Romance, music, laughter and a brand new Hollywood star team are the ingredients calculated to attract special favor University's "Moonlight in Havana" coming today to the Capitol Theatre.

Water Commissioner's report continues: At the close of the year there were 3,187 homes supplied with water service; 2,836 of which are connected to the sewerage system.

As a comparison the total consumption for 1943 was 432,253,990 gallons, or a daily average of 1,222,887 gallons. This shows an increase consumption of 61,174,023 gallons this year over 1942 or an average daily increase of 167,601 gallons.

Increased Demand A large portion of this increased consumption is due to the influx of population since the war started and also the expansion of business of firms supplied with water on a metered basis. From our records we know that the services supplied through meter have increased their consumption by 60 percent in that period. However, over and above this normal increase, there has been a further increase in the unusually heavy use of water during very severe cold periods. This is due partly to leaking fixtures, but more especially to the deliberate running of water to prevent freezing. During the cold snap in December this year, it was necessary to pump almost double the amount normally used by the town. This abnormal demand coupled with the normal increase, cause very close to taxing our pumping ability and...

Police Report Shows High Standard of Law and Order

A high standard of law and order, with a total absence of major crime, was experienced during the year 1943, reports Chief of Police A. Birwistle, in an annual statement submitted by the chairman of the police committee at last night's City Council meeting. Serious offenses such as breaking and entering and theft were lower than for any similar period for the past fifteen years. The number of prosecutions entered and disposed of in the city police court amounted to 558, with 58 convictions and 40 dismissals. Arrests totalled 343, a decrease of 72 as compared with the preceding year. There was a decrease of 78 arrests for drunkenness.

Amounts collected in fines and costs during the year were: prohibition, $937; excise, $1,587; miscellaneous, $2,171. Under the Prohibition Act 751 searches were conducted, these being in addition to the extensive raids carried out by the prohibition squad of the R. C. M. P. 39 prosecutions were entered under the Act, and 21 under the Excise Act. Five prosecutions were entered under the milk-by-law; four for sediment and one for a sample which contained less than 3 1/2 per cent of butter fat. Convictions were recorded in all cases with fines of $5 and costs. During the year the traffic by laws were amended by changing twenty-four of the "stop" signs at intersections to "slow." The change has operated quite satisfactorily for no accidents or collisions were experienced. Due to wartime regulations on gasoline and tires the decrease in motor vehicle traffic continued. Eighty-eight convictions for violations of the Highway Traffic Act and traffic laws were recorded. Ten persons were injured in street accidents, but with one exception they were of a minor nature. Five accidental deaths occurred within the City. In one instance a man was overcome by fumes during fumigating operations at a milk factory; another man received fatal injuries while loading girder at Connellys wharf; another man received fatal injuries as a result of his auto being in collision with C. N. R. Engine at Longworth Avenue Railway Crossing; an elderly man was fatally injured by a fall down stairs at his dwelling and there was the case of a man losing his life when trapped in a fire at a dwelling house on Grafton Street. The City coroner held inquests in three of these cases with verdicts of accidental deaths. The Police assisted the coroners by investigating the occurrences, summoning jurymen and witnesses, and attending inquests.

Canada Life In reporting a very satisfactory progress in 1943, Mr. S. G. McEwen, general manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company, stated that more than 16,000 new insurance contracts were completed, and that the number of lives insured were increased by 4,000. New life insurance included revenues, and increased totalled $70,827,906, a substantial gain over 1942. Assurances in force were increased to $82,803,814 in 1943. In addition, retirement benefits with maturity benefits totalled $75,774,394 and immediate and vested annuities of $3,310,000 are served of $33,384,830 provided annual payments to annuitants of $3,733,722. Mr. McEwen stated that the business in force figures represented "the largest net gain in thirteen years."

The Canadian Life now has 230,582 life policies, 29,853 annuity contracts and 110,976 individual group insurance certificates in force; a total of 381,510 contracts. On the basis of four out of a million people are vitally concerned in the stability and management of this company. In 1943, the Canada Life averaged $80,000 per working day in working day in payments to policyholders, annuitants and beneficiaries of red roses. The company's long day towards war financing and maintenance of public morale. Mr. McEwen also pointed out that "the rate of interest earned by the Canada Life in 1943 was 4.27 per cent, as compared with 4.25 per cent in 1942, although for practically all of this period, the major portion of the Company's available funds was invested in war loans as a result of interest." In 1943, as in the previous two years, the Canada Life's investment in government securities was very considerably greater than its entire premium income. As a result of improved mortality experience, a stabilized interest rate and decreased operational costs, the security behind Canada Life contracts has been still further strengthened.
