Will Form Joint Cadet Services

WINNIPEG, Feb. 7 — (CP) — A joint services cadet board to deal with the work of Cadet Corps of the navy, army and air force will be formed under the Ministers of National Defence, it was announced here today at a meeting of the inter-service Cadet Committee.

The announcement said national civilian organizations sponsoring cadet corps had requested formation of the board. It will co-ordinate the work of the civilian associations.

Members will include representatives of the navy, army, and air force; presidents of the Navy League of Canada, the Air Cadet League, and a civilian member nominated by the army.

OTTAWA, Feb. 7 — (CP) Miss Elizabeth Smellie, chief superintendent of the Victoria Order of nurses, said today in an interview the order will continue to offer scholarships in public health nursing and expects soon to be able to announce a retirement pension plan for nurses on its staff.

As one of the order's future plans is to increase co-operation with government public health programs, the nurses, who will be selected regionally will be expected to return to the area they came from to give the order a year's service.

Since returning to her post with the V.O.N. after four years as matron-in-chief of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, Miss Smellie said she had discovered these changes in the National Health and Hospitalization picture:—

1. Many more babies are being born in hospital, possibly because of fewer doctors and more pre-payment hospitalization plans in operation.

2. The order has more calls to visit mother and babies when they get home from the hospital. This work is the backbone of V.O.N. service.

3. More long medical and surgical cases are being nursed at home.

Greatest problem of the order, as in other war years, is a shortage of staff but none of the 100 centres across Canada has had to be closed for lack of nurses and during the past year three new branches have been opened.

Political Parties Begin Organizing For General Election

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 7—Canada's major and minor political parties have knuckled down to the business of organizing and planning for the forthcoming general election.

From headquarters in Ottawa the Liberal, Progressive Conservative and Co-operative Commonwealth Federation leaders are pressing their local organizations to place candidates in the field and get busy.

All leaders of the principal parties are expected to be candidates again—four in western Canada and one in Quebec.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has announced he will seek re-election in Prince Albert, Sask., the riding he has represented since 1926. John Bracken, Progressive Conservative national leader, will run for a seat in the Commons in Neepawa, Man., and M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, will seek re-election in Rosetown-Biggar, Sask. John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, will contest Lethbridge, Alta., and Maxime Raymond, Bloc Populaire leader, Beauharnois-Laprairie, Que.

King Close to Record

If Mr. King either by a delayed election or by winning the election should still be Prime Minister on June 4 he will have held that post longer than any other Canadian. He will then have exceeded Sir John A. MacDonald's record of 18 years, 11 months and 26 days.

So far the C.C.F. leads all parties in the number of candidates chosen—153 according to the last count of those reported to headquarters. The Progressive Conservatives have nominated 112 and the Liberals 87.

It so happens that the Liberals have a goodly lot of members in the House, probably upwards of 150 who will be candidates again and members prefer to have their constituency nominations shortly before an election.

Indicative of the expectancy that the election will come soon is the fact that members now are bestirring themselves about their nominations. Cabinet ministers are starting to move about. Trade Minister MacKinnon's nominating convention in Edmonton East has been fixed for Feb. 23 and he is going there to speak and then journey to Vancouver to address the board of trade.

Defence Minister McNaughton, beaten in the Grey North by-election, has signified his intention of running in Qu'Appelle, Sask., now represented by E. E. Perley, Progressive Conservative.

Liberals to Contest Every Seat

The Liberals expect to contest every one of Canada's 243 constituencies which with the two-member riding of Halifax and Queen's, P.E.I., elect the 245 members of the Commons. Progressive Conservatives will have more than 200 candidates in the field and the C.C.F. objective is "at least 225." The Social Credit party, hitherto largely an Alberta party, is planning to run candidates in the other provinces.

The Labor Progressive party led by Tim Buck has about 65 candidates nominated across Canada and expects to have 70 to 75 by nomination day. The party's slogan will be "Make Labor a Partner in Government."

Quebec's Bloc Populaire party which operates from a headquarters in Montreal will probably contest most if not all of the 65 Quebec seats and perhaps a few in Ontario and New Brunswick. No candidates have yet been nominated.

There is no assurance about the actual lineup of parties in Quebec except the prospect that there will probably be many Independents. Progressive Conservatives have only four candidates nominated in the French-speaking province but both they and the C.C.F. hope to place candidates into nearly every riding.

There is uncertainty as to how the split in the Liberal ranks occasioned by the Government's compulsory service policies will operate, but National Liberal headquarters plans a Liberal candidate in every Quebec constituency. Whether this will mean the anti-conscriptionist Liberals will run under the party banner with a semi-independent status will probably vary in different constituencies.

The action of Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, former cabinet minister, who is regarded as a leader of the anti-conscriptionist Liberals may have a bearing on the lineup.

The House also has two former Conservatives who now are Independents and anti-conscriptionist in their views. J. S. Roy of Gaspe and Frederic Dorion of Charlevois-Saguenay. Presumably they will run again as Independents but whether there will be other former Conservatives offering themselves for election in the same way remains to be seen.

Manitoba Throne Speech Deals With Post-War Program

WINNIPEG, Feb. 7 — (CP) — A comprehensive program of legislation designed to implement various government post-war projects was outlined today in the speech from the throne read to the opening of the fourth session of the 21st Manitoba legislature.

The speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor R. F. McWilliams, forecast an early start towards full implementation of the government's health scheme, rural electrification project, veterinarian services, education and rehabilitation plans. It announced appointment of a special board under the Dept. of Health and Public Welfare to deal with old age and blind pension problems and steps to co-ordinate all correctional schools under the Attorney-General's department.

SOUGHT TO BE DENTIST

Zane Grey struggled from 1898 until 1904 to establish a dental practice in New York.

RED CROSS CORPS

The following report of the Canadian Red Cross Corps for 1944 was submitted by Mrs. H. L. Palmer, Divisional Commander, at Tuesday's annual meeting of the P.E.I. Division of the Red Cross Society:

The Charlottetown detachment of one hundred and twenty-five members is under the efficient leadership of Mrs. E. M. Bagnall. The Summerside detachment which is most capably led by Mrs. D. C. Tompkins, consists of twenty-five members. This, latter detachment was completely reorganized last October and is now a General Duties detachment. It had been suggested by headquarters, that where the numbers are small, it is better not to have the four sections, but to work as a unit. Mrs. John Hopkirk, acting commandant of this detachment found it necessary to resign as did Miss Clara Mountain, O.C. of office administration. I should like to thank these two officers for their unfailing interest in Corps work, and although they are too busy at present to take charge, they have reverted to the ranks and still do their share of service. At this time also, I want to welcome Mrs. Tompkins the new commandant of the Summerside detachment, Mrs. Tomkpins only became commandant in October, but she is doing a grand job.

The hospital visiting as usual has been one of our major activities for the year. Visits were made each week to service men in hospitals and also the wounded or sick veterans who were in their own homes. The Summerside detachment visited eight hundred and ninety-seven men in hospital during the past year and the Charlottetown detachment twenty-two hundred and eighty-nine. Both detachments made up special Christmas boxes for those sick at that time. Candy, cigarettes, fruit, magazines, and books, as well as specially wrapped gifts were given. The Canadian Legion has been most generous in financial assistance in this from of service, in return for this, the members visit veterans of the last war who may be ill.

Many Activities

Both detachments have continued their canteen service with the Legion. In addition, Summerside has also manned a housing registry at the Legion Home, since in Summerside as everywhere else the supply of tenants far exceeds the number of houses, yet one night they found rooms for fifteen stranded service men, so this alone was almost worth the effort.

The detachments have given a great deal of assistance to the annual campaign for funds. Section Four in Charlottetown put on the campaign suppers, assisted by members from the other three sections. Section Three in Charlottetown sent out all receipts for Charlottetown while the Summerside detachment took over the sending of the receipts for the whole of Prince County.

Charlottetown and Summerside had Chevron presentations in June. The divisional commandant presented the chevrons in Summerside, Charlottetown was fortunate in having Mrs. C. F. McEachern, to make the presentations at their meeting.

One big undertaking which Section Three of Charlottetown inaugurated this year was the prisoner of war and personal enquiry department for this Province. Mrs. C. M. Nickle, whose husband was stationed at the airport here, set this up admirably with the help of other members of the section. She had done this same work for Section Three in Montreal. Letters are written to every next of kin, who are asked if there is any way in which the Red Cross can assist them. Enquiries are then made through the Red Cross Enquiry Bureau at Ottawa, at the request of the next of kin.

The Charlottetown detachment joined with three other organizations at the Spring Carnival, last June, and $1,000 was made and turned over to the division.

The jelly project, under the direction of Mrs. Harry Cudmore, O.C. of Section Four, was even more successful in 1944 when six thousand three hundred and eighty-four pounds of apple jelly were made and sent overseas. This is a very big undertaking and I think thanks are due to all the women, who though not members of the Corps helped in this wonderful job. Mr. J. D. Jenkins in his usual generous manner gave us the use of his canning factory as before, our thanks also go to him.

Maritime Conference

In June, a Maritime conference was held in Saint John. Commandants from the different Maritime detachments met and exchanged views. Three of us attended from Prince Edward Island and we all felt that we had received many good ideas from this meeting. The divisional commandant from Quebec has said that they would like to join us next year if possible.

Both detachments assist at the Blood Donor Clinics, where the girls do a splendid work. In February, the Charlottetown detachment conducted a door to door canvass for donors. The response at the time was excellent, but it was found afterwards that some of those who signed on, did not respond when actually called upon to donate.

The Charlottetown detachment is very proud of the fact that six of their members are serving overseas with the Canadian Red Cross Corps. Two, Marjorie Stewart and Peg McMillan are serving with the British Red Cross Society as ambulance drivers. Marjorie is in Belgium while Peg is driving casualties from the ports in England to hospital. The other four, Dorothy Stewart, Jean McLean, Sandy Brehaut Wilson and Margaret Martin, are with the clubs in London. We should like to extend our sincere sympathy to Sandy, whose husband has been injured in a plane crash. These girls are doing a wonderful work, practically at the front line and their services are much appreciated.

At this time I should like to express our thanks to the Department of Education and Dr. Steel for the use of Prince of Wales College for our drill and lectures and also to the management of the Maple Leaf Gardens in Summerside for the use of their hall for drill. Also I should like to thank all those who have so kindly given us drill and who have lectured to us throughout the year. The Corps is doing excellent work in Prince Edward Island and this is in a great part due to the leaders of the detachments and sections. May I extend my warmest thanks to Mrs. Bagnall and Mrs. Tompkins and their officers for their untiring efforts.

In closing, I wish to thank Dr. W. J. P. McMillan, the executive of the Red Cross and our commissioner, Miss Arsenault, for their unfailing interest in our activities and to remind them that we are here to work for the Red Cross in any way we can.

Rejects "Scanties" For Actress' Cap

IN GERMANY, Feb. 7 — (AP)—Peter J. Carroll, Associated Press war photographer, is a practical man. He accepted Marlene Dietrich's cap instead of her "scanties" as a souvenir because the cap was warmer.

The actress, after an army show in a small Belgian town, was the guest of Carroll and of Harold Siegman, another photographer. Marlene told Pete with a smile:

"I was with the airborne boys the other day and they asked for my garters. What do you want for a souvenir—my scanties?"

"No, thanks, but I sure could use that pilot's cap you're wearing—it's more practical," said Pete.

Marlene doffed the cap — a leather one with fleece lining and earlaps—and tossed it to the photographer.

"You may be practical, but you sure ain't much of a gentleman," one of his confreres told Carroll. "To pass up Marlene's scanties for an old air force cap—boy, you're crazy."

"I've got a cute little wife back in Boston who won't think I'm so crazy," answered Pete.

May Engage for Part Time Employment

OTTAWA, Feb. 7 — (CP) — Arthur MacNamara, director of Selective Service, announced tonight that housewives now may be engaged for part-time jobs, for a period of up to three full shifts in a week, without a Selective Service permit.

Previously, Selective Service required permits wherever a housewife was being engaged for more than 24 hours employment in the week. The new rule permits employment without permit, even where the three full shifts total more than 24 hours work for the week.

To Plot Course Of Pro Football

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Some time within the next week or so, Col. Larry MacPhail, new head of the Yankees, and Chick Meehan, organizer of the trans-America football league, likely will get together to try to plot the future course of professional football.

Meehan is hopeful of obtaining Yankee Stadium for his New York club or, failing that, of successfully forming a major grid league without New York. When J. Basil Maguire, holder of the New York trans-American franchise, was summoned to a lawyer's office to get word of the sale, he thought he was going there to sign a lease for the Stadium.

Last week-end, club owners of the new league, which doesn't plan to begin operations until after the war, met and agreed that it would be feasible to proceed without a New York entry. "They felt that a new league is bound to come and they want to be in on it," Meehan explained.

Besides New York, trans-American franchises have been awarded to Philadelphia, Baltimore, Brooklyn, Los Angeles and Dallas. Denver and Houston also are seeking admission. If Meehan's efforts to land the Yankee ball park fail, he plans to shift to Boston, where the owners of the Braves once showed considerable interest.

The reason for the Meehan-MacPhail talk is that the football Giants, who hold National League territorial rights in New York, have been silent as to whether they will permit the MacPhail-Dan Topping-Del Webb combine to move Topping's Brooklyn Tigers into the Stadium.

There's a possibility that President Jack Mara of the Giants will decide that it would be better to have an open rival there than a member of the same league. In that event, Topping would have to find a new city for his club or a new league, as Branch Rickey of the Dodgers plans to put his own football team into Ebbetts Field.

Labor Minister Says He Favors Wartime Hockey

OTTAA, Feb. 7 — (CP) —Labor Minister Mitchell said today in an interview that he always has been "very much in favor" of hockey games in wartime because some recreation was necessary.

He said he and his department had "always got along well" with the National Hockey League in matters of hockey and hockey players and that the league understood the department must fill quotas of men for the army, after which it was "glad to do what we can to encourage clean sport."

Arthur MacNamara, director of selective service, said he had received no communication from the N.H.L., which was reported last night to have decided to ask the Federal Government to make available for major and minor hockey 300 players who were not eligible for military service.

Mervin (Red) Dutton, N.H.L. president, was in Ottawa today but left the city without approaching either Mr. Mitchell or Mr. MacNamara.

"We are glad to discuss hockey with Mr. Dutton or directors of the N.H.L. any time," said Mr. MacNamara. "I recall distinctly that the League directors seemed quite well satisfied with regulations when they were making up their teams at the start of the season."

"Numbers Racket" Receives Setback

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 — (AP) — The so-called "numbers racket" received a setback today when the two largest stock exchanges in the United States revised their methods of reporting sales.

The revisions were worked out in compliance with a suggestion to the New York Stock Exchange and Curb Exchange by New York's gambling-hating Mayor, F. H. La Guardia, who said the figures were used as the pay-off for the numbers game, thereby hampering the work of police in halting gambling.

The two exchanges adopted similar rules in making it hard for the figures to be used for such purposes.

The "big board" will revise its methods starting Thursday by printing on its tickers only the first two or three actual figures in the sales total and confine the balance to ciphers. As an illustration, if the total at the end of any hour or day was 1,589,430 shares, the ticker would print sales as "about" 1,590,000. The same would apply for bond totals in dollars. The last figures have always been the "pay-off" or "hit" group in the numbers game. Odds as high as 600 to 1 are reputedly paid winners who guess the right numbers.

The curb announced a similar procedure but said it would not be put into effect until Feb. 13.

In his letter to Emil Schram, president of the Stock Exchange, Mayor La Guardia described his request for a revision of the figures as one "of greatest importance and social and economic significance," and said if his suggestion was adopted it would "save thousands of dollars every day for poor families in New York City and help us in a most difficult police problem."

In reply, Mr. Schram said the exchange would work out a plan to provide the complete figures to legitimate needs on a periodic basis "in such a way as to preclude their use in the activities about which you are properly concerned."

N. H. L. No Guinea Pig But New Ideas Can Be Tried Out

TORONTO, Feb. 7 — (CP) — The National Hockey League, says Maj. Conn Smythe, is no guinea pig but that is no reason why hockey should not experiment with new ideas to speed up the game. If the ideas turn out well then the N. H. L. can adopt them.

So this week-end, as a result of persuasion by Smythe, managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs, Toronto High School Hockey League is going to play six games in Maple Leaf Gardens on ice which has no blue lines.

The idea is one put forward by Lester Patrick of New York Rangers. Only the centre line will be used for calling offsides.

U. S. Comment on Grey North

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 — (CP) — More American editors commented today on the Grey North by-election defeat of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton and at least two saw possible harbingers of downfall for the Canadian Liberal government as an aftermath.

"If," said the Buffalo Evening News", the Grey North result may be accepted as representative of sentiment generally in Canada, the Liberal party would appear doomed to defeat."

"Mr. King," observed the Hartford, Conn., Courant, "cannot be oblivious to the fact his party's strength in the Commons has shrunk from 170 to 156 since the last general election. If this trend should continue he may become the leader of the opposition with the country moving more directly toward 'total mobilization of manpower and resources,' a phrase used by Mr. Garfield Case, the successful Progressive - Conservative candidate."

The Baltimore Sun said the by-election showed "Canada is ripe for a general election, but added praise for the Dominion's war effort under the King Government.

New York Herald Tribune—the defeat "is considered a sharp rebuke to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's compromise conscription policy. . . . The government has been beaten on its own carefully selected ground" and the result "would seem clearly to indicate a general election in the near future."

Babe Ruth Has Birthday Party; 51 Yesterday

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—Babe Ruth hit no. 51 today.

The big guy is creeping up on the record of 60 he set in 1927, but this time the measuring stick is years, not home runs.

"I'm just having a little birthday party tonight," he wheezed, punctuating the words with hoarse barks resulting from a heavy cold. "Twenty people? Oh, there'll be more than that."

The years are whipping by so rapidly for the Sultan of Swat he just can't realise their passing. His huge figure—he admits to 260 pounds now—tented in a bright blue dressing gown, he gazed thoughtfully through the window of his trophy-decked apartment at the ice-flecked Hudson.

"Nearly 20 years since I made that record," he mused. "Seems like four years ago. When did I hit my 51st home run that year? I'll tell you exactly." He hoisted his great bulk out of the chair and waddled from the room, returning in a moment.

"It was Sept. 13 in Cleveland, off Willis Hudlin," he said. This seemed like a phenomenal memory feat until a big framed picture was observed on the wall of his den, the photo of the Babe surrounded by drawings of 60 baseballs, each listing the number, date, place and pitcher of a home run in that record string.

He thinks the 1927 Yankees were the best all-around club he ever played on, but says the Boston Red Sox of "1915 or 1916" was the best defensive club. As for baseball this year, he thinks the major leagues will "force their way through somehow."

This War—Four Years Ago

FEB. 9, 1941—Russia opened negotiations for trade treaty with Japan. Wendell Willkie on return from Britain urged utmost aid for British. Prime Minister Churchill, in broadcast to Empire, reviewed successes in Libya; declared if United States "will send us the tools," Britain could "finish the job."
