Our Montreal correspondent sends us the summaries of last week-end racing at Blue Bonnets, where the principal interest was centered on the first appearance of Texas Hanover, that took a four-year-old record of 2.01¼ at Goshen, N.Y., last August. It is said that owner Lucien Dugree of Sherbrooke parted with $10,000 for this much liked pacer. The idea of bringing him to Quebec was to endeavor to head off Time Table 2.02½ and Guy H. 2.00¾ that had been winning practically all the free-for-alls there.

The attendance was 4,000, quite a number of those present being anxious to see the newly imported pacing star. Our correspondent gives this account:—"The latest imported horse, Texas Hanover, raced in tough luck here. In the first heat he had a very poor start and could not get through when they hit the home stretch. In the second heat June Grattan locked wheels with him just after the word Go. He won the third heat of 1 1/16 miles easily, outpacing the others at the finish and it looked to me that the further he went the better he was. The time for the 1 1/16 miles was 2.15¼, which is a new track record here. Addie Hanover 2.04½, a mare that Raoul Potvin raced for a number of years, won the second heat with the mile in 2.09¼. Mr. Potvin remarked: 'She always upsets the dope!' The other heat was won by June Grattan. I am told that Louis Praught got upset at Sherbrooke and had four ribs broken. Too bad. Blue Bonnets plan racing for the weekend. Raoul Potvin expects to leave next week for Dufferin Park, Toronto, and is taking Sky Top." Thanks, Harry, for the news.

Seek and ye shall find—we found to be true for after considerable hunting around we finally landed on the summary of the seven heat race which we referred to above. It was one of the toughest ever seen over the Charlottetown track and the surprise about it was not so much the win of Uscita, who was known to have great staying qualities, but the amazing showing of The British Soldier that was always thought to be only good for three heats. Uscita was splendidly driven by Dannie Steele, while The British Soldier had the old past master, ex-Mayor P. S. Brown up behind him. It was P. S. at his best and those who can think back will recall how cleverly he drove the Soldier that day. Miss Belle Rico was in her top form and was splendidly handled by owner W.B MacArthur, while Brenton H., dead-game son of Oakley Baron, driven by Henry Hooper, put up a marvellous performance, being the contender in three of the heats and the winner of one. Here is the summary:—

Charlottetown Exhibition, Sept. 28th, 1921. 2.19 Trot

Uscita (Steele)	4 4 4 1 1 4 1
The British Soldier (Brown)	3 1 3 4 4 1 2
Miss Belle Rico (MacArthur)	1 2 2 3 3 2 ro
Brenton H. (Hooper)	2 3 1 2 2 3 ro
Gay Moko	5 dis

Time: 2.17½, 2.18, 2.19½, 2.19¾, 2.23¼, 2.18½, 2.21½.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

The first five heats were raced on the 28th and it was almost dark when they were postponed until the following day when the last two heats were raced, the first of them being won by The British Soldier amid tremendous cheers from hundreds of spectators. It was a close finish and required the most superb tactics of driver Brown to head the daughter of Peter Billiken. In the final heat the Soldier tired in the stretch and Uscita won. Dr. F.W. Christopher when he reads these notes will no doubt remember the thrill he got, but good sportsman that he was he congratulated both driver Brown, owner J. Stanley Wedlock and also the other contestants. He was a good winner and would have also been a very cheerful loser.

While the time may not seem fast according to today's standards, it must be remembered that horses were conditioned to go quite a number of heats, for as you see in the race above it took seven heats to arrive at a decision. Speed was not so necessary as it is today where every heat is practically a sprint from wire to wire. Then again the tracks were kept heavy, perhaps purposely, at least that is the way the horsemen wanted them as a horse's eligibility was according to the time record he received in a winning race. There is no question that a horse like The British Soldier which the writer drove to the only winning race he ever had over [illegible] believe over any other track in the Maritimes, had speed enough to step a quarter in 30 seconds if he were trained with that idea and would no doubt today if he were around and trained in the methods we use, trot miles in 2.10 or better. He had been a sensational yearling and almost every number of the American Horse Breeder would have something about his speed showing. As a two-year-old he also showed up sensationally but because he could turn on speed so easily it was used too much and he broke down. Afterwards he was sold to the late W. S McKie who raced him for a couple of years then sold him to J. Stanley Wedlock.

Marty Barry To Coach Halifax Team

HALIFAX, Nov. 1 —(CP) — Marty Barry, former National Hockey League star, has been signed to coach St. Mary's, Maritime junior ice champions, manager Jim MacDonald announced here tonight.

Barry, who ran up 194 goals and 192 assists for a total of 386 points in his 11 years in the N.H.L., was expected to arrive here from Montreal within the next two weeks.

The Montreal player will look after St. Mary's four junior and minor squads.

Last year when the Saints were defeated in the Memorial cup playdowns by Ottawa St. Pats, the comment on the sidelines was that the Halifax squad needed proper coaching. Signing of Barry was regarded as a step in that direction.

Barry started with Boston Bruins in the 1929-30 season. In 1935-36 he joined Detroit Red Wings and went with Canadiens in 1939-40, his last big-time hockey season.

He was awarded the Lady Byng Trophy in the 1936-37 season.

Canadiens And Maple Leafs Play 1-all Draw In Rugged Battle

MONTREAL, Nov. 1 —(C P) — Matching bump for bump, Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs fought to a 1-1 tie here tonight in a bruising match. Canadiens had to move from behind to tie it up and move into a second place tie with Boston Bruins as Leafs widened their National Hockey League lead a little more.

Gus Bodnar put Leafs into an early lead at 14:38 in the first period on Gaye Stewart's pass as Elmer Lach of Canadiens was in the penalty box. That looked good until half way through the final period as Leafs and Canadiens battered each other with bruising checks and 10 penalties were dished out in the first two frames.

Then Canadiens began ganging in on Turk Broda and George Allen finally beat him at the 10.05 mark on an easy dribbler. Billy Reay and Maurice Richard had carried the puck down and were skated off and Allen got his stick on the passout to roll the rubber along the ice and into the corner.

Bob Goldham of Leafs had to leave the game with a wrenched knee early in the third period after he and Kenny Reardon crashed together as Reardon was racing in.

Tempers flared throughout the hard-fought game and Garth Boesch of Leafs drew a major in the first for slugging Richard. The latter went off with a minor.

Another fight threatened in the second period when Bill Ezinicki and Reardon started pushing one another around and both teams were in the melee before it ended. No penalties were called there however.

Canadiens outshot Leafs 22 to 20, but they controlled more of the play than the shots indicated.

Arcaro Takes Assault Home In Front By Six Lengths In Pimlico

(By Sid Feder)

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1— (AP)— The clubfoot comet from the wide open spaces—triple-crown champion Assault—came roaring back up the victory trail today for the first time since last spring, and it was saddle skill of Eddie Arcaro that made it possible.

The chocolate champion from Texas, hero of the Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont in the spring stepping before he took sick, came off the convalescent list to zip to a six-length triumph over his fellow-Texas and odds-on favorite Stymie.

In winning the classic Pimlico Special Assault showed 16,144 racegoers that he is head man again.

He skyrocketed from eight lengths away in the last three quarters of a mile to waltz to the wire and pick up the $25,000 winner-take-all purse in this sportiest of races, over the 1 3-16 mile route.

And with the paycheque, the bold son of Bold Venture became the fourth horse in all turf history to pile up a bankroll of more than $400.000.

He now is in fourth place on the all-time racing financial list, with only Whirlaway, Stymie and Seabiscuit still in front of him among racing money-getters.

It was the first time in seven starts since last June that the chocolate grandson of Equipoise, who has a deformed forehoof he injured when he was a baby, has finished first, in many respects it was his impressive job of all. had to do the running, and led the

But although it was Assault who field of four home, he and owner Robert J. Kleberg Jr. and the two-buck investors who were paid off at $7.60 for $2 can all tip their hats to Arcaro, the booter from the bluegrass.

It was heady Eddie's first time aboard the clubfoot comet.

Steele Decides On Opening Lineup

MONCTON, N. B., Nov. 1 —(CP) —Playing coach "Windy" Steele tonight announced the lineup of Moncton's entry in the Maritime Big Five Hockey League.

The team is made up of a collection of youngsters and veterans, many of them Maritime products, and will carry the same name as the Moncton Hawks team which brought Allan Cup to this city two consecutive years little more than a decade ago.

Hughie MacDonald will handle the netminding chores for the new team, four defencemen will make up the club's rearguard. They are Fritz Fraser, Gene Poirier, Cail Basarache and Coach Steele.

The first line will be made up of Sammy McManus, Bucko Trainor and Mousie Dowling. Buck Whitlock will centre the second line of George Bell and Doug Leadbetter, and Chick Charlton will pivot the third attack line for Mike Demchuk and Doug Jackson.

Fred Sonier will be retained as spare goalie. Hawks will have their first test of strength here Monday night when they open the league schedule against Saint John Beavers.

Wins Decision

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 1 —(AP)— Sweden's Olle Tandberg won a 10-round decision tonight over Stephen Eolek of France in a fight billed as the semi-final for the European heavyweight boxing championship.

Announcement was made that Tandberg, by virtue of his victory, would be matched with Britain's Bruce Woodcock, claimant to the European title.

Naval Development Without Precedent

MONTREAL, Nov 1 — (CP) — Development of the Royal Canadian Navy during the war probably is without precedent in the history of naval expansion, Rear Admiral Walter Hose, R.C.N., former chief of naval staff at Ottawa, said today in an interview.

Rear Admiral Hose, who retired from his post in 1934, returned recently to Canada after a 12-year stay in England. Tonight he is meeting his wife, flying from the United Kingdom, and they will take up residence in Maitland, Ont.

"I don't suppose there has been anything in the history of naval expansion such as the tremendous development shown by the Canadian Navy in the recent war," he said. "It is the biggest expansion I know of."

Rear Admiral Hose said development of new weapons would call for great changes in naval armor and tactics but the day of the Navy's usefulness was by no means past and "as long as there are goods and merchandise which have to be carried across the sea you must have naval protection."

In permitting the amendment in the indictment, Justice Dalton Wells approved a defence motion that the Crown had not proved a case against Miss Parrish in the capital charge. Defence counsel E. G. Thompson had called no witnesses in the murder charge and it was not known immediately whether he planned to offer evidence in the lesser charge.

Back Home After Five Years' Service

VANCOUVER, Nov. 1 — (CP)— Five years of action-packed war years over, Lieut. Joan Bamford-Fletcher came home today a Member of the British Empire, an honor bestowed for heroic services in Sumatra, and with stories of many adventures in the Far East.

First white woman ever to command a force of Japanese soldiers, Lieut. Bamford-Fletcher told in an interview of her war services in Sumatra with a British welfare unit where she supervised the evacuation of 2,000 internees, mostly women and children, through mountainous, bandit-infested country.

She did not know when the investiture would be, perhaps in London next year when she returns overseas. She has an offer of a new post in Warsaw from the British Foreign Office.

Regina-born, the modest, 30-ear-old Lieutenant went overseas in 1941, serving with the Red Cross and the "Fanys." the First Aid Nursing Yeoman, oldest women's service in the Empire.

For a woman who never carried a gun and doesn't know how to use one, her war adventures took nerve, but she dismissed them lightly.

From under the noses of Indonesian bandits in Sumatra she carried out evacuation of the internees, through bleak, dangerous country and over mountain trails.

Twenty trips were made to take the evacuees from Banking Camp, to Padang, and each took from 1 a.m. to 9 p.m. where bandit-barricaded roads were frequent.

After Sumatra, she went to Singapore, arriving on the first hospital ship to enter the war-torn port.

Lieut. Bamford-Fletcher was injured in Sumatra in a motor accident, and she also contracted black water fever.

Today, she has a plastic jaw, the work of a London surgeon, who was forced to replace an infected bone caused by the fever.

"My plans are indefinite," she said here. "I hope to return to London next April."

Ottawa Keeps Keen Watch On Nfld. Talks

By George Kitchen
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Nov. 1 —(CP)— The Canadian government is watching with a keen but neutral interest the deliberations of Newfoundland's national convention, which will decide the colony's political future, and is holding scrupulously to her policy of non-interference in this vital and internal Newfoundland problem.

Basically, this policy is to do nothing which would make it appear that the dominion was interfering with the judgment of the Newfoundland people and to leave entirely to the Newfoundlanders the fateful decision as to whether they would care to throw their lot in with Canada by entering the Canadian Confederation.

Canadian interest in the Newfoundland talks naturally has been heightened in recent days by the current debate among the convention delegates on a resolution seeking the dispatch of a delegation to Ottawa to sound out Canada's attitude on union.

In line with the dominion's hands-off policy, official comment on this debate has been sparse.

An answer to the unspoken question of whether Canada would receive a Newfoundland delegation on the matter of federal union can be found in a statement made by Foreign Minister St. Laurent at the last session of parliament with reference to the Newfoundland deliberations.

Speaking of the possibility of Newfoundland becoming the 10th Canadian province, Mr. St. Laurent said that if the Newfoundlanders sent delegates or representatives to Ottawa they would be "welcomed here as cordially as we can welcome them."

He gave this as the dominion's stand in the matter:

"If the people of Newfoundland come to the conclusion that they would be happy to throw in their lot with Canada, their representations will be given most earnest and sympathetic consideration.

"I believe there are many Canadians who feel that it would be to the mutual advantage of Canada and Newfoundland to come closer together. Nevertheless, it might not be helpful to that end to have Canada appear to be interfering with the judgment the people of Newfoundland are to express on that subject."

Canadians have been interested ever since confederation in the possibility of Newfoundland entering the Canadian union and this interest took concrete form in 1915 when the British North America Act, Canada's constitution, was amended to provide for six additional members of the senate should the coastal colony ever decide to take that step.

H.M.C.S. "QUEEN CHARLOTTE": ITS HISTORY

PART III

"Thus did England fight:
And shall not England smite
With Drake's strong stroke in battles yet to be?"

For eighteen short months thundering clouds of battle have been vanishing below our free horizons. They have not completely disappeared; we may still see, faint, but discernable, dark lustrous shapes hovering close above it; and occasionally hear a far off rumble.

That we should be prepared, if the winds of world politic blows those clouds again upon us, is an affirmed conviction of Canadian citizens.

The Royal Canadian Navy is now, and will ever, take an increasing part in that preparedness. H.M.C.S. "Queen Charlotte", as her sister establishments across Canada, did not cease functioning with the cessation of hostilities.

When Germany and Japan capitulated last year the role of our ship in Charlottetown was changed, for the time being, from that of training ship to that of a demobilization centre.

Lt. Comm. C. McKenzie retained command until July 1946, when the present C. O., Lt. D. Baker, became Ship's Captain, and Lt. D. Saunders was appointed Executive Officer.

Fifteen ratings of Permanent R. C. N., were put in as peace-time staff under one officer, Commissioned Warrant Officer (T) J. Kelso (R.N.)

The Royal Canadian Navy was at that time in the process of reconversion to peacetime activities, and shortly the new organization for all naval establishments came through. It is known now as the Royal Canadian Navy, (R.C.N.) or the Royal Canadian Navy Reserve, R.C.N. (R), there is no more Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve (R.C.N.V.R.)

Lt. Baker immediately set to work to organize his ship on a peacetime, R.C.N. (R) basis. Eight officers were commissioned for the Reserve and plans were made to launch the present recruiting campaign.

Stores began to arrive in the form of the most modern naval equipment. Asdic, wireless, guns, radar, etc., all for the training of new, and old, sailors.

The adequate sports stores were checked and the equipment for basketball, hockey, baseball, badminton, boxing and football were all in ship-shape fashion, ready for use.

Meetings took place, discussions (two of which old hands were present) were held and plans made. No thought was left becalmed in an effort to work out the best possible means to further the gloriousness that is the Royal Canadian Navy.

The enthusiasm shown on the part of all ranks has been enormous. Old and new members who will join, will be determined to make H.M.C.S. "Queen Charlotte" the saltiest, the snappiest ship under the White Ensign of the Royal Canadian Navy, the navy that will take care of any ribald rumblings of subversive rodents on our free horizons.

A-Sub. Lt. John T. Sweeney, R. C. N. (R).

Full Agreement Reached With Dominion On New Financial Arrangements

(By The Canadian Press)

FREDERICTON, Oct. 31 — Confirmation that New Brunswick has reached full agreement on all essential points of new financial arrangements with the Dominion was given in a statement issued today by Premier J. B. McNair.

The new agreement, based on the Dominion's taxation proposals to the provinces last June following the breakdown of the Dominion-Provincial conference, will replace the 1942 wartime tax agreement with New Brunswick, which ended today, and will be effective as of tomorrow. Only settling of minor details and final drafting of the formal contract remains, Premier McNair stated.

Under the old agreement, the province and municipalities vacated the income and corporation tax fields. The new plan provides continuance of this arrangement for another five years, with the provincial government also abandoning collection of succession duties. No other details were announced.

Premier McNair said that when the New Brunswick Legislature meets Nov. 12 it will be only for the purpose of proroguing. After concluding its regular work last April, the legislature was adjourned instead of prorogued so that any matters arising from the Dominion-Provincial conference might be considered without calling a special session of the legislators.

Premier McNair said that as a result of the conference breakdown, financial arrangements now were the only subjects under consideration and could be dealt with just as effectively at the next regular session of the legislature early next year.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1 — Negotiations for the purchase of buildings at the Halifax Exhibition grounds will open here tomorrow between War Assets Corporation officials and Mayor J. E. Ahearn of Halifax, a Corporation spokesman said today.

It is understood that the Halifax Mayor, who arrived here by air today, will negotiate for the repurchase of the buildings for housing purposes. Sixteen buildings on the grounds already are being used to house 46 families.
