Carry On Canada Corps

Tickets for the Second Mammoth Dance of the Carry on Canada Corps to be held on Wednesday, the 27th November, at the gala opening of the Eastern Hay and Feed Company's new warehouse will go on sale at leading drug stores on Monday, the 18th. Each ticket will have a distinctive number which will appear in two places. On presentation of the tickets they will be torn in half, the purchaser retaining one half upon which the distinctive number will appear, the other half with the same number will be deposited in the drum from which will be drawn the winning numbers for door prizes. It will, therefore, be necessary for everyone to have a ticket and, in view of the congestion that occurred at our last dance at the opening of the DeBlois Bros. Warehouse, we strongly urge that tickets be purchased in advance. All members of the Carry on Canada Corps will also have a supply of tickets for sale. Drug stores where tickets are available will be designated by a card in the window.

Door prizes will be drawn for every hour commencing at 9 o'clock and the winning tickets only will be withdrawn from subsequent drawings. Come early and stay late so that your ticket will be available for all drawings.

Canada And U. S. Closely Allied

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 15 —That Canada is at war without reserve was a statement made by A. A. Gardiner, assistant general passenger traffic manager, Canadian National Railways, when addressing the Vermont section of the New England council at the annual dinner here last night.

Canada being on a war footing, said Mr. Gardiner unavoidably enforces upon her citizens changes and restrictions. "For example," he continued, "in order that we may have the money needed to purchase war material from you, our government has found it necessary to curtail as much as possible, the expenditure of our money outside Canada for less essential—for less vital purposes."

Mr. Gardiner explained the necessity for restrictions on the travel of Canadians regretting that any inconvenience should thereby arise and he added "every dollar spent by United States tourists in Canada increases our purchasing power. It goes straight back to the United States for war purchases. We cannot do without these goods. We must, therefore, closely control all avoidable expenditures in order that the greatest possible amount of money may be available for war purchases. Our effort must be put forth to the last notch. Our continued existence as free men may be assured by no less than this."

Is Air Warden Without Arms

LONDON, Nov. 15—(CP)—Horace Lineham was born without arms but he's the most useful man at the Welsh Tavern Air Raid Precautions Post.

What other Wardens do with their hands, 31-year-old "Joe" does with his feet. And just as well, too. He answers the phone keeps the log, puts on his tin hat, stops ouses when there is danger, tests gas-masks, shepherds people to shelter, keeping busy at the 101 jobs that occupy an A.R.P. warden's time.

"I've been a warden for a year, working without pay," said Joe. I'm no good to the army but can do anything at A.R.P. that other people can do. Im registered as a part time worker, but most days I put in 18 hours. I live just around the corner.

Joe has no fear of anything the Germans may send over, but he has a complaint. "The boys want me to do all the inside work. I want to be outside—in the front line."

His mates call Lineham the most useful man on the job.

"He did a grand piece of work when we took the gas mask census, making sure everyone's mask fitted properly," said Les Couchman, one of his aides. "The only trouble is we can't find enough to keep him busy.

"You'd think he would be satisfied with the work he does already. But not Joe. He wants to be a roof spotter."

GIRLS AS AIDES TO HOME GAURDS

CHRISTCHURCH, England, Nov. 14—(C P)—Every one of the 200 "old sweats" in the Home Guard here think there is nobody quite like the Christchurch Girl Guides. Rain or shine, two of them turn up at the drill hall every night to run messages and go on errands for the company.

The Guides' best achievement was summoning the guard to duty on an emergency call one night when they cycled along miles of country roads and had the guardsmen at headquarters in two hours.

'Good heavens. How on earth did we get them here so soon?" the commanding officer asked when he saw his men massed on parade. "The guides have done it again, sir," an officer said.

When the company was being organized, Hazel Hornby, 16-year-old high school girl, and her friends went to headquarters to see if they could help. On bicycles they toured the countryside delivering postcards inviting men to join.

When we formed the company, she trooped along with her girls and rather shyly asked if they could help." Major T. Woomball, commanding officer, related. "Help! Why, they've nearly made this company.

They've done us countless good turns."

Hazel blushed. "We like doing the work the major is so nice."

ANNOUNCEMENT

— TO —

POULTRY FARMERS

In response to an ever increasing demand, and conviction that there is need for such, we have decided to furnish a Poultry Killing, Sorting, Grading and Marketing Service, to farmers who are interested in getting the utmost value out of their poultry production efforts.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS are lost to the poultry industry each year, through improper killing and faulty dressing, and the producer is the loser in every case.

Expert killing and the most modern method of plucking and dressing (semi-scald) will be provided at a nominal price per bird, and when requested, the stock will be sold on a competitive basis, at a small commission charge. Government grading standards will apply in all cases.

Operations will commence about November 20th, and will be carried on in the Livestock Feed Warehouse Annex, 60 Fitzroy Street, Charlottetown. You will be well advised not to dispose of your poultry otherwise, without first investigating our proposition.
