leather billfold The bride's gift to the groom was a gold signet ring; to the bridesmaid an identification bracelet.

Supper was served to upwards of sixty invited guests. Those serving were: Misses Esther Matheson and Doris Rackham, cousins of the bride, Helen Ford, Dorothy MacDonald and Ruth Roberts, friends of the bride.

Throughout the evening a happy crowd of serenaders and well-wishers gathered to honor the young couple. Amid showers of confetti and the rattle of tin cans the bride and groom left for their home in Winsloe, where the groom is a prosperous young farmer. The bride travelling in a gold colored woollen dress, black coat with fox-fur trimming, large black hat and other accessories to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner were the recipients of many useful and costly gifts.

Previous to her marriage the bride-to-be was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home. The bride was led to the seat of honor by Mrs. Vernon MacRae while Mrs. Phillip Matheson played the wedding march. A heavily laden basket was carried in by Misses Dorothy MacDonald and Ruth Roberts. The accompanying verses were read by Miss Helen Ford. Kathleen, in a very pleasant manner thanked the donors for their lovely gifts and extended an invitation for all to visit her in her new home. The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in games and dancing.

Ten Testify As Conspiracy Trial Proceeds

Ten more witnesses were heard yesterday in the preliminary hearing of Frank and Harry Gallant charged with conspiracy at the Prince County Court House Summerside. Most of the afternoon was taken up with the tendering in evidence of articles and equipment which had been seized by the Mounted Police.

Austin A. Hashie lives on the McIsaac road near Richmond. is a farmer, knows Harmony Woods. Remembers May 19th last. On that day saw three men on his lower farm about seven o'clock in the evening. One had on khaki coveralls. They were coming from Harmony way to the McIsaac road. Coming as if from woods towards road then. Last he noticed them they had started towards Richmond travelling in the direction of Isidor Gallant's place who lives across the road from witness.

Isidor Gallant, sworn, lives on McIsaac road. Knows Austin Hashie. Remembers May 19th last. Saw three men traveling along the road in the evening just at his gate. One came in and the two others kept walking towards Richmond. The one that came in wore khaki coveralls. He asked witness to drive him to Summerside. As result he went to Richmond with his truck. He took this man and after he had turned from his gate the two other fellows jumped on the back of the truck.

He drove them to Richmond about a mile away. He did not know any of the three men. When he reached Richmond he stopped in front of John P. Gaudet's store. Later he saw the chap with the khaki coveralls talking to Wallace McKinnon.

Frank Joseph Gallant, sworn, lives on McIsaac road further from Richmond than Isidor Gallant. Was on road May 19th. Left home about five thirty and went to Richmond. Coming home from Richmond got a drive in truck. Left about seven p.m. coming out of woods he saw two fellows lying on the side of the road near Isidor Gallant's place. One had a pair of sun glasses with white frames and wore a brown leather jacket. He pointed out Harry Gallant as the fellow with the leather jacket.

Wallace McKinnon, sworn, lives near Richmond. Tractor driver and farmer. Remembers the evening of May 19th, 1942. Was at Richmond and drove three men to Summerside. One of them was Leo Gauthier One of the other fellows had a pair of dark glasses. Did not see him again until today in court. Witess pointed out Harry Gallant. Witness said he did not know the third fellow. He drove the three men to the filling station at the west end of Summerside. Gauthier [illegible] them in.

Mildred Huestis, Summerside telephone operator, knows West End Service Station and its number. Witness testified to putting through two long distance calls on specified dates from Imperial Service Station to Bruce Stewart and Co. Charlottetown. One call was made by Matt Gallant and the other by Frank Gallant.

Rita Key, sworn telephone operator Summerside. Testified to putting in a long distance call from Imperial Service Station on a specified date to Bruce Stewarts Charlottetown, call made by Frank Gallant.

Truman D. Trenouth, recalled, R.C.M.P. Constable, on Dec. 20th 1941 witness testified to going to the Thompson ranch which is situated on the north side of the Pope Road about a mile and a half, from Summerside. Property consists of a house where Hiram Thompsons wife was living, a patch of woods and a fox ranch. There were no foxes in it. He was accompanied by Constables Kinch, Bradley, Davis and Young. This was in the morning.

About eighty yards from the house in the direction of the ranch in a hole in the ground one 25 gallon copper still and worm were found. In the watch tower of the fox ranch was found another 25 gallon copper [illegible] and worm and 47 empty barrels, majority of which were molasses barrels. The floor was covered with molasses and quite sticky to walk on. There were eight 5-gallon cans; seven were empty and one contained approximately one gallon [illegible] entree of the cans had the tags of the Imperial Service Station on them with the name Rennie Gallant. Witness testified that Rennie Gallant worked at the Imperial Service Station last summer.

Among other articles found was a hydrometer and test tube, five rubber gaskets and three Royal Yeast Cake cartons with the label of R. T. Holman Ltd., on them. All this material was tendered in evidence.

Douglas J. Heath, recalled, testified that he went to the Hiram Thompson ranch on the afternoon of the same day with Constable Kinch. This witness testified to finding a number of articles among which was an oil fuel tank. These articles were tendered in evidence. Witness again visited the ranch on Dec. 29th 1941, with Detective Sgt. King. Witness testified to finding a number of other articles among which were a pair of shoes and a glove. These were produced, also a testament which was not produced. Witness also testified to searching the James Shields house accompanied by Constables Kinch Bradley W G., and Morrison. Witness testified to seeing Roy Grady and William Moses Arsenault there. He found a Coleman pressure tank connected to a three burner stove which was lighted and a still on it. There were 16 barrels some of which were full of beer. Wash and moonshine which were seized there were tendered in evidence along with the equipment and articles found. Witness testified that he saw Grady working at a connection on the still and William Moses Arsenault was carrying two buckets of beer. Samples of the wash and of the spirits were sent to the customs and excise chemical authority Ottawa for analysis.

Howard Barlow, sworn, lives in Wellington. He is a clerk in Arsenault and Gaudets store and knows Delores Arsenault. On May 5th 1942 he sold three lanterns. Witness identified three lanterns produced in court as having the cost mark of Arsenault and Gaudet on the bottom. Dolores Arsenault was travelling by truck. With him was another man. Witness pointed out Frank Gallant as the other man. Witness said they could reach Harmony woods by the road on which they were travelling. Cross-examined by Mr. MacNaught, witness admitted that those were lanterns he might have sold to any number of people. Re-examined by Mr. Hughes witness said this was the only occasion on which anybody bought three lanterns.

Protecting Fruit Trees From Mice

Each year hundreds of young fruit trees in Prince Edward Island are injured by mice. Much of this injury can be avoided if simple preautionary measures neither costly nor troublesome are adopted. Trees growing in sod are more likely to be attacked than are trees under clean cultivation. One way of lessening the danger from mice is to place coal ashes on the ground around the trunks of the trees. If sufficiently deep, the ashes will prevent the grass from growing up, thus providing an area in which the mice are not as likely to work. This method is not sufficient to insure complete immunity and for this reason the trees should be given additional protection where possible. Wire guards of fine mesh, eighteen inches wide and of about equal height, give the most complete control. These can remain in position for a number of years or until the trees are sufficiently large to do without protection. Building or tarred paper about eighteen inches wide wrapped around the trunks each fall, gives very satisfactory results.

In addition, an annual clean-up of mice is advised. This is done by the use of poison bait. An interesting control has been devised in the United States and known as the United States Biological Survey method. The details of this are too lengthy to be dealt with here but the method is being widely used throughout Canada and the United States.

A considerable amount of information on this, as well as other methods of mouse protection is available at the Experimental Station and will be gladly sent out on request. G. C. Warren, Assistant to Superintendent, (Horticulture).

Giraud, Soldier of France

Hard-fighting, resourceful Gen. Henri Giraud has two passions—love of France and hatred of Germany. Captured in World War I and this war, he escaped both times; today seen in the U. S. occupation of Vichy-North Africa a new opportunity to strike at the hated Nazis. To this end he is organizing a French African army to fight side by side with the allies. Respected personally and as a military leader, the colorful general is expected to rally a large Fighting French force. NEA artist George Scarbo sketches some of Giraud's outstanding exploits.
