Sellar, pastor of the Methodist Church, performed the ceremony after which supper was served in Mrs. Lidstone's best style which left nothing to be desired. The evening was very pleasantly spent in music and dancing and as the night advanced the invited guests began to take their departure thanking Mr. and Mrs. Lidstone for the way they had been entertained. The presents which they were the recipients of showed the high esteem in which they are held. The bride went to her new home the following day and all joined in wishing them a happy wedded life.

DON'T MISS IT

Mr. Frank McAulay, painstaking and diligence on the part of both teacher and pupils were evident. Reading and drawing was especially good. After the examination a varied program was carried out consisting of songs, recitations. At the close of the program Santa Claus appeared and it is needless to say he was hailed with joy by all. After distributing confectionery and gifts to all he proceeded to strip the tree of its heavy burden, and as each name was called out a little boy or girl eagerly hastened to Santa, to receive his or her present. The teacher was very kindly remembered, with beautiful presents from all the pupils. The people were then treated to tea and cake. The following prizes were awarded by the teacher. Prize for General Proficiency—Herbert J. McAulay. Prizes for Spelling—Beatrice McLellan and Lorne O'Henley (equally merited). Prize for attendance—Mary McIntyre. After singing the entertainment closed with the greetings of the season to all.
