OVER 100 YEARS OF SUCCESS

It is for internal as well as for external use.

Originated by a family physician, and prescribed in his practice.

It contains many more soothing, healing, pain destroying ingredients than other liniments.

Most expensive liniment to produce, but costs you no more.

Full value to humanity rather than an inferior article for large profits.

That's JOHNSON'S ANODYNE Liniment

Can any other Liniment on the market truthfully claim as much ?

For Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Grippe, Cramps, Chills, Asthma, Tonsilitis, Bronchitis, Sprains, Strains, Burns, Bruises, Etc.

The Stranger in Your Cup

Those stalks you see in your tea cup have no business there at all. They contain absolutely no tea essence; they are like stones in fruit, adding to the weight and price, but you cannot digest them.

TOBIN'S RAKWANA TEA

is good because it is from carefully selected leaves from which the stalks have been extracted. That is why it is so richly flavored, so healthful and more economical than most teas. It is all tea, the good part of the tea leaf without the bad, wasteful parts.

The product of the celebrated Rakwana Tea Estate in Ceylon and Behali Tea Estate in India has for many years been controlled by

John Tobin & Co., Halifax, Canada

Established 1820

The bare statement that we have been in business nearly one hundred years merely says that we are a very old firm, but there is a great significance in the fact that John Tobin & Co., are today one of the most progressive wholesale firms in America, and carry the most extensive range of staple, heavy and fancy groceries in Canada. The leading manufacturers in England, United States, Canada and elsewhere are always eager to appoint us their distributing agents, and we have exclusive control in Nova Scotia for

H. J. Heinz 57 Varieties Delicatessen
France-American Pure Food Company,
Cairn's Marmalades and Jams. Brands A. I. Sauces, etc.
Riley's Toffee. Welch's Grape Juice and many other lines.

Our Tea Blending Department is equipped with most modern machinery, and we also import the choicest Java, Mocha, Brazil and Jamaica Coffees which we roast and grind on our premises. Our own wharf at rear of our stores provides accommodations for thousands of puncheons of molasses which we import direct from Barbadoes each year.

KIPLING'S NEW POEM COUNSELS COURAGE

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Christmas number of Land and Water contains a poem by Kipling entitled "The Holy War." It has for its text the following quotations from Bunyon's "Holy War." "For here lay the excellent wisdom of him that built Mansoul, that the walls could never be broken down nor hurt by the most mightly adverse potentate unless the townsmen gave consent thereto." Following are four verses from the poem:

A tinker out of Bedford,
A vagrant oft in quod,
A private under Fairfax,
A minister of God,
Two hundred ears and thirty,
Ere Armageddon came;
His single hand portrayed it,
And Bunyan was his name.

He mapped for thos who follow,
The world in which we are—
"The famous town of Mansoul"
That takes the holy war.
Here true and traitor people
The gates along her wall.
From Eye gate unto Feel gate
John Bunyan showed them all.

Likewise the Lords of Looseness
That hamper faith and works,
The perseverance-doubters,
The present-comfort shirks,
The brittle intellectuals,
Who cracked beneath a strain—
John Bunyan met the helpful set
In Charles the Second's reign.

Now he has left his quarters,
In Bunhill Fields to lie,
The wisdom that he taught us
Is proven prophecy;
One watchword through our armies,
One answer from our lands—
"No dealings with Diabolus
As long as Mansoul stands."

Women Everywhere Use Lemon Juice To Beautify Skin

The beauty lotion which is becoming so popular throughout the country is easily prepared by anyone, and a whole quarter pint of it doesn't cost any more than a small jar of the common, ordinary cold creams.

Add the juice of two fresh lemons to three ounces of orchard white and shake well in a bottle. Strain the lemon juice two or three times through a fine cloth so no pulp gets into the lotion, then it will keep fresh for months. Regardless of what price you pay or how highly advertized, there is nothing else really more meritorious in beautifying, softening and clearing the skin. As a tan and blemish remover, also to remove oiliness and sallowness, lemon juice has no rival. Massage it into the face, neck, and arms once or twice each day, and just see if it doesn't bring out the roses and hidden beauty!

Lemons have always been used to bleach the skin, but pure lemon juice is too highly acid, therefore should never be used except in this manner.

If properly preared, this sweetly fragrant lotion will speak for itself. Any drug store will supply the three ounces of orchard white at very little cost, and the grocer will supply the lemons.

BUT ONE QUESTION ON DEC. 17

from an Irish Catholic bishop, who was once a priest in this city; and in the course of it, he rightly resents the indiscriminate abuse of his co-religionists. Though Quebec is, to a large extent, pro-French and pro-Catholic, this does not necessarily mean that it is anti-British. No doubt, there are exceptions. But the admitted failure of Quebec to measure up to other parts of Canada in its response to the call of the war is to be explained chiefly by the lack of proper education with regard to it. Quebec, has not heard the appeals which, from pulpit and platform, have rung through the rest of this Dominion. Both political parties have seemed diffident about disturbing the calm of the simple habitant who lives away from the swirl of the great world currents, and takes his cue from the church alone. French-Canadian clerics, viewing the present struggle in an imperfect light, may have told their flocks to mind their own business, really believing that it was their business not to engageg in it at all. But if the stupendouse subject had been presented before them in all its far-reaching significance, I feel sure that the freedom-loving French would not have refused to assume a fair share of the sacred obligation which is just as much theirs as our own.

Neither Free from Blame.

"Neither political party is free from blame for this timid reticence. But there is one man who could have changed the whole situation if he had wised to do so, the distinguished French-Canadian, beloved and revered by the people of Quebec; and powerful in his influence over them. If his eloquent tongue had spoken the thrilling word, even though it involved, in a milder degree, the kind of risk which the boys take in the trenches every day, it would have won for him an immortal name in the annals of Canada.

"No doubt there are good men who will vote against Union Government some through party prejudice, some from a confusion of ideas, some from a mistaken belief that they are serving the best interests of Canada. We must not hurl about the ugly word "traitor" promiscuously; and it is clear that it cannot be applied to those who have put aside partisan considerations and united with former opponents in pursuit of a common aim. But the man who sincerely thinks that he is doing the right thing in voting against Unionism will find himself in strange company. He will have on his side the selfish ones who put their own comfort before everything, the ignorant who are deceived by specious promises, the pacifists who really prolong the war, the poltroons whose motto is "Safety first," the pro-Germans who lurk among us, the separatists who resent Canada's entrance into the field of battle, and who would not hesitate to break every tie that binds us to the British realm. This is the motley throng that will furnish the chief remonstrants against the ideals for which the Union Government stands. Shall they determine the future of Canada? Would Canada have any future worthy of her past if they gained the victory?

Time for Great Things.

"There never was a time in our whole career as a people when intelligent thought and noble action were more needed than today. Canada is on trial, and the world is watching her. It is not our political fortunes that are in the balance so much as our national character and destiny. Whether we think it this stage that the war is not a culgar would be interpreted outside as a pause in our martial effort, a dulling of our sense of further responsibilities, a doubt whether we want the old flag still to float over us. And, worst of all, it would also bring contemptuous joy to the camp of our bitter enemies.

"A parochial spirit is fatal just now. We must vindicate our democracy by putting into it clear brains and resolute hearts. We must cast our ballots with the consciousness of wide horizons. We are not engaged with some trifling domestic matter. We are not struggling for the triumph of any political party. We are not free to be guided by the narrow dictates of selfishness. The great question before us is our duty as Canada citizens in the sight of God and man.

"Surely, no one needs to be told at this stage that the war is not vulgar brawl which demands apology on our part, but a gigantic conflict which will decide the fate of Christian civilization. As long as we are alive, we cannot get out of it, even if we would. And since we are in it, we must be in it with all our might, ready even to lose our life that we may find it, ready even to be stripped of all else besides if we but keep an unsullied soul.

Turn your eyes once more to the boys across the sea. They make no plaint. They accept hardship and peril and death itself unflinchingly; and the line grows thinner, they redouble their efforts against the foe. But what will happen if we are unmoved by their devoted spirit; if the lustre they have shed upon the name of Canadian is dimmed by our misdoing? May God deliver us from the reproach of their sad eyes and weary hearts! May none of the living ever curse the land that gave them birth! May none of the dead ever rise up in judgment against us because they have died in vain!"

STEEL PATES

"John," said Mrs. Jenkins, looking up from the evening paper, "you know how many dishes Kate has broken lately?"

"Yes," said John, "what about it?"

"Well," continued the lady, "there is something in the paper about steel plates. I dont know just what they are, but I should think they might be indestructible."—Liverpool Post.

SO that we may become better acquainted with more of our boys and girls this Christmas, we are giving you this fine Christmas Tree loaded down with beautiful and valuable presents. Ten of the presents are in sealed boxes. Nobody but Uncle Peter has seen what they contain, but on each one has been drawn a puzzle picture that tells what is in it. No. 8 represents Boxing Gloves. Now can you guess what Christmas present for a boy or girl is in each of the other nine? Get some one to help you if you like, but write out yourself your answers to all of the ten pictures. On January 31, 1918, Uncle Peter, who edits our page for boys and girls, will judge the answers and award the big cash prizes as above to the boys and girls complying with the conditions of the contest whose answers are all correct, neatest and best written. So get busy and send in an answer to-day, and this Christmas may be the happiest you have ever had.

Our "Success Club" for Boys and Girls has provided these fine prizes and hundreds of Christmas presents as well. You'll hear all about the "Success Club" when you send your answers, and if you wish you can become a member free and receive the lovely Club Emblem Pin.

Thousands of boys and girls in Canada are already in the "Success Club" and proudly wear the Club Pin. If you are bright and quick to send in the answers, you can join the "Success Club" too and win a big cash prize and a dandy Christmas present as well.

Only boys and girls under fifteen years of age may send answers, and each boy and girl desiring his entry to compete for one of the fine prizes will be required to perform a small service for the Club, for which an additional valuable reward will be given. Address your answers to "Orange Lily"—the woman's friend—will transform your life!

If you are of that numberless host of women who silently suffer untold distress and agonizing pains caused by obstinate and long-standing disorders of an internal nature, let me make you this free and open promise—"Orange Lily" will transform your life!

I know the symptoms as well as yourself, for I too suffered for years before the discovery of "Orange Lily" home treatment. Now that I am entirely and forever free of the almost unendurable distress and pain of former years, I am only too glad to help others. "Orange Lily" is a local treatment that you apply yourself, without help, in your own home. A few days will work wonders and, like hundreds of others, you'll thank me for making known the good news to you.

Write me to-day and let me send you ten days' treatment of "Orange Lily"—absolutely free. It may save you from fatal complications later. When you are free from present troubles just tell others, that is all I ask. Address in full confidence Mrs. Lydia W. Ladd, successor to Mrs. Frances E. Currah, Windsor, Ont. 17

A Gallant Youth

Here is a story of heroism and resourcefulness that is not often paralleled. A battery of Canadian field artillery was under a concentrated fire from enemy guns. Gunner William McLean was in an old German gun pit during the bombardment when a direct hit caused twelve casualties. Wounded in the che and hand MacLean turned at once to the duty of rescuing those who were in worse case than himself. One of the victims was pinned down beneath heavy debris and there was a danger that if left in the position in which he was he could not survive long. A medical officer who could not reach the spot because of the needs of other wounded, was consulted and he advised amputation of the shattered leg so that the victim might be released. With great nerve in the smoke-filled gun pit, MacLean performed the amputation, thus showing what the official report records as a splendid example of bravery, determination, and devotion to duty for which the military medal has been awarded.
