men—broke bread today at a luncheon tendered the Canadian cardinal-designate.

The luncheon and reception, attended by Roman Catholic dignitaries of six nationalities, was given by the Chinese Catholic Culture Association in Rome's elegant Grand Hotel.

When the good-natured, pink-cheeked Archbishop of Toronto was introduced by the shy, soft-spoken Chinese bishop who will join him this week in the College of Cardinals, they clasped hands warmly.

They fumbled in an effort to get together on languages, finally settling for English which Bishop Tien speaks slowly and laboriously. The greeting over, the two sat on a divan and chatted amiably.

Earlier James Farley, former United States postmaster-general who came here with Cardinal-designate, greeted Archbishop McGuigan.

Italian waiters served a man-size lunch of rice, consommé, chicken, roast lamb, ice cream, cakes, and white wine, and sweet champagne in which toasts were exchanged. Both cardinals-designate drank sparingly but ate heartily.

Afterwards Archbishop McGuigan said: "I wish to give thanks for this distinguished honor of meeting for the first time the cardinal-designate of China. Each nation is pleased at the recognition given by the Holy Father to the noble nation of China when news of his elevation came from the Eternal City.

Our hearts all turn to China which suffered before all the other nations and which still suffers. I know that Divine Providence conspires in the great number of the Chinese, will help China.

He knows that Divine Providence will give over the Chinese people and the Chinese people will play a noble part in the history of the world."

they are less interested in the deepened channel of the river than in the colossal volume of hydro electric power which will be generated at the 1,000-foot power plants which will be located only 50 miles from the river.

Both Quebec and Ontario have a vital stake in the potential power of the river and the two provinces are in pretty much in agreement with the Federal Government in the development of the river.

The two Canadian provinces who are in agreement with the Federal Government in the development of the river, might even be willing to forego the deep waterways portion of the plan provided the power development was not delayed.

An external affairs official assured The Guardian's correspondent that legislation in favor of the St. Lawrence plan will be brought to Parliament by Prime Minister Mackenzie King by the end of the month.

Tells Stirring Story

Capt. Ellis, from his hospital bed, told the stirring story of how the rescue party, that saved a man off Grand Manan Island and the members of her crew were given the order to abandon ship in the darkness just before dawn.

They escaped only in the clothing they were wearing and a few blankets. Mrs. Jacquard was wrapped in these but heavy seas swept over the lifeboat soaking everything and eventually the attempt to capsize the tiny craft.

Progress was slow even at the start as the wind further curtailed the effort that formed on all sides of the lifeboat. Mrs. Jacquard survived for nearly 12 hours and just as the Nova Scotia coastline was sighted she collapsed, declaring "This is my last breath."

Capt. Peters, 52, had served on the Yarmouth to Saint John run for 27 years and by one recent relinquinced his ship after two months illness. Capt. Ellis had been relieving him.

1. The foreign power involved is Russia.

2. The round-up of persons implicated is continuing "more or less" throughout the Dominion and, as one close to the hunt put it, "there's no way of telling where it will end."

3. Information passed to Moscow through the ring included "everything a spy would be interested in," including the location of atomic bomb, radar, military weapon developments, the Moscow Convention and Canada's economic life.

4. Some of those implicated felt themselves trapped into providing more information through a system of "international blackmail" by which they were threatened with disclosure that they previously had supplied information, even though

Continuation Of Farm Labor Plan To Be Discussed

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP) — The Dominion government is consulting with the provinces to determine whether they desire a continuation of the wartime plan of Federal-Dominion co-operation on farm labor, Arthur MacNamara, Deputy Minister of Labor, said today.

The program provided for close co-operation in locating farm labor and making it mobile to meet seasonal needs in different parts of the country. The Dominion gave financial aid to the provinces for the organization of recruiting, training and transferring workers. Expenses were shared equally.

In addition the Dominion established a fund of $300,000 to meet the cost of inter-provincial transfers. Under the transfer plan workers from Eastern Canada were made available to assist in harvesting western grain and workers from the Prairie Provinces were moved to Eastern Canada and British Columbia to aid in harvesting fruit and other crops.

THE ladies sometimes like the dim, flattering light of candles. But most people, even if they could get far greater illumination from candles at far less cost, would prefer electric light.

Considerations of health, comfort, convenience, cleanliness and safety, have become more important to the modern way of life than the factor of cost.

Nevertheless, it costs money to survey new power sites, harness waterfalls, and build transmission lines, so that when you flick a switch or set a thermostat you can be sure of light and heat at your fingertips. Quite possibly a part of your own Life Insurance premium has been

P. E. I. Chief Justice Visits Saint John

SAINT JOHN, Feb. 16 — The St. Andrew's Curling Club's invitation to hold the 1946 Dominion curling championships here will be given tentative consideration and formal appreciation will be expressed by the forthcoming meeting in Saskatoon next month, it was announced last night by Chief Justice Thane A.
