He might be transferred to another penitentiary, depending upon the results of a psychiatric examination.

Mr. Michaud said he opposed the resolution and stressed the need for maintaining Quebec's cultural and educational facilities.

He said that any decision reached would have to be considered carefully in the light of the current Dominion-Provincial discussions.

From the educational point of view, the various Provinces had different problems to face and that which might suit one might not do for another.

Mr. Shaw, supporting the motion, said many Provinces were paying more for education than they were receiving in subsidies from the Dominion.

The developments which had taken place, particularly the proposed education act, had not been anticipated at the time of Confederation.

The Provinces had reached the point where it was becoming impossible for them to meet demands for expansion.

Mr. Dion said he was opposed to "centralization" because it meant the suppression of initiative and responsibility.

(By Norman Cribbens) LONDON, May 1.—(CP) Cabinet Minister, Dr. Alan Nunn, today sentenced a 34-year-old British physicist, pleaded guilty today to disclosing official secrets concerning atomic research which his counsel said went to a Russian agent.

He was sentenced to 10 years' penal servitude. May was one of a team of British, Canadian and American scientists who worked on nuclear research in Canada during Allied development of the atomic bomb.

His counsel, Gerald Gardner, told the court May disclosed certain information on atomic energy—but not on the bomb itself—to the Russian.

Mr. Justice Sir Roland Charles imposed the sentence in the Old Bailey, the central criminal court of justice, after telling the accused "you have acted not as an honorable man but as a dishonorable man."

At his preliminary hearing, the young physicist pleaded innocent. Asked today how he could plead guilty, he hesitated, glanced at his counsel.

The son of an Anglican Minister, Dr. A. D. B. Merkle, he was born in Upper New York State 61 years ago.
