THE CARTIER CENTENARY.

At the City Council on Monday an application was received from the Sir George Etienne Cartier Centenary Committee, Montreal, suggesting that a subscription might be forwarded towards the Cartier Centenary movement.

The Cartier Centenary movement was inaugurated by Mr. E. W. Villeneuve, and it is the intention to have an elaborate celebration in Montreal, with which city Cartier had been so prominently identified, in September, 1914.

Cartier was the leader of the Confederationists in Quebec and had to face the bitterest of opposition in his own Province. But in 1867, after a stiff fight, he was returned to Parliament with a large following, and time soon justified the attitude he had adopted.

"Confederation," he said in one of his speeches, "has for its first reason our common affection for British institutions, its object is to assure by all possible guarantees, their maintenance in the future."

Cartier was connected with the inception of many great schemes, but those with which we are most interested here are the Intercolonial Railway and the Canadian Militia system.

Although the City Council is not in a position to contribute officially to the scheme, no doubt the Mayor will gladly receive any subscriptions which those interested may care to send him.

THE PERFECT SCHOOLBOY

From an English exchange we learn that a campaign has recently been inaugurated for the evolution of the perfect schoolboy.

al or selfish motives. Her idea as to what constitutes a perfect boy is, probably, altruistic also—if the term may be used—as it indicates her opinion of what might be done with somebody else's boy—or to him.

From collateral information regarding the conference we learn that among the problems to be discussed are those concerned with diet, cooking, and hygiene at home and in school, and there is a promise that "many novel suggestions will be made."

Of the keeping of this promise there can be no doubt. Before the search for the philosopher's stone began, that for the perfect boy was well under weigh and although the former has long since been abandoned, the latter still engages the attention of kind-hearted maidens and ancient philanthropists of both sexes.

What will the perfect boy be like when he evolves? To this there would be as many different answers as there are boys and fathers and mothers.

"The best boy God ever made" was the judgment of a mother in a neighboring city, not long since, concerning her son who was undergoing trial for a crime which elicited from the trial judge an entirely different opinion, and the boy went to penitentiary—not on the judgment of the mother but of the judge.

Candidly we have little hope for the evolution of the perfect boy, nay, more, we would be inclined to fear him, if there were any hope of his coming in the natural order of things he would probably die if indeed he escaped the fate of the "best boy" above mentioned.

There is no "perfect boy," or if there is we do not recognize him as such. Neither, generally speaking, is it a wholesome or a helpful thing to endeavor to evolve a perfect boy out of the raw material available.

A boy is a boy. He can be taught many things. His feet may be, and should be, turned into the paths of rectitude and truth and honor when he starts out on life's journey and he will need much kindly admonition and guidance along the early stages.

BOUND TIGHTLY BY FISHING LINES

REGINA, Sask., July 15.—The bodies of Olaf Asplund and Erik Westmann, drowned in the lake at Fort Quappelle on Sunday were recovered this morning. When raised to the surface it was found that Westmann and Asplund were bound together by a fishing line. The line was tangled about the wrists of Asplund, rendering him powerless, while the remainder of the line was wound about Westmann's arms and body, holding the former tight to his side.

CHRISTIAN'S CONVENTION

At 3.00 p.m. the C. W. B. Missions met and gave encouraging reports of the work that has been done and the great need of the other churches, that have not the organization, to organize same immediately.

SUNDAY SERVICES

At 10.45 a. m. Sunday devotional services were led by Mr. C. E. Armstrong reading Scripture, Mr. U. A. Hatfield led in prayer and Mr. W. H. Harding, minister of Christian Church, Greenmount, preached. His text was found in the 16th chapter of Matthew and the 18th verse, The foundation of the Church. He gave a fluent and eloquent address and emphasized plainly the easy matter it would be if all people would accept the New Testament just as it reads, without any additions or subtractions.

Sunday at 3 o'clock Mr. A. J. McLeod, who was the former pastor of the New Glasgow and Bradalbane Churches, but who has been at evangelistic work in Nova Scotia, preached a fine, able sermon from the following words, found in the first chapter of John and the 43rd verse: "Follow Me." This discourse was listened to by a crowded house, as the people were overjoyed to hear Bro. McLeod. After this sermon Rev. Mr. McVei, pastor of the United Churches of the Cross Roads, P. E. I., gave an address on Missions in South Africa, which was very attentively listened to.

At 7 o'clock Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Wilson, Field Secretary of the Temperance Alliance of P.E.I., gave a fine temperance address, urging the great necessity of all churches putting their shoulders together and upholding the Prohibition Law. He was followed by Mr. W. H. Harding, pastor of Greenmount Church, who gave a discourse on the Great Marriage Feast, "Come, for behold all things are now ready." This sermon was forcibly delivered.

The service in the Presbyterian Church at seven o'clock was conducted by Mr. John Lord of the Montague Christian Church, taking for his text Ephesians, 4:5 verse, There is one body and one spirit even as ye are called in one hope of your calling one Lord, one faith and one baptism. He brought thoroughly out the explanation of these verses before the large audience which he had.

MONDAY'S SESSION

On Monday morning devotional service was led by Mr. H. R. Bell, then after the reports of the churches were given, which were the best of any year yet, much business was put through in a grand and noble spirit and without murmurings and disputing. The convention was invited to three different churches for the coming year, but it was decided to hold it at Montague, changing the date a little earlier in the week. The election of officers took place for the ensuing year. The following officers were appointed on the Board of church affairs regarding evangelistic work on the Island:

President—Samuel Kennedy, Jr. Vice-President—H. Stevenson. Sec'y-Treas.—C. E. Armstrong. Directors—Messrs. Silas Raynor, Frank F. Tuplin, Nevs. W. H. Harding and H. R. Bell.

The afternoon service was led by Mr. John Lord, on adult Bible class, and Mr. C. A. Hatfield on Sunday school. Some grand thoughts were brought out. At the 7.30 service Rev. H. R. Bell preached to a full house, after which the convention was brought to a close.

THANKS

The annual Convention of the Christian Churches on P. E. Island hereby wish to convey their many thanks to the Presbyterians of New Glasgow for their kindness in allowing them the use of their church building on Sunday evening, appreciating the same very much.

The annual Convention of the Christian Church hereby wishes to extend their many thanks to the P. E. Island Railway for their kindness in reducing the fares in connection with said convention, appreciating same very much.
