CHATHAM, England, Jan. 16 — (CP)—Captain Earl Hommerberg, whose Swedish tanker Divina sank the Royal Navy's Truculent last Thursday, did not know he had struck a submarine, he said today.

He gave this as the reason for the delay in reporting the collision. It was an hour and 20 minutes before the Royal Navy received word of the disaster which took the lives of 64 of the 79 men aboard the Truculent. Only 15 men survived.

"I had no idea we had struck a submarine at all," Hommerberg told reporters. "We all thought we had been in collision with some kind of surface vessel and there were survivors swimming in the water."

"In those circumstances, we did what I considered—and still consider—the proper thing to do. We launched a boat and threw out lifebuoys."

"The Truculent survivors we picked up were not in any fit state to talk and for a long time we continued our rescue operations without realizing that it was a submarine we had been in collision with."

The Divina later nosed into Sheerness, the nearest port, with a piece of the Truculent's hull, 18 feet long and eight feet wide, embedded in its bow. It had rescued five of the Truculent's crew.

An inquest into the disaster was adjourned today until Jan. 24, after relatives had identified the bodies of nine crew members recovered from the sea.

Naval salvage experts said today it may take a week to complete plans for lifting the submarine from the bottom of the estuary.

In loving memory of our dear Aunt Bessie Sherren who passed away two years ago today.

Met Many Islanders On Visit To The West

The pleasure of meeting a host of Prince Edward Islanders, many of them holding leading positions in their communities, was experienced by Mr. Walter G. MacKenzie of Bradabane, on a recent visit to Western Canada. Mr. MacKenzie, who is a former Conservative member of the Legislature for the First District of Queens, left here on Nov. 19 and returned a few days ago after spending the Christmas season with his sister, Mrs. Fred West, at Raddison, Saskatoon, and his uncle and aunt, Dr. A. E. and Mrs. MacKenzie, at Saskatoon.

En route Mr. MacKenzie spent a day in Montreal, and went out to McMasterville, a distance of about twenty-five miles, where the plant of Canadian Industries Limited is located. There he was the guest of Dr. Louis and Mrs. Haslam, of Springfield. Dr. Haslam is medical officer at the C.I.L. plant, besides enjoying a large practice of his own. He also visited Dr. Haslam's brother, Raymond, and Mr. Lorne Bell, of Cape Traverse, both of whom have responsible positions with the C. I. L.

At Ottawa

At Ottawa Mr. MacKenzie was a guest of Mr. W. Chester S. McLaughlin, M.P., with whom he formerly sat in the local Legislature. He was not surprised to learn that Mr. McLaughlin has the reputation of being one of the most popular members of the House, he being in his office from early dawn till late at night answering correspondence and attending to details. Mr. McLaughlin has as his efficient secretary, Mrs. Alice McCarthy, of Charlottetown.

During a committee discussion in Parliament Mr. MacKenzie heard Mr. J. Diefenbaker in action in one of the most brilliant performances he had ever listened to.

Later, from conversation with people in Saskatchewan, he learned that Mr. Diefenbaker was admired by everyone regardless of politics.

Mr. MacKenzie met the late Senator Sinclair at Ottawa, also Miss Hazel Kennedy of Bradabane, and Mrs. Ingersoll, the former Adelaide Lockhart of Charlottetown, who is secretary to Mr. J. Watson MacNaught, M. P. for Prince Edward Island.

Mr. MacKenzie also met Mr. and Mrs. D. A. MacNeill, of Stanley Bridge, and Mrs. Ramsden, the former Eliza Todd of Bradabane, in the Chateau Laurier, the met Jack Farquharson of Toronto, formerly of Charlottetown, who travels for a large furniture concern.

Mr. MacKenzie spent another full day in Winnipeg, where he met Mrs. Harry Saul, formerly Mrs. Sinclair of Springfield, whose husband is on the staff of the Winnipeg Free Press, while her only son is a student at the University of Manitoba. He also met Mr. and Mrs. Urban Farmer, from Kinkora, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Yeo. Mrs. Yeo, the former Myrtle MacKenzie, is a cousin of Mr. MacKenzie's.

In Saskatchewan

In Saskatchewan was a guest of his uncle, Dr. A. B. and Mrs. MacKenzie. Dr. MacKenzie, whose office is in 204 Canada Building, has been practising in Saskatoon for over thirty years, and enjoys a large practice. Time has dealt leniently with both Dr. and Mrs. MacKenzie, who look young and are enjoying excellent health. Mrs. MacKenzie was the former Katie Gay, of Pownall.

In Saskatchewan Mr. MacKenzie met many other former Prince Edward Islanders, including Edward Biggs, Bradabane; Sandy Quarebriggs, from Stanley Bridge, who is manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; Mrs. Edward Channell, a sister of Mrs. MacKenzie; and R. E. Mutch, of Charlottetown, who revisited the Island with her husband last summer. C. O. or Dr. Blair, a member of a large legal concern, a Rhodes scholar, and a veteran of World War II, whose mother was the late Eliza Elliott of Elliott's Mills; and Louis McFadyen, formerly of Riverdale, a retired wheat farmer. It may be recalled that in 1947 Mr. McFadyen, his wife and only son Donald visited this Province, and that during their visit their son was obliged to undergo a serious operation, which resulted fatally.

Mr. MacKenzie recalls that while in a barber shop in Saskatoon the state to talk and for a long time we continued our rescue operations without realizing that it was a submarine we had been in collision with."

The Divina later nosed into Sheerness, the nearest port, with a piece of the Truculent's hull, 18 feet long and eight feet wide, embedded in its bow. It had rescued five of the Truculent's crew.

An inquest into the disaster was adjourned today until Jan. 24, after relatives had identified the bodies of nine crew members recovered from the sea.

POPULAR FALLACY

Whales do not spout water — their spout is actually condensed moisture blown from their lungs.

Mr. W. G. MacKenzie

Mr. Woodside's sister, Miss Marian Woodside, who is head saleslady in a large ladies' wear store in Saskatoon.

Mr. MacKenzie spent most of his time in Raddison with his sister, Mrs. Fred West, (Bessie). Before leaving home Mrs. West taught school in several parts of this Province, and after going west was vice principal of the school in Scott, Saskatchewan. Her husband is a veteran of World War I. They have two daughters, one attending the University of Saskatchewan.

In Raddison he also met Dr. and Mrs. Daley. Dr. Daley hails from Iowa, his former wife, Mrs. Daley was the former Katie Lanning of Montague. Dr. Daley has a good dental practice in Raddison. He was in his service during the last war, as was his son who is now a student at the University of Toronto.

He also met Mr. and Mrs. Ebby Francis, formerly of Albany, who live a short distance from Raddison. Mr. Francis owns and operates a model farm, and some of his family are married in that district.

At Moose Jaw

En route to Regina Mr. MacKenzie dropped off at Moose Jaw, calling on Clifford Mills. Clifford left Springfield in 1907, and has never visited the Island since. He is employed with the C. P. R. as engine driver, but is at present on sick leave. He went overseas with the First Canadian Cavalry in 1914. He is married, has a son in the Navy, and one daughter married in Vancouver.

Mr. MacKenzie while in Moose Jaw visited Dr. Fred Wigmore, formerly of Graham's Road. After his discharge from the Air Force he came to Moose Jaw and is a lead clinic surgeon in that city. At present his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wigmore of Graham's Road, are visiting him.

When cross-examined by Mr. R. R. Bell, K.C., witness stuck to his statement that Miss MacKay might have had one foot on the pavement but was quite sure there was sufficient room for them all to walk on the shoulder.

Happening to glance over his shoulder he saw a vehicle without lights directly behind them. Calling to the others he jumped into the ditch. By the time he

Y. M. C. A. News

As he switched off the last light, the tired secretary sighed, "One more swing at that bird and there have passed out." But there were others just as weary last week as the Tuesday night badminton group enjoys their largest turnout so far this season. In fact, there were so many enthusiastic racquet welders warming up that the only safe place in the whole gym was on one of the newly painted courts where some population stayed steadily at four persons per court all evening. This game gets more interesting every week, and everyone from beginner to expert enjoys the evening.

On Thursday evening, the Philas had history. The business girls' sorority which has been active since the spring of 1945, carried on through the period when there was no "Y" building in which to meet. Last fall several new members were taken into the club, and the membership swelled. Last Thursday the girls formed a new chapter, the Phila Beta, whose membership is drawn mainly from the newer members. The new chapter, which abounds in program ideas, elected their new officers as follows: President: Mildred Cadmore; Vice-President: Lois Burke; Munn; Secretary: Marie Munn; Treasurer: Joan Large. The Alpha chapter is being reorganized following the formation of the new group, will play host to the new chapter at an outdoor skating party following the regular Thursday business meeting.

The regular supper meeting of the Regals, Y's Men and Phalanx kept the kitchen busy on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. Once again the Hi-Y girls (some of whom took time off from studying for exams) waited table.

The regular Saturday morning program for the younger boys and girls had an added touch in the visit of Sgt. MacInnes of the City Police. Following the showing of the film "The Policeman" Sgt. MacInnes gave an interesting talk to the boys and girls. A film "One Day Nearer Democracy" which was about the work of a Japanese Y. M. C. A. secretary was also shown.

Saturday afternoon, the inter-mediate played their first badminton since the Christmas holidays. Due to the exams, there were few present in the early part of the afternoon. Some of the boys managed to drag themselves in for a few quick games after the strain of the quizzes. The additional courts now give ample playing space for teen-age badminton enthusiasts.

The Acmy Hi-Y sponsored an exhibition game Saturday evening as the Juvenile Vics met the Abbies in a fast basketball game in the "Y" gym. Although they came out on the short end of the 35-21 count, the Abbies kept the Vics down to a low count in the first

Crown Witnesses Heard In Case Of Manslaughter

Evidence of several Crown witnesses was heard in the trial of Cecil Lester Roberts, Charlottetown, charged with manslaughter, which opened before Mr. Justice M. R. McGuigan and a jury in the Supreme Court yesterday. The case will be resumed today when the Court opens at 10.30 a.m.

In opening the Crown case Mr. J. Nicholson told the jury they would hear evidence of Dr. R. G. Lea, who was called in soon after the victim reached the hospital; of the other witnesses who were with Sylvia Jean MacKay at approximately 12 p.m. on the evening of July 16, 1949; of people who saw a truck in that vicinity; of how the truck did not stop; of the driver spoken to through the window; and of how the R.C.M.P. later apprehended the driver of said truck with the truck keys still in his possession.

"We will endeavor to prove to you," he said, "that the prisoner by misconduct did wilfully cause the death of Sylvia Jean MacKay."

Upon being called by Deputy Attorney General J. O. C. Campbell, Dr. R. G. Lea told of being summoned to P. E. Island Hospital at approximately 12.15 a.m. on July 17th and finding Miss MacKay on the operating table. He stated that the patient had bruises on the left side of her face and that the skin was broken. There were superficial bruises around the mouth and also on both knees. Soon afterwards her condition became worse and she died within three hours. Evidence was found of a puncture in the skull, at the base of the brain. Cause of death was a fractured skull.

Sixteen year old Noel MacMillan was called next and told of being with Miss MacKay and two others earlier in the evening, were walking along St. Peter's Road, on the right hand side, at the extreme right as he was pushing his bicycle. Wendell Burke was walking next to him, he stated; then Miss Joyce Gallant with Miss MacKay closest to the pavement.

When cross-examined by Mr. R. R. Bell, K.C., witness stuck to his statement that Miss MacKay might have had one foot on the pavement but was quite sure there was sufficient room for them all to walk on the shoulder.

Happening to glance over his shoulder he saw a vehicle without lights directly behind them. Calling to the others he jumped into the ditch. By the time he

Canadian Cheddar Cheese Popular In United Kingdom

(By Harold Morrison)

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 — (CP)—Canada's cheddar cheese is popular in the United Kingdom.

So says William Rodden, British dairy expert, now in Ottawa to help negotiate a new Anglo-Canadian cheese contract. He will assist Sir Andrew Jones, chairman of the permanent British Food Mission.

Mr. Rodden said today in an interview that Britons insist on buying cheddar because it is almost part of tradition.

"It is one of the oldest types of cheese made in the United Kingdom and it is a type we import heavily."

Land of few hot dogs and hamburgers, Britain is hungry for cheese—about 500,000,000 pounds were consumed last year. Only 90,000,000 pounds were produced in U. K. factories.

Thus, Britain is searching the world for cheese. Last year she bought 220,000,000 pounds of cheddar in New Zealand, 50,000,000 in Canada, and the United States and 25,000,000 in Australia.

This year, the U. K. hopes to buy a bit more from Canada, perhaps 80,000,000 pounds—"if the Canadian price is right."

Neither Mr. Rodden nor Sir Andrew. The game was played to a fair sized pre-Teen Town crowd.

It was announced on Monday that the annual meeting of the Charlottetown Y.M.C.A. will be held on February 6th. This will be the opportunity of the friends and supporters of the "Y" to take part in the business of the Association. The annual reports will be given at this time, and new members of the Board of Directors will be named.

The Monday night program for young adults began again last night with a volley of questions being fired at all comers. Seems some of the powers that be are interested in whether or not girls can cook, or if a man would rather eat than dance. Anyhow, the gang present soon settled down to ping-pong, bridge, and chess. Though the crowd was not up to pre-Christmas proportions, the fun and dancing were unlimited. Those girls who played ping-pong this week are just getting in shape for a tournament next week!

Premier Duplessis Enjoys Ottawa Conference

St. Peter's Cathedral Annual Meeting

Chosen as delegates to the Diocesan Church Society were Messrs. S. G. Bryant, G. E. Sheridan and R. L. Cotton, and to the Diocesan Synod, W. G. Hogg and T. E. MacNutt with G. R. Brady and J. R. Paton as substitutes.

The Scout and Cub Committee elected composed Messrs. T. H. Morris, G. R. Brady and J. B. Peake and the Guide and Brownie Committee, Mrs. Alan Macmillan, Mrs. W. A. Smith and Mrs. George Brady.

Col. G. H. Peake was complimented on his successful campaign for increased funds, and the Ladies' Guild for its generous contributions.

Votes of thanks were extended to the Incumbent and Mrs. Malone, the vestry, the trustees, the choir and organists and H. R. Doane and Co. for their kindly services.
