NEGLIGENCE CHARGED IN SHIP DISASTER

VIOLENCE SPREADS IN TEXTILE STRIKE

RENEWED BLOODSHED IN RIOTING

Mobilization Of Additional Troops Likely As Peace Efforts Fail.

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Renewed textile strike violence resulted in calls for the mobilization of additional troops today while the Federal Mediation Board sought peace through conferences with mill owners—but made no progress.

Militiamen sped from Providence to Saylesville, R. I., where gunfire brought wounds to two men and a woman, 73, as a jeering crowd of 2,000 pickets vainly tried to close a large plant here.

Units Called Out

In two other New England States, Connecticut and Maine—National Guard units were mustered for the first time since the strike began. Late in the day a probability arose the troops would soon be on the march in Massachusetts.

Lancaster, Pa., and Annapolis, N. C., also were the scenes of riots. At the former, both human heads and mill windows were broken before the disturbance was subdued by tear gas and police clubs.

"Hot Air" Balloon

AUSTRIAN INVENTOR UTILIZES "HOT AIR"

Strange as it may seem, Herr Brunner, Austrian inventor, has designed a new balloon which requires no costly gasses. It rises solely on hot air. The basket carries a small oil-engine which heats the bag to any required temperature and can be shut off to permit air to cool again. Our picture was taken after Herr Brunner had completed successful trials near Berlin.

Dates Set For Silver Fox Show

Great Enthusiasm At Well Attended Meeting Last Night. Show To Be Held Nov. 5th To 9th Inclusive.

Judging by the optimism and enthusiasm which characterized the meeting of the directors of the Silver Fox Exhibitors Association of Prince Edward Island held last evening, the 1934 Silver Fox Show will outshine any of its predecessors. Directors were present from all over the province and many valuable suggestions were made that will be utilised to advantage this year.

The classification of foxes will be the same as last year with the same number of classes, namely, Class 1, Black and Extra Dark with not more than 15 percent silver; Class 2, Dark Silver with 15 to 30 percent silver; Class 3, Dark Medium Silver with 30 to 45 percent silver; Class 4, Medium Silver with 45 to 60 percent silver; Class 5, Light Medium Silver, with 60 to 70 percent silver; Class 6, Pale Silver, over 70 percent silver. These will have 6 sections each, three for males and three for females. The same herds and championship classes will also be in the catalogue but new additions are matched pair, adults; matched pair, pups.

Mr. Heath Bowness of Kensington was appointed Superintendent of identification marks. A classification committee consisting of Gavin Harding, City; Fred Burke, City, and Dr. A. A. Lockhart will have full charge of assigning the foxes to their various color classes.

Mr. George A. Callbeck, President of the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders' Association, who has so capably filled the role of judge the past two shows, was reappointed.

The dates selected are, Nov. 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th. Monday, 5th, will be classification day, and all foxes are expected to be placed by that evening. On Tuesday morning judging will take place and will continue until Friday when it is expected that the final classes will be disposed of about noon. It is hoped to have His Honor Lt.-Gov DeBlois present the prizes and trophies at 2 p.m. on Friday afternoon.

It is likely that the same regulations regarding number of prizes will be in effect but the first four winners will receive greater cash recognition than heretofore.

On Wednesday evening there will be a big banquet at the Canadian National Hotel to which will be invited prominent persons in the public and civic life of the province and an attractive program will form part of the evening's entertainment. Last year the dinner was a wonderful success and the committee in charge expect to eclipse the standard set then.

The different directors present stated that from present indications the Exhibition will be the greatest since 1930 when 750 foxes were shown. As far away as Kildare Cape there are breeders preparing for it. The number of trophies have been increased to seventeen and the silverware when placed on display will be well worth seeing.

FAVORS CHANGE IN LIVESTOCK PRODUCTS ACT

Producers Strongly Indorse Recent Federal Action.

At a joint meeting of the Board of Directors of the Prince Edward Island Swine Growers Association and the Prince Edward Island Livestock Marketing Board held in Charlottetown yesterday a very warm resolution of thanks was ordered to be forwarded to the Dominion Livestock Commissioners and the Director of the Health of Animals Branch, for the amendment to the Livestock Products Act which established this Province as a separate unit under the Act.

It was felt that this change will be a vital influence in the improvement of the swine industry of this Province, and the Directors of the above producers organizations placed themselves on record as strongly approving of the new regulations.

Final arrangements were completed for the annual swine show and sale which takes place on Oct. 16.

English School Boys Return From Nfld.

(C. P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire)

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 11—Forty-eight happy English schoolboys who have spent the past month "roughing it" in the heart of Newfoundland left here tonight on their return to Great Britain.

With their luggage, they carried on board ship a collection of 53 Newfoundland birds, including some rare species, and a large assortment of butterflies, beetles and other insects some of which are believed unknown in British museums.

Although they discovered no new mineral outcrops in the unmapped territory which they traversed, they came upon many uncharted lakes, rivers and mountains. They surveyed and sketched the land they covered.

Crew Failed To Aid Passengers Probe Reveals

Startling Disclosures As Inquiry Into Sea Holocaust Is Continued.

(By R. H. Hippelheuser, Associated Press Staff Writer)
(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—Startling disclosures in the Morro Castle disaster filled the testimony today in the United States Department of Commerce inquiry into Saturday's sea holocaust.

With the federal grand jury rushing its own investigation, hearing Captain William F. Warms and other survivors, the evidence showed:

1. The chief engineer of the fire-destroyed Ward liner, Eben S. Abbott, and his first assistant, Anthony Bujia, were not summoned by officers on the bridge when the fire was first discovered and slept in their cabins until an alarm was sounded for passengers.

Abandoned Ship

2. The chief engineer did not go down to the engine room. He and his assistant were in the first lifeboats to leave the ship. In these two boats were only three passengers.

3. The federal grand jury summoned John Kempf, veteran New York City fireman returning on the Morro Castle from a vacation cruise, who told newspapermen he was awakened by the smell of smoke almost three hours before the S O S was sent out. He said members of the crew he saw showed ignorance in how to handle the fire hose.

Yet To Be Told

4. The chief wireless operator, George Rogers, reported to have said the "real story" of the fire remains to be told, was summoned by the grand jury. U. S. Attorney Martin Conboy, it was said, wanted to ask him about the report a wireless station on the Jersey shore asked if the Morro Castle was afire before the liner sent out its "stand by" call.

5. Gouverneur Morris Phelps, veteran traveller, a passenger on the Morro Castle, said he and his family were forced to jump into the storm-lashed Atlantic by the intense heat and dense smoke before the bridge ordered out the life boats. He testified at the Department of Commerce inquiry no one made any effort to help the passengers into the boats or to provide life preservers.

133 Dead

With both federal inquiries in full swing, the survey of Associated Press staff members showed the count of dead and missing still standing at 133 persons.

In addition to the Department of Commerce investigation, conducted by Dickerson N. Hoover of the Steamboat Inspection Service, and the federal grand jury quiz to de-

Catches Shark Off Coast Of Nova Scotia

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

HALIFAX, Sept. 11—With its stores of fighting tuna, swordfish and salmon, Nova Scotia is fast becoming a mecca for big game fishermen, and today J. T. Eagan of Halifax added to its sporting attractions by catching a 10 1-2 foot shark, the first ever to be taken off the province's coast by rod and line.

Eagan along with four others had gone pollock fishing but he took heavier tackle with him, just in case. Just off Devil's Island a 250-pound blue shark raced after the bait, became firmly hooked, and was finally landed after a struggle lasting more than an hour.

The Halifax sportsman made the rod he used himself, fashioning it out of heavy bamboo. Around his body was strapped a special harness into which the butt of the rod was fitted, "I needed the harness too!" Eagan later exclaimed.

Canadian exports to Empire countries during the last year represented about half the total of Canadian exports to all countries.
