Hons. D. Farquharson and D. M. Mackinnon, of P. E. Island, accompanied by Premier Murray, Friday visited the school for the blind. The Island visitors were greatly interested in the school and enjoyed the brief program of music rendered by the pupils. In an address to the school, Premier Farquharson promised that the outcome of his visit and that of Mr. Mackinnon would be advantageous to the institution. After meeting and conversing with the boys and girls from P. E. Island, Premier Murray and his party left the school. —Hx. Chronicle.

At a late hour on Monday night THE GUARDIAN telephoned Mr. A. Lord with reference to the Minto but no word had been received as to her whereabouts. Yesterday she arrived in Georgetown at 11.15 a. m. At 3 o'clock Monday afternoon she encountered a heavy snow storm. It cleared off a little later in the evening, enabling the Captain to sight Point Prim. At dark the weather became much worse and most of the night a blinding snowstorm raged in the straits. Most of the time was spent between St. Peter's Island and Point Prim. Considerable heavy ice was encountered and soundings had to be taken frequently. At 8.30 a. m. yesterday the steamer altered her course for Georgetown, where she arrived as above stated.

R. WHITTON, Sec'y.
THERE was a good attendance at the Young Men's Development Society, in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. last night. A lively debate took place on the subject: "Whether a man is the creature of circumstance or the architect of his own fortune." The subject was opened by H. Williams who claimed that man was a creature of circumstances. He was opposed by L. Coffin who claimed man was the architect of his own fortune. A lively debate followed, taken part in by H. O. Haslam, H. Brehaut, P. Fennell, N. C. McRae, E. T. Higgs, W. T. Wellner, R. Meikie, and others. A vote of the members present was then taken and it was decided by a large majority that man is the architect of his own fortune. The subject for debate next night is: "Who has done the most for the extension of the British Empire the Artisan or the Farmer." Meeting adjourned to meet next Tuesday at 8 p. m. Several new members joined the Society last night and a lively debate is expected next week, as both sides seem confident of victory.

"BRITISH BORN."

This thrilling patriotic drama was witnessed by a very large and fashionable audience in the Opera House last evening, and the interpretation of the play by Price Webber's excellent company, was all that could be desired. Miss Elwina Grey, decidedly popular in our city, was warmly welcomed, and applauded throughout the evening for her spirited acting. Mr. Webber convulsed the audience with his witty sallies, and his songs were deservedly encored. Mr. Bennette was decidedly good as the hero, and Messrs Bedell, McMullan, Chas. and Watter and Miss Carmen were all very acceptable. The orchestra of the company gave some nice selections between the acts which pleased very much. This evening, the "Little Detective."

In referring to the illness of Dr. McGlynn, whose death was reported in our columns yesterday morning a New York Journal says: Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn's case was at first diagnosed as a kidney disease that had caused other complications. It is learned that on the right hip there is a mysterious growth which has given him much trouble. It is also robbing Dr. McGlynn of his vitality. His stalwart frame has wasted away considerably, and he would hardly be recognized by old acquaintances. [It will be remembered that Dr. McGlynn lectured in Charlottetown some years ago.]

A COMMITTEE of Evangelical Alliance protest in the St. John Sun against a Sunday evening concert by the Fisk Jubilee Singers. The protest says:—"We notice with regret that the Fisk Jubilee Singers propose to hold a concert next Sunday evening in the Opera house. This company has always appealed to the public on religious and philanthropic grounds, and has represented itself as being inspired by those motives only which are approved by the most earnest and consistent Christians. It is with pain, therefore, that we find it descending from its lofty moral platform to join hands with other foreign troupes and itinerant musicians in breaking down the sanctity of our Canadian Sabbath. It comes to stretch an evening's profits from the religious public of St. John. . . . It is with feelings of disappointment that we find the Jubilee Singers, under the guise of religion, taking under the aegis of their example those who cater to the pleasure-seeking Sabbath-breakers. . . . The purely sacred character of the performance is put forward as an attraction to the religious public. There could not be a clearer case of "making a gain of godliness."
