PRESIDENT'S REPORT "One year has passed since you did me the honor of electing me as your president. One year only, but it has been a busy-making year in the annals of the British Empire. It has been a year of bitter struggle with an enemy who has overrun Europe in that short time and has been swarming at the door of England since France capitulated in June 1940. However, this is not the time for me to give you a history of events which you know as well as I. My duty tonight is to outline the activities of the Charlottetown Branch of the Canadian Legion during the year and to tell you we have endeavored to do everything in our power to further Canada's war effort. I do not think any president has done more for last annual meeting. They have never complained of the work, but as support as I have had from the executive chosen by you at your last annual meeting.
