MRS. SIDNEY TROWSDALE

There passed peacefully away to her eternal reward the soul of Mrs. Elizabeth Trowsdale, widow of the late Sidney Trowsdale, at the age of 63 years. For the past two years she had grown gradually weaker with a heart ailment, which during the past winter kept her in bed most of the time, and on Friday morning June 25th she was suddenly stricken and without regaining consciousness passed away. Mrs. Trowsdale was devoted to her home and community, and always a helpful friend when need arose, having the saying, "A friend in need is a friend indeed." Of a quiet retiring disposition, she was essentially a home person, finding her happiness in her family and during the latter year, giving her entire time to the care of grandchildren and great grandchildren who loved her, and welcomed any opportunity to express their love. She was kind hearted and generous, her home was always a place of welcome to friends and neighbors. The esteem in which she was held was well evidenced by the large number of friends who came to pay their final tribute of respect.

There are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother, two sons and one daughter; Walter, with whom she resided; William, of Cape Traver; Carolyn, Mrs. Winifred Rogerson, Cape Traver, also an adopted daughter Hazel, Mrs. Leslie Edwards, Tryon, also a brother and sister, Albert of Charlottetown, Annie of Cambridge, Mass., a number of grandchildren who will oft times sigh for the touch of a voice that is still, yet all too soon, forever silent. "Thy will O Lord, not mine be done."

The funeral was held from her late home on Sunday June 27th and was largely attended. The Rev. Mr. Fred Young who conducted the services, at the house and grave spoke words of peace and comfort, from St. John 14 chapter, especially referring to the words, "Let not your hearts be troubled." Hymns sung were, "Nearer my God to Thee," "Abide with Me," and "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," all favorites of the departed. A special feature of the singing was a solo by Llewellyn Gumbo, "The Old Rugged Cross," which was beautifully rendered, the music being conducted by Mrs. Vener Moore. Her remains were laid to rest in the family plot in Crapaud cemetery, beside her husband who predeceased her five and a half years ago.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Winifred Rogerson, Raymond Myers, Stanley Thompson, Bert Trowsdale and Albert Murphy, James Arling.

With the sense of the community loss, there is mingled deep sympathy for the members of the family, in their sad bereavement. All will miss her, one whose days among them have been so busy, whose influence has been so beneficial. Wornied at last with toll, care and worry of life, he has fallen asleep and gone to rest. All share the happy memories as we say, Farewell in God. Loving friends weep not for me, for I long to be at rest, oh happy, happy hall I be, when pillowed on my Saviour's breast.

A large number of people attended the races which were held at Hamilton race course on Wednesday afternoon. The day was fine and the rain in the earlier part of the day laid the dust. The horses were all at their best. The grand stand was crowded with visitors as they watched with interest those fast horses. Mr. Robert Sutherland, Mr. Edwin Murphy, both of Sea View are to be congratulated as the owners of horses showing so much speed. The management of this race course is to be complimented on the splendid race track and the several accommodations both for the people and horses that have recently been added for the comfort of both.

The Hamilton Women's Institute served tea on the grounds, the tables were well patronized and a creditable sum was realized.

Sees No Safeguard Against European Trouble, S. Morgan-Powell Says.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—The problems facing the smaller European powers and how these states are dependent on what the larger powers do were reviewed by S. Morgan-Powell, assistant editor-in-chief of the Montreal Star, speaking before members of the Rotary Club at the Windsor Hotel recently.

Mr. Morgan-Powell dealt with the position of the three main groups of Europe—the Scandinavian, the Baltic and the Danubian—and urged his listeners to realize the part these powers were playing in the grim drama which was being enacted in Europe before an alarmed and nervous world.

The speaker after outlining the position of these various groups, said he thought there was a lesson for Canadians in the European tangle.

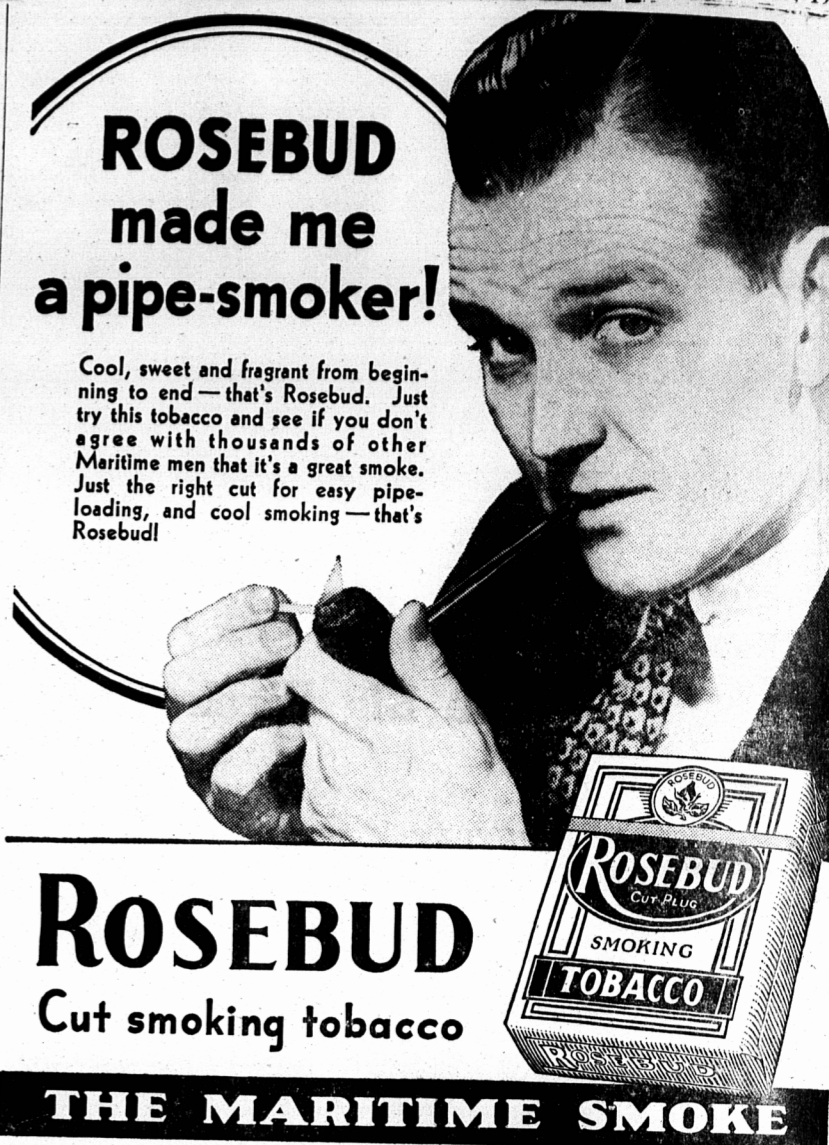

"We may well thank whatever gods there be that we are far from the scene of the amazing conflict of interests, that ghastly struggle for economic and national life," said Mr. Morgan-Powell. "But none the less, despite those 3,000 miles of sea that constitute our present safeguard, we cannot afford to shut our eyes. If there is any lesson Europe has to teach us today it is this: 'Keep your lamps burning.'" he added.

"If we do that, without any thought, as we can have no thought of aggression, then, should the time ever come, which God forbid, when we find ourselves called upon to play our part in the interests of world stability, we shall, let us hope, be not only ready, but able, to do our share in preventing the forces of evil and darkness from overcoming those of beauty and light," he declared.

Mr. Morgan-Powell first dealt with the Scandinavian group, then the Baltic States and finally the Danubian group, reviewing the problems confronting each group and their position as regards Ger-hot day, fill a basin with tepid water, dissolve about a teaspoon of baking soda in the water, and soak the feet for fifteen minutes or so. Finish with a dash of cold water and dust with talcum powder. If you have a few minutes to spare, lie down with the feet elevated on a pillow. Epsom salt water baths are also very refreshing to tired feet. If calluses have developed, try massaging the feet with cold cream, rubbing the cream well into the calloused spots, finishing with a dash of rubbing alcohol.

Queen Mary's Country Home

When King George asked his mother where she would like to live in the country, Queen Mary could have chosen from half a dozen palaces and hundreds of country houses.

She chose Frogmore Cottage, an unpretentious Georgian house, in the grounds of Windsor Great Park. For one who has made her accustomed home at Buckingham Palace, at Balmoral, and at Sandringham, the cottage is small.

But it is close to the resting place of her husband. It is peopled by memories of a thousand happy days.

When King George the Fifth was no more than son of the then Prince of Wales, he and his Princess, lived quietly at Frogmore.

On winter days they went skating on the lake that fronts the colonnaded facade.

Sometimes the young Princess sat, furred and glowing in an ice-chair, which the young husband

QUINTUPLETS REPORTED SUFFERING FROM COLDS

August has brought an unusual amount of trouble to the five first ladies of Callander, A week ago Emilie (3) became slightly ill and the quintuplets' physician Dr. A. R. Dafoe, promptly isolated her from her sisters. He announced last week that she would be allowed to return this week. Now visitors flocking to the twice-a-day "personal appearances" at Dafoe hospital were informed that these had been suspended. In a formal statement Dr. Dafoe explained the sisters were suffering from mild colds. Yvonne (1) got a good sunbathe in her bathing suit last week even if she was disappointed that Emilie couldn't come out. Marie (2) did too, but Cecil (4) was frankly puzzled when Dr. Dafoe told her Emilie had to stay in for a few days. Annette (5) smiled cheerfully when a cameraman found her sitting on the edge of the quints wading pool, because she was sure Emilie wouldn't be inside. Not smiling so broadly were the little sisters as the doctor took precautions to keep their record for good health as clear as possible.
