THE IRISH QUESTION.

Home Rule for Ireland which Mr. Gladstone brought to somewhat favorable notice is now apparently as far off as ever. To that measure the Conservative party in England has always stood opposed, and Gladstone's measure caused so large a defection of able men from the Liberal ranks that the party has not yet recovered from the loss. Lord Rosebery has since been for a time a Liberal leader, and may yet regain that position, but he will not make Home Rule for Ireland a plank in his platform. In fact he affirms that he is not now and never will be prepared to concede an independent Parliament for the Irish nation.

Since Mr. Gladstone's day it has become more and more apparent that the Irish leaders who accepted his measure did not intend that it should be accepted as a full and final settlement of the Irish question. Their ultimate object was absolute political separation. A suspicion of this object no doubt was a powerful factor in arousing opposition to the Home Rule Bills of 1886 and 1893. Those measures are now barred with little prospects of resurrection, because the ultimate object which most of Mr. Gladstone's Irish supporters had in view is one to which the people of England, Scotland and Wales will never consent.

Lord Rosebery in a recent number of Collier's Weekly has stated and discussed the Irish question, pointing out clearly the difficulty that exists. What is it that makes the problem of Irish Government so hard of solution? Lord Rosebery points out that "It is the internal incompatibility that exists between a slow, conscientious Protestant Anglo-Saxon race and a quick-witted Celtic Roman Catholic race, with different aims, different churches, and last, not least, a different sense of humor." The difficulty is racial and religious, but it is also something more than that. We confess to having indulged the hope, after the failure of Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule measure, that a solution might be found along the lines of the federal system as we have it in Canada. But it is more than doubtful if that would have produced harmony. The fact is that Ireland is much afflicted with a class of politicians to whom perpetual agitation is as the breath of life, and who dread nothing so much as being deprived of their grievance, whether real or imaginary.

The Salisbury Government brought in a limited form of Home Rule on the county council plan which has really done something to improve the relations between Britain and Ireland. It is a small thing in a way that the majority shall have county councilors of their own selection, yet it is a measure of partial justice, which is at the same time educative in its effect, and the frequent elections which it brings about creates a diversion against agitations which would otherwise be directed and concentrated against the union and British rule. However partial and inadequate this and other remedial measures may have been, they have given to the majority of the people of the larger island a feeling of having gone far enough for the present, and have helped to relegate the question of an Irish Parliament more and more to the background.

THE EDITOR'S MAIL. TRUE ODDFELLOWSHIP.

Sir.—It was my pleasant privilege some weeks ago to pay a visit to Caleb Road Lodge I. O. O. F. at West Somerville, Mass., a lodge, second to none in Massachusetts, for their good works. I have been an Oddfellow for quite a number of years, but I've never attended a meeting at my own or any other lodge where so much good will and true spirit of Oddfellowship was manifested. This was particularly true in the case of Bro. A. A. McLeod a Boston artist and a member of the lodge, in whose behalf the brothers seem to take a special interest on learning of the brother's illness. This announcement brought forth many expressions of praise and sympathy for this good brother who I learned is possessed of a philanthropic spirit as well as being an untiring worker in any capacity or duty to which he is called, whether visiting the sick, taking part in any entertainment and always ready to champion the cause of Oddfellowship. After the meeting a brother informed me, that a few years ago, the lodge held a grand minstrel entertainment, the star performer on the occasion being this same Bro. who not only caused a continual storm of applause and laughter, but carried off the prize in a cakewalk. I confess to you Sir that I began to feel envious on hearing so many good things said about even a Bro. Oddfellow but this feeling I am happy to confess soon gave way to a feeling of pride, when I learned later this was a native of Prince Edward Island where I too, first saw the light of day. I understood that he was to be sent to a Hospital at Melrose Mass., and as I've never met him, or heard anything as to his illness since, I am therefore unable to give any further information regarding his case.

Respectfully Yours,
J. W. MORRISON,
Boston, July 15.

AS HE SINGS.

As he sings, so Mr. Sankey composes the tunes for his hymns inspired by the feeling of the moment. Often he will stop suddenly in the midst of reading or talking to jot down on the ever-ready music-paper some bit of melody that comes to him. These jottings he gathers together and develops at his leisure, sometimes fitting them to poems preserved in his scrapbook, sometimes getting Fannie Crosby or another hymn-writer to write words especially for his music. He once said: "Good words will soon attract a good tune." He believes in melody always over harmony as a power to move people.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Cultivation Kills Weeds.

If the ground is cultivated often enough no weeds can grow, and if the ground for a crop is carefully prepared before putting in the seed, by deep plowing and frequent harrowing, the cultivation required after the plants are up need not be more than one inch deep. If this be done after every rain there can be no weeds, and they will become fewer every year, while the cultivation will prevent loss of moisture in the soil by affording a loose covering of dry earth.

If Men Only Would.

If the young men who are measuring tape and laces would surrender their work to the young girls who are seeking employment and turn their attention to the pursuits of agriculture, there would be less misery and more contentment in the land; there would be more independence and less servility; more men and fewer creatures; more happy wives with comfortable homes, beautiful children and cheerful tempers.

Death Germs in Pin Heads.

The swallowing of a pin is less to be dreaded than the contagion that may lurk about the pin. Under its head and about the point of a pencil a whole multitude of disease germs may lurk, which, being given entrance to the mouth, from there soon infect the whole body, thus causing illness, or perhaps even death.

Kidney Disease and Backache

Mr. John Guheen, who is in the Fish Business at Fort Hope, states:—"In my business I do a great deal of driving over bad roads and the constant jar of the rig along with exposure to all sorts of weather brought on kidney disease. I was in miserable health and suffered a great deal with sharp pains in my back. I heard of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and decided to try them. Before I had used all of the first box I felt better and three boxes have entirely cured me. I am very glad of an opportunity to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for I have proven their wonderful control over kidney disease."

It seems unwise to waste money and run the risk of experimenting with new fangled, untried remedies when you know that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will cure you. One pill a dose, 25c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
