Suffocated In Moving Grain

(By British United Press) LONDON, Aug. 24.—The extraordinary death of a man who was sucked into moving grain and slowly suffocated, despite a brave attempt at rescue by two of his workmates, was the subject of an inquest the other day. The victim was Edward Owens, aged sixty-three, of Birkenhead, who was working as foreman in discharging a cargo of grain into the Liverpool Dock Board warehouse on the quayside at Seacombe. The grain was being sent down a shoot into the warehouse, where there were 250 tons, 12 feet high, and then down a grid to endless belts. Owens was going round to fetch a rope when he slipped and was sucked into the moving grain. He called out and two of his mates each seized a hand. They were both drawn in to their waists but they failed to rescue Owens and he was slowly submerged before the machinery could be stopped. Twenty minutes passed before his body was recovered.

To The Arctic Circle By Car

(By British United Press) LONDON, August 24.—Bespattered with mud, a cream-colored blue saloon car came to a halt in the courtyard of a London hotel the other day. Over the bonnet floated flags of half a dozen different countries. From the car stepped a slight young woman wearing a blue and white check frock, and a young man in a blue and white check frock. She was Mrs. Victor King, who had just completed a 6,000 mile tour to the Arctic Circle. She was accompanied by her husband and a friend. They left England on July 8 and with an average of 207 miles a day, reached and penetrated three miles into the Arctic Ocean. During the whole of the perilous and nerve-racking journey, Mrs. Bruce never left the wheel, except to sleep, but she got very little of that. "Our object was to get past the Arctic Circle," she said. "We were to we should never do it because of the swamps, but we had hopes that we would reach the Arctic Ocean. When within fifty miles of it, we struck the swamps. We pushed forward, almost by inches, for three miles. Foolhardy things people do when out on these trips of adventure. We were compelled to turn back, and it took us 24 hours to retrace those three treacherous miles. We had to cut down trees and shrubs to make the wheels could get a grip of something. At one time, it almost seemed as if we would have to abandon the car, but we gained solid ground without any damage to our little chariot. "That was only one of our many experiences. I encountered a terrible storm and the lightning set fire to the forest. It meant a race for dear life over fearful roads. The fire spread rapidly and we could almost feel the flames scorching our enamel. We spent two never-to-be-forgotten nights in a forest in Finland. We managed to reach a settlement, and I was given the option of sleeping with six other women in two beds. The alternative was a log hut, and I preferred that. But, ah! I should think there were a great many of us who would never be created, and we soon went back together for two nights. We were without sleep for practically a week. "The curious thing was that the farther north we got the hotter it became. The heat became almost intolerable in the car. It was over 90 in the shade when we crossed the Arctic Circle. The air was simply black with mosquitoes. They were much more numerous than in Africa although they were not poisonous. But they bit continuously, and my face and arms became terribly swollen. We looked for wolves and only found mosquitoes. Some days I was fifteen hours at the wheel, and on many occasions we drove by the light of the midnight sun."

It is de- Vincent Massey should go to Westminister as Canada's first minister to Ottawa. The police, with drawn bayonets, waded into the demonstrators whom instances, attacked the policemen and their horses with sticks. Reserves were then called out, and they drove the manifestants from the streets and made a number of arrests.

Opposes Move To Cut Coal Rates

(Special to the Guardian) FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Aug. 24.—Sir Henry Thornton declared here today that he would fight to the last ditch the cutting of the freight rate on Alberta coal by the National Railways. He insisted that the taxpayers would have to help foot the bill. Sir Henry stated that it might be possible to bring the Alberta coal to the head of the lakes and then ship it east by boat. This, however, would mean a very considerable initial outlay, and he doubted very much if any concern would be willing to try the experiment. The President of the National lines was very emphatic regarding his stand on the move by Alberta to cut the coal rates. "I would take it to the throne of Heaven before I submitted to a cut below $9 per ton," he told the Guardian representative.

5,000 People At Bangor Fair And Horse Race Event

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 24.—The Bangor fair opened today with about 5,000 people on the grounds, the weather being threatening, but no rain fell. The exhibits of farm products are rather larger than usual and the cattle show the best in years. Children were admitted free today and the full vaudeville program was given this afternoon and with fireworks tonight. The race program started with three events on a good track with rather a stiff breeze facing the horses on the home stretch. Top heavy favorites won in two events. Captain Leggett, owned by S. A. Wathen, of Fort Fairfield, and driven by Billy Keyes, had it all his own way in the 2:24 mixed, while Jack Kingsley's fast four-year-old, Beau Dillon had no trouble in handling the 2:17 class. The feature race was the 2:11 pace with the talent favoring about equally Caruso, owned by

REDUCTION OF DEBT PUREST KIND OF BUNK

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Alleges That Claim of King Government That Debt is Being Reduced is a Hoax.

SHELburne, Ont., Aug. 24.—"It is the purest kind of fiction," said Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative leader at the annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Dufferin-Simcoe counties held here yesterday, regarding a statement of the government that the Dominion debt had been reduced by fifty-two million dollars. He asked his hearers to look on page two of the public accounts. "If Hon. Mr. King's party had so much money they would pay off a hundred million dollars in bonds due in October. They can't do it, but will likely go over to New York and float another loan for 20 years." Half a million dollars was borrowed, he said, to purchase a house in Washington for Vincent Massey, the friend of Premier King in his dark hours. "An additional hundred thousand was voted to carry on the house. "This expense is absolutely unnecessary," he contended. "There never was a time in the history of Canada when a Conservative government was needed more than at the present time." Conservatives from every part of Canada, he said, would attend the national convention at Winnipeg in October and a new platform would be formed. Too little attention had been paid to Western Canada. "I am in favor of a tariff to suit Canada and never mind the other nations," he said.
