BOSTON PROFESSOR POINTS OUT MENACE IN COLLEGE CONTROL

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 20.—Cooperation between national societies representing college teachers on the one hand and college administrative officers on the other as a means of arriving at a better understanding and better methods in American colleges and universities is suggested by Professor Harry W. Tyler, professor of the head of the mathematics department at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and secretary of the American Association of University Professors.

Association of American Colleges, on the other, representing administrative officers and to some extent trustees. Through the cooperation of these bodies it should be possible to deal with a national problem in a national way, establishing standards which may come to progressive acceptance by the colleges.

AMERICA'S ONLY RUBBER PLANT GROWS IN TEXAS

ALPINE, Texas, July 20.—The only rubber-producing plant known to grow uncultivated in North America is found in the Big Bend country of both Texas and Mexico, along the border, and the only factory in the United States equipped to make rubber from the raw latex is in Brewster county, Texas. A factory was established at Marathon about 15 years ago, but for the past several years has been idle.

The plant from which rubber may be made is the Guayule, and grows abundantly in this section of the country. Large quantities have been destroyed by prairie fire and a great many continue to grow without attention. Apparently it will thrive in rocky barren soil where nothing else will grow.

The Guayule has no resemblance to the rubber trees and plants of tropical countries. It grows in the form of a small bush or shrub and when mature is about four feet high, resembling slightly the Texas cross-rose bush. Its leaves are small, tough looking, and have a slight similarity to those of other rubber-producing plants.

Vicar Missing

(By Dominion News Service) LONDON, July 21.—Friends of the Rev. E. B. E. Wheeler, vicar of St. Barnabas's, Woodford, Essex whose name came into prominence in connection with the disappearance of Miss Gladys Price, a member of his congregation about 15 months ago, have asked the aid of Scotland Yard in tracing Mr. Wheeler, who has been missing for more than a week. He left the vicarage in Claremont-grove, Woodford, Green, intending to make a business call in the city. It is stated that several people saw him on the way to Woodford Station, and he should have returned in the evening, but nothing has been heard of him since.

EARLY LONGFELLOW TEXT SOUGHT IN MAINE CITY

PORTLAND, Me., July 20.—A brief and hitherto unpublished poetic flight of Longfellow, written when he was 15 years old, has come to light here. The verse and the history connected with it was revealed by the search of Rufus Lamson, an elderly potter, for a nondescript pottery plaque, long since vanished. Conceived while the youthful Longfellow was watching a potter working at his wheel, the verse is believed to have had the same source of inspiration which, in later years, found its expression in "Keramos."

CANADIAN WHO LOVED ADVENTURE

Many remarkable men have to die before the world at large hears of them, though in the circles where they move they are known as leaders of great energy and force. The last instance of a Canadian who has gone to his rest in London after a life of extraordinary adventure.

Colonel Boyle was a Canadian born of Irish parents. He first became known as a reporter in the sports department of a newspaper and appeared in England as the trainer of Frank Slavin, the boxer.

When Russia began to fall to pieces he was sent to organize the combined railway traffic and its food supply, and when no more could be done there he went to assist Rumania.

The invasion of Rumania by the Austrians and Germans led to the most valued treasures and archives of the country being sent to Moscow to avoid capture. But a time came when they were safe in Russia than anywhere, and Boyle was given the task of getting them back again.

When the Conference was held at Genoa he was there representing the interests of a great oil company, and is credited with having succeeded in making helpful arrangements with the Russian delegation.

Since then, until his fatal illness he lived quietly in London. There is no doubt that Colonel Boyle was a very remarkable man of action with strong influence over other men owing to a magnetic temperament and a natural aptitude for adventure.

MARRIAGE CUSTOMS IN THE EAST

It is the fashion in Damascus or families to live together. In fact, the case when marrying brings their brides to the house of their father as a matter of course. Mrs. Tweedie, in her amazing wanderings, visited one of these family caravans and found herein five hundred people all related to one another by birth or marriage, and descended from one man two or three generations back.

Further wanderings of Mrs. Tweedie's related by her in her book "Mainly East," took her to Irak, which seems to be a Mecca or those who desire speedy military promotion. One aspirant entered King Feisal's palace as a soldier and emerged twenty minutes later as a staff lieutenant colonel.

Thence on went the enterprising lady of Fashoda (now known as Kodak) where she was a guest at a Shelluk wedding. The bridegroom had just completed his purchase of a bride, having paid for her in cattle, and she was Mrs. Tweedie's fellow passenger, "being well guarded and surrounded by mats and rugs and shields from the public gaze."

Arrived at her destination the shiny, well-dressed girl was seen purely wrapped up in a sheet, till she looked like a bundle of wash, and carried off by four stout village boys towards the home of her mother-in-law to be.

It was her duty to protest, so she appealed and kicked—and presently out from the white bundle protruded a waving pair of patent leather shoes.

The white guests followed the kicking bride and saw her safely deposited, and unwrapped in a twinkling about the size of a bathing machine. In this she sat on her haunches while outside the bridegroom and his warriors assembled for the festivities.

GOOD MONEY IN GOOD FARMING

"Let's Get to Work and Pay Off the Mortgage"

NINE years ago Canada's national debt was about one-third of a billion. It is more than two and one-third billions today. Our debts have greatly increased—our revenues must also go up. The farmer has to bear his share of the increased burden. That means he must increase his revenue. Complaint has been heard that farmers under present conditions in Canada cannot make farming pay. And yet many thousands of Canadian farmers do make it pay.

How Is It Done?

Patient and industrious "carry on" will do wonders, but something more is needed. Too often "patient industry" is coupled with "dull persistence" in poorly thought out methods. Farmers today more than ever, must plan ahead, as well as "plug along"; indeed they have no option, if they wish to succeed.

Co-ordination of head and hand will mean real success. Farming in Canada has paid and pays now on many farms. It can be made to pay on almost every farm. Canadian agriculture has passed through many low profit-making eras successfully and can do so again.

With the increased cost of production, the present higher standards of living cannot be kept up by poor farm management, "boarder" milkers, scrub beeves, poor quality hogs or non-profitable hens.

Crop Returns Should Be Increased

	Cost per acre	Profit per acre
Hay	$21.13 ($13.50)	$11.21 ($5.09)
Corn for
Forage	$47.50 ($33.75)	$10.38 ($2.86)
Oats	$26.47 ($19.32)	$7.33 ($4.04)

Similar results can be shown from the Dominion Experimental Farms in every province.

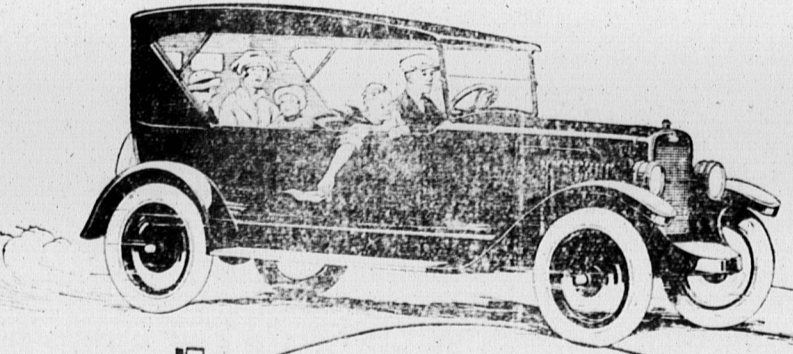

Experimental Farm crops are sometimes claimed to be produced at too great cost. Thousands of experiments, however, show that increased cropping costs wisely applied up to a reasonable point always increase crop profits. This is true on the Experimental Farm—it is also true on any and every farm.

JUBBULPORE APPLAUDS RAISING OF INDIA'S FLAG
NAGPUR, India, July 20.—Demonstrations held in connection with the display of the Indian National flag continue daily in Nagpur, and have spread to other cities of India. Arrests in Nagpur for flag agitation now total 560. As a rule the prisoners are given brief prison sentences.

At Jubbulpore the national flag has been hoisted, over the Town pole and fastened the flag, encouraged by loud cheering.

Why The New Overland WON INSTANT FAVOR

Scarcely Canada has a force of enthusiasm—Overland Model 91 has outshined every other car in the market. The demand is rising factory capacity to the uttermost. The reputation of this instant success is found, not in any one advantage, but in a combination of important features that are exclusively Overland.
