SASKATOON HAS MODEL CAMP FOR UNEMPLOYED

(Canadian Press) SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 18.—Saskatoon's method of dealing with unemployed single men is attracting the attention of Western relief officers and may soon be adopted in other cities of the West.

The city maintains a camp in the exhibition grounds and the men are organized very similar to an army battalion. An ex-army officer and a superintendent are the only men in charge who are paid.

Actual management of the camp is carried on by committees selected by the men. Roll call is taken every morning and the men are classified as to their working abilities. Some are delegated as cooks; others as policemen to enforce discipline, while others carry on the routine work of the camp.

The camp scheme of handling the single unemployed is cheaper than other methods. Saskatoon is maintaining a single man at an expenditure of 25 cents a day as compared with 85 cents in Winnipeg.

QUEEN "FUNDS" IN HOSPITAL BOX

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 18.—(U. P.)—The Liverpool Foot Hospital barn-door box has been opened.

For more than three months the box has been attached to the outside railings around the hospital. The box is an annual collection deposit for public funds. Officials of the hospital hoped that contributions would exceed those of last year.

When the box was opened the following were found: 1 "Craven A" cigarette; 1 match; 6 pens, 1 piece of stone, 3 pieces of chalk, 2 tram tickets, 1 football ticket, 13 pieces of silver paper, 1 ball of silver paper, 8 shillings, one penny (or 1/4) in silver and copper.

GASPEREAUX WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A very pleasant evening was spent on Feb. 11, when the members of the Gasperaux Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. George A. Hicken to hold their monthly meeting.

Seventeen members and three visitors were present. The meeting opened by singing "Institute Song," followed by roll call, which was answered with riddles and jokes. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. The sick committee reported one visit had been made to the sick, and two members were appointed for the coming month. Collection of fees were taken, which amounted to $1.30. One new member joined, bringing our total membership up to twenty-six.

Two committees were appointed to provide entertainment for the coming months, a captain being chosen for each. Committees are to act alternately. It was also decided to purchase entertainment books for the use of the Institute. "My Mother's Maiden Name and place of birth," was chosen as the reply for roll call at the next meeting, which is to be held at the home of Mrs. James Reilly on March 18th. The business part of the meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem, after which all present were served to a dainty lunch by Mrs. Hicken, assisted by several of the ladies present. Several of the members contributed to the programme by comic recitations, songs, readings, etc., while many songs, recitations, music and step dancing were enjoyed from the visitors. Dancing was a feature of the evening, and at the melodious strains of the Harmonica many couples gaily tramped to the floor, where for a few hours, they acquitted themselves creditably. After some splendid step-dancing was enjoyed, the meeting was brought to a close, each one feeling that a pleasant evening had been enjoyed by all. The Institute wishes to thank Mrs. Hicken for the very pleasant hours spent at her home. It also wishes to thank the visitors for the splendid contribution to the programme, which was such a success.

DECLINE IN SILVER CUTS VALUE OF DOLLAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Sharp declines in the price of silver have reduced the intrinsic value of the silver dollar to a new low record.

The silver dollar of the United States contains less than an ounce of real silver, which at present prices is worth only 26 cents. Although worth less than a third of its face value, the silver dollar passes everywhere for par because it has the full credit of the United States behind it.

Cuts Off His Son In Will Of 25,000 Words

LONDON, England, Feb. 18.—An eccentric Suffolk squire cut off his son when he wrote a will of 25,000 words equivalent to three pages of a newspaper—and made sure that he should not inherit his property.

This story is revealed by an official announcement asking the heir male of Sir Thomas Brook, who died in 1418, to come forward and claim Ufford Place, Suffolk, and the estate, value £91,285, left by the squire, Mr. Francis Capper Brooke, who died on January 13, 1886.

Mr. F. C. Brooke disinherited his son, Reginald, with the exception of a small annuity, some years before he died and left his property to the heir male of Sir Thomas Brook.

He was apparently fearful of the prospect of the only survivor of his family being his disinherited son.

This is, in fact, now the case, for Mr. F. C. Brooke's daughter has died without male issue.

Hence the search for the heir of Sir Thomas Brook, and if he is not found the property becomes the possession of the Biola family, who have inter-married with the Brooks family. The disinherited son is Colonel Reginald Brook, who is 77, and lives in London. He said to a press representative that his father repeatedly altered his intentions about the will, but "stupor did nothing."

"Then came the end. One morning he was found dead in bed."

PARIS STYLES

PARIS, Feb. 18.—There's one good thing about had times—it makes you ingenious, which, after all, is the secret of being well-dressed. Most anyone can find out what to wear if they have two eyes and two ears, but how to wear it is the story that has an entirely different ending.

For a tall, slender person, Tolla has a dinner frock of fine dark blue crepe lace. The lower portion of the skirt and the sleeves from the elbow to the wrist are of fan-pleated chiffon. The sleeves are in a jacket of lace put on during dinner and removed for dancing. A band of eight flowers, while dahlias, go over the right shoulder and a little ways down the back. They are on the gown but when the jacket is on, the edge of it slips under the edge of the flowers and gives the impression that the flowers are on the jacket itself.

An oval face knows that it can wear one of those ultra-new hats designed by Agnes made of a brown and white cotton handkerchief. It has criss-cross lines in it, wraps around the head and the ends come down and flop over each other in a loop under the chin. It would never do for a round face because it would make it look like a complete circle and emphasize its over-plumpness.

And sweaters, while extremely smart, are not for the woman with lavish hips or a too large chest. For her there are so many other types of blouse that are of satin or silk with pin-stripe effects that give her the needed slenderizing.

MISS LAURA MAY HYDE

The people of Cornwall and particularly those of Meadowbank mourn the passing away of Laura May Hyde, daughter of the late Charles and Sarah Hyde of West River. She was born October 7th, 1869, and lived with her brother Mr. Russell Hyde at their beautiful home at Meadowbank.

Miss Hyde had been suffering for six months with a growth on the kidney and went to the P. E. I. Hospital for an operation about the first of December. The operation seemed to have been successful and great hopes were entertained for her recovery when the end came with startling suddenness. The brothers Wm. Russell and Albert did all in their power for her and mourn today the loss of a faithful and beloved sister who always did her best to make the home comfortable and happy. She will be greatly missed in the home and community and church, but she has received the reward of the faithful at the hand of her Lord. The funeral was held from the home of Wm. Russell Hyde and was conducted by Rev. D. K. Ross, minister of the Cornwall charge. Interment was made in the home cemetery near the graves of her people. Sincere sympathy is extended to all the relatives.

NEIGHBOURS ASTOUNDED BY $3,000,000 WILL OF SHABBY OLD WOMAN.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 18.—People living in Marlborough Avenue, Clapham Common—a modern suburban road—were amazed to learn that the most reserved and frugal-living of their neighbours, who lived there almost as a recluse for thirty-six years, had left more than $400,000.

This secret wealth was revealed in the will of Miss Mary Elizabeth Allanson, who died in December, after a short illness, aged 84 years.

Miss Allanson lived alone save for a companion, Miss Ellis. She knew none of her neighbors and spoke to no one.

She always wore the same shabby black clothes, and twice a day, in all weathers, she walked with Miss Ellis half a mile from her home to St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Clapham Park-road, never taking an omnibus or tramcar in any circumstances.

The pair left the house before seven a. m., for early morning mass, and again in the evening.

These were the only journeys Miss Allanson ever made. Miss Ellis did all the shopping and attended to the household. All the time Miss Allanson lived in the house her only visitors were priests from the church.

"We all knew her by sight," said one of the neighbors to the press, "and we regarded her as a bit of a mystery. There were rumors that she was rather wealthy, although not to such an extent as this."

Miss Allanson left £7,000 to the Roman Catholic Bishop of Southwark for the poor missions of the diocese; £2,000, her clothes, jewellery and furniture to Miss Ellis; £1,000 to the Southwark Roman Catholic Rescue Society for Destitute Children; £200 to the superiors of the Little Sisters of the Poor, Kennington; £200 to the superiors of Nazareth House, Hammersmith; and £100 to the rector of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Clapham.

Five nephews who under the will receive the residue of her estate, are all middle-aged men, most of them in good positions and with grown-up families.

"Miss Allanson was a generous and frequent giver to the church," said a friend who has known her for years. "Nobody knew what she gave, how often and how much. It was a condition of every gift she made that the utmost secrecy must be observed."

SOVIETS DOOR TRADE RUINOUS

(By Canadian Press) VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 18.—Competition for Soviet Russia in the wooden door trade is being keenly felt in that branch of British Columbia's lumber industry. Particularly is this competition apparent in the British Isles, where for the first time Russian-made doors are making severe inroads at the expense of the Canadian product.

A large number of ready-made doors are said to be waiting in Russian ports on the Baltic for shipment to the United Kingdom early in the spring at prices which Canadians will be unable to meet. Not only will these Russian doors undersell Canadian doors, but they will also displace doors from Sweden which for many years has been one of the chief sources of supply for that market.

A British syndicate is reported to have made a deal with large interests engaged in the production of wooden doors in Russia, arranging to take their entire output in 1931 and 1932. On the strength of this agreement, it is said, the Russian factories have been geared to greatly increased production so that the prospect of holding its own in the United Kingdom would appear to be rather slim for the British Columbia door trade.

$10,000,000 SUBSIDY FOR FRENCH WINE GROWERS

PARIS, Feb. 17.—In order to relieve the crisis among wine growers, the French Government has set aside $10,000,000 for the purchase of alcohol from distilling wine. This will be kept in reserve and put back into the trade when the market situation warrants.

PROSECUTIONS WILL FOLLOW SALE OF CAPONE BIOGRAPHY

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—The Department of National Revenue issued orders a week ago that a book entitled "The Life of Al Capone" was not to be admitted through the Customs to the Dominion. The book was classed in the departmental edict as "objectionable reading matter." Today complaints reached the Ottawa police that the debarred life story of the Chicago gangland king was on sale at certain book stands, and the morality squad immediately went into action, seizing the prohibited volumes. Criminal prosecution of those responsible for bringing the books into Canada is in prospect.

ADVOCATES GARDEN WORK FOR ILLS OF HUMANITY

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Joseph Moore, at 79, advocates a little garden work for all the ills of humanity.

"If it's the style to wear short skirts women should wear 'em," she said. "If using a bit of paint and lots of powder improves the looks of a woman—and it generally does—then put it on thick," she advised.

HOT WATER GREET'S POLICE

WELLAND, Ont., Feb. 18.—When the police raided the home of Mrs. Alec Smith, Beaverhead, they met a hot reception in the form of a pot of boiling water, Mrs. Smith pleaded guilty to a charge of throwing it over a raiding officer and was fined $50 and costs.

Should Sell Car To Buy Bathtub. NEGRO TELLS HIS FRIENDS THAT THEY DO NOT KNOW HOW TO LIVE. MACON, Ga., Feb. 18.—Any negro who owns an automobile and does not own a bath tub should sell the car and buy a tub. T. M. Campbell, of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, told an audience of white and negro farmers here today. Campbell, the first negro agent under the Smith-Lever bill, is director of negro demonstrations in seven states. He said he did not like "to go to these emancipation celebrations where all the accomplishments of the negroes are related and nothing is said about the fact that negroes are dying five to every white person." He added that the negro "did not know how to live" and said "every negro who owns an automobile and not a bath tub ought to sell the car and buy a tub."

Golden Wonders. (British United Press) CAIRO, Feb. 18.—Professor Selim Hassan, who is conducting the excavations in the vicinity of the Sphinx, has submitted a report to the Government of his discovery in the tomb of Ra Ouer, an Egyptian who held 36 high offices at once in a royal court 5,000 years ago. He records that in the tomb was a limestone sarcophagus containing the mummy of a woman who had died when about twenty three years of age. The body was in such a bad condition that it crumbled when being removed from its coffin. Around the sarcophagus were 79 vases of polished alabaster, four pottery vessels, a small table of alabaster and five dishes of red pottery plated with gold. Also in the chamber was a gold crown thirty inches in circumference with a gold lock consisting of two parts shaped like lotus flowers. The flowers were enclosed in two rings, on the top of which rested a bird. In front of the crown was a gold disc with a gold cylinder in the center set with colored stones. There were two rings of pure gold at opposite sides of the disc, also encircled with lotus flowers. There were clay fingers near the mummy's hands which, it is believed were intended for the use of the dead when the real fingers had deteriorated. This method was known in later burials, but this is the first time such fingers have been found in a tomb of the early dynasties.

British Census. (British United Press) LONDON, Feb. 18.—After the statutory interval of ten years, a census is to be taken in Great Britain on Sunday, April 26. In 1921, when the last census was taken, the population was 37,889,000. It is believed that the 1931 census will throw an interesting light on the changes which have taken place in the life of the nation. It will show to what extent women are replacing men in offices, workshops and factories. The country will be sub-divided into 40,000 enumeration districts, and it is expected that the cost of the census will be about $2,500,000. Arrangements have been made to secure the accuracy of the census. The police will go into the highways and byways and obtain returns from gypsies, tramps and people who might be overlooked by the enumerators. Sorting and counting machines will be used at Somerset House, where the gigantic task of compiling an analysis of the returns is undertaken. The first census in Great Britain was taken in 1801, when the population was only 8,833,000.
