SUMMERSIDE HIGH SCHOOL

June 28, 1929

By Jennie Tanton

Mr. Chairman, Members of the School Board, Teachers, Fellow Students, Ladies and Gentlemen: Our gathering here to-day marks the close of another school year and we of Grade X meet for the last time as a class. From the Summerside High School we are going forth into other fields of work and no doubt most of us are looking forward eagerly to new experiences.

Yet before we leave we now pause and look back over the years spent in school, which we may find to have been the happiest years of our lives. We have had our trials and sorrows just as real to us as any difficulties in the practical life of grown-ups, yet those are not the things we will remember as we review in our minds the years spent in the different grades of the Summerside High School. Many times, doubtless, we shall wish ourselves back again, as we think of the many things we might do differently if we were given a second chance. Yet it is by our mistakes that we learn the most lasting lessons and as we have profited by such in school, may we always continue to learn to the best advantage the lessons of life.

To me has been given the privilege of saying the parting words, and I, speaking on behalf of the class, am more than pleased to express my appreciation of the advantages we have received in the ten years of school life. Each teacher has worked faithfully to bring along his or her class to the required standard and although we as pupils are inclined to prefer play and amusement rather than hard work, yet deep down in our hearts we appreciate the efforts of our teachers.

We have lost Miss Ruth Campbell and Miss Grace Kim and although it is a loss to the school we hope it may not be to the community. I understand that Miss Elizabeth Sullivan and also Mr. Vernon Smith are leaving. These two efficient teachers will not only be a loss to the school but also to the community.

All the different branches of study have been carried on as usual and the result of the final examinations show that creditable work has been done.

We have given a certain amount of attention to music and the mornings that we all gathered together in the Assembly Hall for singing will long be remembered with pleasure, by both teachers and pupils. The teachers have striven to instill into our minds the spirit of true patriotism and love of country by means of music, and great credit is due to those teachers who so ably instructed and directed the children in the "School Concert," which was held in the Capitol Theatre on April 11, and also to those who directed the exercises held on such occasions as Empire Day and Armistice Day. Cadet training has been conducted as usual under the leadership of our principal, Mr. Jelly, and the physical side of the school-life has been also looked after.

Aur school was visited by the Red Cross nurses in the fall and also in the spring and much good work has been accomplished by them in our school and throughout the province.

The school sports were also held very successfully under the direction of Mr. Smith. There is nothing like taking part in sports to develop a good school spirit and the spirit of fair play and good fellowship so necessary a part of training of anyone who is to make a success of life High School.

The Ballade: A Metrical Form

Grant Allen, who in his day was noted as a naturalist, occasionally came before the public as a poet and also a writer of good fiction. As a cultured exponent of science at that date he ventured to construct a "Ballade of Evolution" which was reprinted in an Island newspaper as a "Ballad," the fault of course, of the proof reader.

Now the difference between the two forms of verse as with many other things, is most really explained by comparing examples of each.

The ballad, to the Anglo-Saxon, is a simple tale told in simple verse: in the most of cases ballads are associated with music as folk-songs, composed by the people for the people, handed down by oral tradition and in style, taste, and even in incident, resembling similar compositions found in other European countries. Extensive research has been made into their community of origin, and M. Ampere had collected look for these characteristics: They set of assonance in place of rhyme, the brusque character of the recital, the textual repetition, as in Homer, of the speeches of the persons, the constant use of certain numbers—as three and seven—and the representation of the commonest objects of every-day life as being made of gold and silver."

and be an asset to a community and we pupils feel that a great deal of appreciation is due to those teachers who gave their time and energy out of school hours to make that branch of our school life so enjoyable. And now the time has come when we must bid adieu. To you our Principal and Teachers, we say farewell. As we go forth to take our places in life we shall always remember and appreciate that you have done your best to give us the foundation for a good and successful life. And if at any time you feel discouraged in your work, a really great work it is, please remember that, while boys and girls are not "urge" you who have not yet reached the last grade of school to make the most of your opportunities here, so that when you come to your last day of school, you will have fewer regrets for wasted time. To you of the graduating class I should say, "Let us remember that in every graduating class there are those who make notable successes, others who are decided failures and still others who are just average citizens. If we follow the Golden Rule and keep in mind that the road to success is hard work mingled with sport and clean fun, then let us resolve that we, the graduating class of 1929, whether in college life or in business life, or in whatever direction our pursuits may lead us, shall follow in the footsteps of the many truly fine men and women who have passed through the Summerside High School.

Southern Notes

An ice cream social was held in Hopefield hall on Tuesday, 16th inst. This was followed by a dance which was prolonged to the wee small hours. A very enjoyable and delightful occasion it turned out to be. Conspicuous among the musicians were Messrs. James Hume of Iris, and Milburn Keenan of Fort Wood. The function was a two fold object, the raising of money for improvements to the buildings and the pleasure of social intercourse. This objective was reached.

Among the numerous industries of Fraser and Sons, of Greek River, is the canning of clams. These bivalves they find in good quantities in the foreshore near Wood Island breakwater and Port Wood. Fraser and Sons will, it is expected, not willingly deplete the clam beds and deprive in this way the fishermen of a great source of bait. Fraser and Sons are better sportsmen than that.

There are now two bakery motor vehicles whose routes lie along this shore road. These are the cars of Hynes' Bakery and Stewarts'. They supply bread, cake and pastry. Fifteen years ago, it would be held as a wild fantastic if not insane prophecy, to predict that in the near or quite distant future, country people would get their bread supplies delivered by city motors. What of the next fifteen years? Did I hear airplanes? No one can be certain that such a conveyance will not be used, though I do not predict it.

Mr. James Dixon was a recent visitor to the city. Very early in May, Mr. Dixon planted potatoes in neavy tough sod land turning the green sod right over them, and though the sod was cold, wet and soggy, and the weather continued unfavorable for a long time, the vines now show a wonderfully strong, green and healthy appearance. The explanation lies in intensive cultivation and plenty of manure.

Mr. Charles Lutz of Port Wood intends to return to Old Town, Maine, July 25th.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Peter G. Hume of Iris, received a painful injury to her foot by a fall as well as some bruises to other parts of her body. Her many friends will hope to see her make a rapid recovery.

Since the recent rain, grain crops are in a flourishing condition. New maps of Europe and Canada have been placed in Wood Island East School. Both maps have been very well executed. The map of Europe, which is often poorly done, is in this instance a masterpiece of cartography, every boundary, river, mountain chain and lake being clearly defined and the printing being very legible.—E.

THE BALLADE OF THE LORDS OF OLD TIME

What more? Where is the third Calixt,
Last of the name now dead and gone,
Who held four years the Papaliet?
Alfonso King of Aragon,
The gracious lord, duke of Bourbon
And Arthur, duke of old Britaine?
And Charles the Seventh, that worthy one?
Even with the good knight Charlemain.

The Scot, too, king of the mount and mist,
With half his face vermilion,
Men tell us, like an amethyst,
From brow to chin: that blazed and shone;
The Cypriote King of old renown,
Alas! and that good King of Spain
Whose name I cannot think upon?
Even with the good knight Charlemain.

No more to say of them I list;

Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Johnston.

Mr. Stephen Graham, Mrs. Graham and son Wilmot, Boston, Mass., are visiting at Mr. Graham's former home in Murray Harbor North. The party also motored to Peter's Road where they visited Mrs. Carrie Johnston and family, the former being a sister of Mr. Graham.

The Guardian with its correspondent and their many friends all join in wishing these visitors a pleasant vacation during their holiday season in the Garden of the Gulf.

Our mail courier, Mr. J. McQuigian is deservedly popular with his many patrons on the Montague-Murray Harbor North Route. He is an obliging and capable official.

The ice-cream socials held recently at Cambridge Road and Alma School Districts in aid of the schools of these districts were both well patronized and furnished good sport and recreation as well as the financial uplift received.

On Sunday 14th inst., Holy Communion was held in the Presbyterian Church at Peter's Road.

Rev. Quincy McDowell of Caledonia, officiated at the services, preached a very capable and earnest sermon to a large and appreciative audience in the evening Mr. Pringle, student in charge, preached a very appropriate and thoughtful sermon. The choir rendered excellent music under the direction of Mrs. Sidney Irving, organist.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bears and party visited relatives and friends at Peter's Road, on a week end visit from their home at Montague.

At the close of this writing we are grateful for the copious showers of rain that have refreshed and promoted the growth of vegetation.

Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Johnston.

Mr. Stephen Graham, Mrs. Graham and son Wilmot, Boston, Mass., are visiting at Mr. Graham's former home in Murray Harbor North. The party also motored to Peter's Road where they visited Mrs. Carrie Johnston and family, the former being a sister of Mr. Graham.

The Guardian with its correspondent and their many friends all join in wishing these visitors a pleasant vacation during their holiday season in the Garden of the Gulf.</
