

Teeth Made White —Glorious, Gleaming

Please accept 10-day tube to try

Remove the dingy film, which scores of tooth and gum troubles now are traced.

Modern dental science has found a way to restore "off-color" teeth to clearness, that gives toneless gums a healthy coral tint.

Famous movie stars use this way before going on a scene. That's why movie smiles listen so. Leading dentists use it widely. For it protects the teeth and firms tender gums.

It is called Pepsodent—a new type tooth paste that works by removing the dingy film coat from teeth that old-time dentifrices did not clear off successfully. That's why brushing fails you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you'll feel that film. A slippery coating that absorbs discolorations and keeps your teeth off color, that breeds bacteria by the millions and invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea.

Remove it and you will be amazed at what you see. Discard old ways now. Get Pepsodent at any drug store. Or send coupon for 10-day tube to try.

Tryon Tid Bits

By "Eismac."

Mr. Max McVittie, Westmoreland was a visitor to Tryon Wednesday evening.

Messrs. D. J. and V. J. A. Thomson, North Tryon, made a business trip to Victoria Thursday.

We learn with great regret of the serious illness with pneumonia of Master Freddy Dawson, North Tryon.

Miss Georgie Gillis arrived home from Amesbury, Mass., on Tuesday evening. Georgie is a general favorite, and will be very welcome here in Tryon.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Chisholm, we regret to say, are confined to their home with a bad attack of the flu. We trust to see them up and about again very soon.

Mrs. Wm. Kitson and little granddaughter, Irma, have returned to their home in Tryon, after spending the winter in Lot 16 with her brother, William Thomson.

Mr. Jas. A. Chisholm, the up-to-date funeral director, of North Tryon, has purchased a fine new motor car in order to be in a position to render best possible service in his business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Waite, Summerside, and son Fred, spent Sunday, May 15, with relatives in North Tryon. They were accompanied by Miss Grace Kirn, who visited her mother, Mrs. Cassie Kirn, North Tryon.

We shall miss you in these things. In the church, of which you were a member, we shall also miss you, for you were an office-bearer whose advice we could always depend upon. As an elder you showed your interest in every part of our church work, and always gave liberally of both your time and substance in the caring for and carrying on the work of the Master. We tender the wish that in the place in which you may make your home you may find friends both kind and true, and knowing you as we do, we feel this will indeed be so. And now, as a small token of our appreciation of you and what you have been to us, we ask you to accept this chair, in the hope that you may find it comfortable to rest in, and, resting there sometimes think of your friends in old Tryon, and still remember us in your prayers. And our sincere wish for you is that the remainder of life's journey may be pleasant, and then an abundant entrance into the House above.

Mr. Albro Howatt then presented Mr. Morrison with a beautiful rocker. Although very much surprised, Mr. Morrison made a suitable reply. In addition to the address, Mr. Warren Lord, Mr. Wallace Toombs, Albro Howatt, D. J. Thomson, Henry Smith and Albert Mabey spoke briefly, voicing their deep appreciation of Mr. Morrison as a citizen and friend. Rev. Mr. Somers then, spoke briefly, also voicing appreciation of Mr. Morrison as a friend, neighbor and an officer in the church. Immediately following this, Mr. Somers called upon Mr. Austin Toombs, who read the following address:

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Morrison: We, your friends and neighbors, have assembled here this evening, to spend with you a social hour; and also to bid farewell to you and your family, prior to your departure to take up a new work in a neighboring district. Your presence among us will be missed a thousand-fold, for you, Mr. Morrison, were always an active worker in all kinds of social activities, and willing to participate in all community functions. It has been said that there are three classes of people in the world: the "wills", the "wonts", and the "cant's," and that the "wills" can accomplish everything. You, Mr. Morrison, are assuredly of the first class, for whatever you have put your ready and willing hand to has been a success. You have been a faithful and efficient worker in our church and choir, always in your place, and ever ready to undertake any task, and our loss in that respect is a great one. Friendship is the only thing on the value of which all mankind are agreed, and while your services in church, school and in many other capacities will be missed to an inexpressible degree, yet it is the spirit of true friendship which you have always shown to all—that congenial and friendly "How are you?" with which we were always greeted, will be much missed. What is our loss is Hampton's gain, while the thought of you and Mrs. Morrison's departure from among us fills us with sadness yet we take great pleasure in the knowledge that while you are leaving us, yet you will not be far away, and hope that we will often have the privilege and pleasure of meeting you as a tangible expression of our appreciation and best wishes for you and Mrs. Morrison's future success, we beg of you to accept this small token, and to take along with it all the best thoughts and wishes of your many friends.

Mr. J. A. Thomson thereupon presented Mr. Morrison with a well-filled purse. Mr. Morrison replying on behalf of himself and Mrs. Morrison, made a suitable reply, although taken very much by surprise. Mr. Somers then spoke

Mr. Everett Ives, Sydney, C. B., arrived in Tryon on Monday, where he will spend a few days with his father, Mr. Geo. Ives. Mr. Ives has the sympathy of his many Tryon friends in the loss of his mother, whose funeral he arrived too late to attend.

On Monday evening a well attended meeting of the Temperance Alliance was held in Tryon Hall. Mr. D. J. Thomson was in the chair and the meeting was a success, new committees being appointed and organization in general attended to.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Calbeck, of North Tryon, are glad to have their eldest son, Lea, home once again. Lea has graduated from Dalhousie in dental surgery, and is now Dr. Calbeck. We understand it is his intention to open an office at Crapaud in the near future.

Wednesday evening The Mission Band of the Tryon Baptist Church held a very successful social at the home of Mr. Howard Calbeck, North Tryon. Ice-cream and cake were the refreshments served, and all present went home feeling that they had enjoyed themselves.

Mr. Walter Bell, who recently returned home from California, has purchased the property of Mrs. Alexander Robblee at Tryon Corner. We are glad indeed that Mr. and Mrs. Bell have decided to remain on dear old "Spud Island," particularly in "Ideal Tryon." We understand Mr. Bell intends growing a considerable acreage of potatoes.

The concert and box social on Thursday evening at Crapaud, was a real success. The program was good and the bidding on baskets brisk. Mr. Geo. Wood was auctioneer. Needless to say, then that bidding was brisk. What? Poor SI had a hard time and we sincerely trust that at the next quilting party "Dr." Rogerson will not need to be there in a professional capacity. However, Art had one consolation—that his will is made. And now the shades of night are falling fast and I have earned a sweet repose. So, boys and girls, and Pa, and also Ma, Ta-ta! A fond good night.

Tuesday evening, May 17th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Morrison, Tryon, was filled to overflowing with friends and neighbors who had gathered in to spend a social hour and express their appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, and also of Mr. Alexander Morrison, ere they departed for the neighboring community of Hampton, where Mr. Morrison will engage in the general merchandise business. After spending some time pleasantly in conversation, Rev. George Somers called upon Mr. D. J. Thomson, who read the following address on behalf of the Tryon United Church and other friends in Tryon.

Dear Mr. Morrison,—Having learned of your intention of removing from Tryon, to make your home in another part of the province; we, a few of your friends have gathered here tonight, in order that we might formally tender you with an expression of our appreciation of you as a man, and also as a leader in the church and social work of this community. You were ever ready to help in every work that was for the welfare of this place.

voicing his regard and appreciation of Mr. Morrison and also of his esteemed better half, whose ready assistance had so often enabled Mr. Morrison to train the children of the Sabbath School and in many other ways assist in the work of the Master here in Tryon. The ladies then took charge, and soon the trays laden with good things were being freely passed about and the whole assemblage certainly did justice to the cake, coffee, etc., and as it was getting late they dispersed for home after singing with Mr. and Mrs. Morrison that old familiar hymn, "God be With You Till We Meet Again."

PRESBYTERIAN GIFTS.

Presbyterians are evidently liberal givers when necessity creates the opportunity. The donations toward new churches and manse all over the country are on a generous scale. For example, individual members have given the sites for new churches in Regina, Mahone Bay, N. S. Cape North N. S., Fredericton, N. B., Tatamagouche, N. S., and other places. In many other centres most of the actual work of construction has been done by volunteer labor, as in Paisley, Agincourt, and Cape North. Still other gifts include church furniture, communion sets, pulpit Bibles, bells, automobiles for the minister, marse turnshings, etc.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

"If I—If I went back to Dad, reinstated myself, would you marry me?" he asked in a guarded, unemotional voice.

"Oh, Clay!" Her hands went to his shoulders, her fingers dug into the rough cloth of his cheap overcoat. "If you would! You could save me, darling! And save your father, too, from the consequences of his folly. He's headed for disaster, Clay. He needs his son. Will you—will you come home, Clay?" Her hands tugged frantically at his unyielding shoulders.

"Drop your hands, Billy," he commanded her in a low, violent voice that she could not have recognized as belonging to Clay Curtis. "Quit begging me or I'll hate you—or I hope you don't! Do you realize what you've been saying—that you'd marry me for my money, while you're sick with love for another man? Get away from me, before I say something or do something that I'll be ashamed of. The street cars two blocks over."

"Clay!" It was a cry of utter shame.

"I'd leave your mother's house, so that I wouldn't run any danger of seeing you when you come for one of your rare visits"—his voice was sharp with sarcasm—"but she needs my board money, I guess. Just be kind enough to let her know when you're coming, so I can clear out, Goodby."

He strode away swiftly, leaving her collapsed against the trunk of the oak tree. She never knew how long she crouched there. She was dimly aware that men and girls, hurrying home to supper in the mean little houses along the street, stared at her in wonder.

After a long while she set her limbs in motion. It was horrible to have to go on living, when she had lost Clay, who had been like a rock foundation to her house of life, and when she had never really had Dal. Dal and Annette—Dal and Winnie—Dal and Billy—oh, God! Then she felt that old need for him, for Dal, pulling at her. It seemed to her she could actually hear his voice calling her. She wanted to shout—"I'm coming, Dal! Coming!" She began to run. She did not realize that she was miles from the Curtis mansion until a taxicab pulled up at the curb and a voice urged her, "Taxi, lady!"

When she reached home at last, in a dazed, dished-out condition, a maid handed her a letter. "Mr. Romaine waited and waited for you, Miss Billy, 'nen he left this for you."

(To Be Continued.)
Dal Romaine is called away on business. And, oddly, Winnie goes away at the same time for a week-end visit.

Large Pimples Lasted A Year Cuticura Heals

For a while the itching and burning were so severe that I could not help scratching, and my face was disfigured. I lost my sleep for about a month on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted one year.

"I used other remedies but they failed to help me. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using it I purchased one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment and in a month and a half I was healed." (Signed) Miss Emily Doll, Riverton, Man.

CANADIAN TRADE AFFECTED.

OTTAWA, May 23.—The Chinese war is having a vital effect on Canadian trade, it was learned at the department of trade and commerce today. While general trade, and shipping are in a state of suspended animation there is a strong demand from Canadian sources of supply for foodstuffs and supplies or the large numbers of troops now in the Orient. The general situation at Shanghai is considered safe with a fair amount of business being transacted to cover local and coast-wise requirements.
