Corinne Griffith Gives Fine Role In Modern Play

"SATURDAY'S CHILDREN" SHOWS THE SANER SIDE OF FLAMING YOUTH; THE YOUNG COUPLE WHY TRY TO LOVE ON MEAGRE EARNINGS.

In "Saturday's Children," her newest production, which began its local showing at the Capitol Theatre Monday, Corinne Griffith, with her superb beauty and ability, touches entirely new heights in her fine interpretation of Bobby Halvey, a working girl with very modern ideas on the subject of matrimony. "Saturday's Children" is a domestic story of the more intimate type, which depends for its interest and entertainment value not upon spectacular backgrounds, handsome mountings, or sensational emotionalism, but upon its human qualities, its stark realism, its profound philosophy and deep feeling. It deals with the disconcerting honesty of young men and women in love today.

place; but Miss Griffith has succeeded in portraying the charm and whimsicality, the courage and tremendous human quality of the character. One leaves the Capitol Theatre with a feeling of having peeped through the windows of his neighbor's home. The picture should prove quite as popular as the play, which ran for nine months in New York and has been translated into various languages.

FUNERAL THURSDAY—The funeral of the late Mrs. Oliver Mason of Sunbury will take place on Thursday, May 16th, service starting at three o'clock. Interment in Clifton Cemetery.

FUNERAL TODAY—The funeral of the late Mrs. Lloyd Moreside, will be held today, Wednesday, May 15th, service starting at 3 o'clock. Interment will be in East Wiltshire Cemetery.

ON MOTOR TOUR—Rotarian Dr. J. C. Houston and Mrs. Houston, accompanied by Mrs. F. R. Heartz and Miss Ruth Heartz, left yesterday afternoon for the Hochelaga en route to Halifax to attend the District Rotary Conference. They will then proceed to Sackville to attend the closing of Mount Allison University at which the Doctor's son Gilbert is a student. The party intended to return to the Island on Wednesday next. They are travelling by motor car.

GOVT. DREDGE IN PORT—Dredge No. 115 in charge of Capt. MacLeod arrived in this port on Saturday last from Point Tupper, N. S., with the S. S. Lisgar in charge of Capt. Gamble. The S. S. Sogenda, from Pictou, N. S., joined Capt. MacLeod at Port Hawkesbury, Capt. George Gallant in charge. The dredge left Halifax Thursday last and had a very good trip over. Her purpose in coming here is to dredge on the east side of the railway wharf. It is expected that operations will start on Monday next.

DREDGE AT WORK—Suction Dredge No. 2, owned by the Canadian Dredging Company, Welland, Ontario, and in charge of Captain G. Robins, is back on the job again making a fill inside the new C. N. R. spur line this side of the Hillsboro Bridge. The mud is sucked from the sea bottom by a pumping system and forced through a pipe line which runs under the railway track and ejected into the fill. The water is released through a culvert which leads back to the river. The whole operation is very novel and interesting. It is expected that the work will be completed late this fall. The officers in charge are: Capt. G. Robins, Chief Engineer Garnet Murphy, second engineer, Arthur Clouglie, V. "Slim" Nicholson, in charge of digging operations. The dredge has a crew of twenty men.

POLICE COURT—Four cases appeared before His Honor at the Police Court yesterday morning. Two prohibition cases were adjourned as was an assault case and a man charged with ill treating a domestic animal. One of the prohibition cases proved to be somewhat out of the ordinary. It appears, according to the evidence, that two prohibition officers accompanied by constables entered the premises of an unoccupied house on Sydney Street, the entry being made by way of a shed and yard adjoining. Constable J. S. Biggar, the only witness sworn, testified that two men were seen in the yard at the time of their entrance, one close by the fence, and the other on a sort of a wall in a gangway, using a flashlight. Both men were searched and no liquor was found on their persons. Afterwards, however, a squabble occurred between one of the inspectors and one of the defendants, the latter receiving a cut on the head from a flashlight wielded by the former. Asked by defendant's counsel if defendant was hit vigorously, he replied, "It did not hurt the flashlight." It was brought out in Biggar's evidence that the inspectors and constables intended raiding the house adjoining, but did not have search warrants. The men were allowed to leave the yard, after which four quarts of rum were found in the gangway ceiling of the vacant house. There are several witnesses for the prosecution and defence yet to be heard.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 14.—The proverb that the man who is his own lawyer has a fool for his client fell down badly in the police court here recently when a deaf and dumb man, charged with assault, won a discharge on his own behalf. Odds were heavily in his favor, however, as the private prosecutor failed to appear. The accused talked to the magistrate through an interpreter who understood the hand language.

The May number of the Radio News gives the number of broadcast stations in the United States and Canada as something like seven hundred, of which six hundred are in the United States and about eighty in Canada. The Canadian stations include nine in the Maritimes, at Moncton, Saint John and Fredericton, in New Brunswick, Halifax, Sydney and Louisburg in Nova Scotia, and Charlottetown (2) and Summerside, Prince Edward Island. The largest stations in Canada are at Bowmanville, Ontario, and Winnipeg, Manitoba, each 5,000 watts. The Moncton Station is 500 watts. The same as those at Halifax, Toronto, Vancouver and other places. The Charlottetown stations are of 100 and 30 watts, that at Summerside 25 watts.

The Schenectady station of 50,000 watts is the largest in the United States, but there are several of 10,000 to 25,000 watts, including those at Chicago and other large centres. A good many of the stations have a power of less than 100 watts, the smallest being five watts, credited to the station at Carbonate, Pennsylvania. California leads the states with forty-six stations, and New York is second with forty-five. Pennsylvania is third with forty-one stations, and Illinois fourth with forty. Texas, the largest state in area, is next with thirty-one stations. New Jersey has twenty-eight, Ohio, twenty-seven, Missouri, twenty-two, and Massachusetts, twenty-one. Of the cities New York has twenty-three stations and Chicago twenty-one. Philadelphia is third with twelve, and Seattle fourth with eleven. Los Angeles and Portland each have ten, and Boston, St. Louis, San Francisco and New Orleans have six each. Maine has three stations, Kentucky three; Utah, three; New Mexico, three; Vermont, two; New Hampshire, two; Delaware, two; South Carolina, two; Nevada, one and Wyoming, one. Nevada did not have any station until a few months ago, when KOH, with the low power of 100 watts, was established. Wyoming's sole station is KYWO, with a 500-watt transmitter, at Laramie. Three stations in the Philippine Islands, three in Alaska, two in the Hawaiian Islands and one in Porto Rico are also under the supervision of the United States Radio Commission.

In addition to the broadcast stations the Radio News gives a list of short-wave stations in the world, totalling about 135. Of these more than fifty are in the United States and three in Canada. The Canadian stations are at Louisburg, N.S., Drummondville, Quebec, and Winnipeg. Other countries with short wave stations are England, France, Germany, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Norway, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Russia, Denmark, Finland, Austria, Australia, British Guiana, Costa Rica, Japan, Java, South Africa, Morocco and Mexico.

It is estimated that there are 20,000,000 radio receiving sets in the world, of which nearly one-half are in the United States and Canada. The people of British Isles and the Germans are the world's greatest users next to the Americans. With a population of fewer than 50,000,000 Great Britain has 2,500,000 homes equipped for radio and the German figure is approximately the same. France, with a population of 40,000,000 has 1,250,000 families possessing radios, the Japanese have 350,000 radio sets, Sweden 371,000, Austria 325,000, Italy 250,000 and Czechoslovakia 250,000. Argentina with a population of less than 11,000,000 records 530,000 sets. In many parts the radio has preceded electric light and power, and this is especially true of the rural districts not penetrated yet by regular hydro service.

MARITIME PREMIERS SUPPORT CLAIMS FOR EQUITY IN LAND CONCESSIONS

SAINT JOHN, N. B., May 14.—The Premiers of the three Maritime Provinces have written their approval of a resolution passed by the Maritime Board of Trade endorsing the attempt of the Governments of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island to secure an adjustment of Maritime claims to an equity in land concessions to other provinces.

The text of the resolution is: "Whereas, it is understood that the governments of the three Maritime Provinces are keenly alert to their equity in land concessions to other provinces of the Dominion since Confederation by reason of the fact that such concessions involved no quid pro quo whatsoever to the Maritimes; and

"Whereas, the Prairie Provinces are now negotiating for the possession and control of their lands and natural resources, doing so without any opposition from the Maritimes and with every prospect of success; and

"Whereas, the equity of the Maritime Provinces in such concessions to other Provinces of the Dominion has already been admitted by the late Sir Wilfred Laurier, Sir R. L. Borden and by the present premier of the Dominion; and

"Whereas, while concessions of land to other provinces have been made at various times over a long period, no action has yet been taken by the Maritime Provinces to definitely establish and obtain their just and reasonable equity in such concessions:

"Therefore be it resolved, that the Maritime Board of Trade strongly endorses the attitude of the governments of the three Maritime Provinces in this highly important matter and respectfully urges that upon conclusion of the present negotiations with the Western Provinces for the transfer of lands and natural resources to them the earliest opportunity will be taken to submit the claims of the Maritimes in relation to concessions of lands and natural resources to other provinces of the Dominion since Confederation; and towards the furtherance of such efforts the most earnest and energetic co-operation of the Maritime Board of Trade is sincerely preferred."
