"If you had your choice, which would you rather be—a sober, industrious citizen whose life never varied from day to day but who never suffered poverty or hardship—or a happy-go-lucky, devil-may-care, lovable chap, who though sometimes floundering and sometimes broke, lived a full life?"

THE COLLEGE TIMES — The current issue of the Prince of Wales College "Times", which appeared yesterday, is perhaps the most interesting ever published. A great number of the articles are of general interest, the editorials are constructive and provocative of thought, and the stories are witty and humorous. Each department is indicative of the interests, ideals, and life of the students at Prince of Wales. A special feature of the number is the photograph and biographical sketches of the members of the graduating class, thirty-one in number. An article of special interest to alumni is "Truth and Dr. Anderson" by D. Edgar Shaw, K. C., descriptive of life in "Old Prince of Wales." The Alumni column is also of particular interest containing as it does sketches of a number of former P. W. C. students who became prominent in public life. Descriptive of general student activities were articles on the Students Christian Movement, the Debating Society, and athletics. Short stories, a number of which are built around incidents of college life, feature articles and jokes complete the contents of the last issue of the "Times" for the term of 1930-31.

RECEPTION IN HONOUR OF BISHOP

A reception in honour of Bishop Joseph A. O'Sullivan was held yesterday afternoon in St. Joseph's Convent Hall. Five hundred pupils attended. As the Bishop entered the hall, which was beautifully decorated with paper colours and with ferns, he was greeted by a chorus in Latin, "Vivat Pastor Vonus." He was then presented with a basket of roses by eight little girls, each of whom said a few words of welcome. After a chorus in English, an address was read by Miss Eileen O'Neill to which Bishop O'Sullivan feelingly replied, thanking the children for their presentation. Beautiful though the flowers were, he said, even more beautiful to him were the smiling faces of the children. He had heard so much about Prince Edward Island that he thought he must have been sent here to find out if it were all true.

Bishop O'Sullivan was accompanied by Monsignor J. C. McLean, V. G., Monsignor Maurice McDonald, Rev. A. J. McIntyre, Rev. J. J. Hinchey, Rev. J. J. Flahaven, Rev. Joseph McGreel, C. S. R., Rev. Hogan, Rev. Bernard Gillis.

LARGEST PRIVATE DOCK OPENS

LONDON, May 20.—(British United Press)—The largest private dock in the world, costing over five million dollars, has been opened on the river Mersey.

This great new dock is the realization of the dream of Lord Leverhulme, who, 27 years ago, bought 800 acres of waste land along the seaboard of the Mersey and reclaimed a hundred acres on which now stand factories, workman's homes, quays, wharfs and docks.

The new dock can accommodate ocean liners of 10,000 tons at all stages of the tide. Ships will now be able to unload their cargoes at the very doors of the factory, and take away manufactured goods to supply the markets of the world.

CRAB SETS SPEED RECORD

PARIS, May 20.—(British United Press)—A new record for crab marathons—a mile in three and one half hours—has been set by one of the species called "Neptunus Pelaginus." This ancient crustacean, who began his life in the Red Sea, has just been reported to have arrived at Port Said. This journey, which he made via the Suez Canal, took twenty-nine years. The distance is 10 1/2 miles.

In comparison with this "snail's speed," which is roughly 28 miles a year, it is positively breath-taking.

The progress of this Columbus of crabs who was especially marked at the beginning of the race 29 years ago, has been carefully watched by devoted naturalists, who have now announced its safe arrival in the Mediterranean.

Of course, Neptunus P. had lots of good alibis to explain his delay, such as sea currents and larger and more ferocious crabs looking for their dinners.

SHOOTS AND CAPTURES BANDITS

Here are two sturdy French-Canadian brothers, Cuthbert and William la Ferriere of Silver Plains, Manitoba. Bandits robbed their filling station whilst the proprietor slept. About a week later the robbers returned for a second looting. But when Cuthbert, with the gun, greeted them with a round of buckshot, the one dropped, shot in the thigh. The other escaped and was later picked up by Winnipeg suburban police and turned over to the juvenile court.

SAVED BY A COW'S TAIL

LONDON, May 20.—(British United Press)—How a cow saved his life during a fire at his farm is told by Robert Bruce, an Aberdeenshire farmer. Endeavoring to save his livestock, Bruce became exhausted and collapsed, but in falling he succeeded in grasping the tail of one of the cows, which was dashing madly from the flame ridden building. He was thus pulled to safety.

He: Darling, I'm afraid I'll have to manage differently. I'm not making expenses.
She: Now, don't you worry. You just go on with your work and I'll make expenses.

500 ACCIDENTS A DAY

LONDON, May 20.—(British United Press)—A daily toll of 500 injuries of which 20 are fatal, is taken on the roads of Great Britain, according to figures just issued by the Home Office.

Deaths by street accidents are mounting yearly, the report showed, 609 more people being killed last year than in 1929, and 1,167 more than in 1928. The number killed in 1930 was 7,305, while the number injured was 177,895. Those killed included 3,722 pedestrians and among those injured were 71,155 pedestrians. Private cars were responsible for 1,882 deaths and 55,540 injuries. Motor-cycles were held responsible for 2,054 fatal accidents.

About ninety per cent of the fatal accidents last year were caused by mechanically driven vehicles, and of the non-fatal accidents approximately eighty per cent.

In London alone 58,708 people were killed or injured during 1930.

ANTI-TORPEDO INVENTION

LONDON, May 20.—(British United Press)—An interesting invention, which may have far-reaching effects on naval warfare, is shortly to be demonstrated to the King of Belgium, it is stated, by a Belgian artillery officer, Major Von Rollegem, who claims that he has discovered a means of protecting warships from torpedoes. Later he will send his models to be examined by the French Ministry of the Navy, and it is reported that the British Board of Trade has also requested him to show his invention here.

By means of his special apparatus, Major Von Rollegem declares that he can protect the man-o-war by causing the explosion of torpedo before it reaches its objective, and also by altering the course of the missile.

Von Rollegem will of course demonstrate his invention with reduced models.

LEARN TO FLY IN 3 MONTHS

LONDON, May 20.—(British United Press)—To turn out qualified pilots in three months is the aim of a new flying school which is being opened with the approval of the Air Ministry at Hamble, Southampton. The school is staffed with ex-officers of the R. A. F. and will give complete flying instruction on land and sea.

Navigation, meteorology, wireless, the theory of flight and aircraft, engine construction, the study of parachutes as well as practiced flying are among the studies on the curriculum. The price for the full course will be $1,790.

NEW MOORING MAST FIT

AKRON, O., May 20. (U.P.)—A giant movable mooring mast to drag the mammoth dirigible "Akron" in and out of the Goddard-Zeppelin corporation airdock has been tested and pronounced fit.

Powered with a 240-horsepower gasoline engine, the mast is 76 feet high, weighs 200 tons and attains full speed in locomotion at two miles per hour. Although originally designed by British engineers, the "iron horse" was made mobile by U. S. Naval experts.

A railway official is fond of telling how, when waiting for a connection at a junction station, he walked into town and saw a bigish funeral. He asked a passerby who the deceased was, and was told a prominent railway official had died suddenly.

"What was the complaint?" he queried.

"Oh, no complaint," came the ready answer. "Everybody is perfectly satisfied."

TRINITY OF TRUSTY SALADS

If you do not find the usual simple salads as popular as you would like with your family, perhaps you will lure them at times with something that cannot fail to catch their interest. Of course, when you are entertaining, something a bit out of the ordinary is always attractive to the seeking hostess-eye. These three salads have each a decided character—yet there is nothing intricate about them:

Grape and Almond

1 pound Malaga or Tokay grapes
1 cup blanched almonds
1/2 teaspoon salt
Mayonnaise
Lettuce

Sprinkle the almonds with salt and dry in a slow oven until they just begin to brown. Cool and chop very coarsely, saving a few whole ones to garnish with. Wash and chill the grapes, cut in half and remove seeds. Mix with the chopped almonds and enough cream mayonnaise to moisten. Serve as a dessert salad or as an appetizer.

Make the cream mayonnaise by mixing 3 tablespoons mayonnaise with 1/2 cup whipped cream.

Cabbage Salad

1 small firm head cabbage
1 green pepper, shredded
1 cup Russian dressing
2 pickled beets.

Shred the cabbage with a sharp knife or cabbage shredder and soak in cold, salted water for 30 minutes. Then drain, put in a paper bag and place in the ice box to chill. Just before serving mix with the pepper and dressing and arrange on individual plates. Garnish with pieces cut from the sliced, pickled beets.

Russian Dressing

1 cup mayonnaise
2-3 tablespoon catsup
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon finely chopped green or sweet red pepper.
1 teaspoon grated or minced onion.
Mix all together.

Apple Salad

2 cups diced, tart apples
1 small bunch celery
2-3 tablespoon peanut butter
1-3 to 1-2 cup mayonnaise
Raisins
Lettuce.

Separate celery into stalks, wash and dry very thoroughly. Work the peanut butter until soft and stuff the celery stalks with it. Chill and then cut into small pieces. Mix with the apples and mayonnaise and arrange on lettuce leaves. Garnish each portion with several raisins.

Like oranges, grapefruit is plentiful upon our markets just now—exceedingly fine fruit, too, and at very attractive prices. There was a banner crop in the citrus fruit districts this year—and we are gathering the benefit. One of the most healthful groups in the world of natural foods, these fruits are of immense value to us in ordinary diet—they should not be looked upon as luxuries, but included widely and wisely in the family menu.

Grapefruit Salad

Peel and prepare the pulp of 2 firm grapefruit in the same way as for grapefruit cocktail. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar and let stand for at least half an hour. Shred very fine enough white cabbage to make 3 cupfuls. Soak in cold, salted water for 30 minutes, then drain thoroughly and mix with 1-3 cupful of chopped nuts. Drain the grapefruit and mix the pulp with 1-2 teaspoonful of salt and 1-4 cupful of salad oil. Beat until blended, then mix with the cabbage. Arrange on cold plates and place pieces of grapefruit on top. Garnish with small stripes of pimento or green pepper. Lettuce may be substituted for the cabbage.
