Comparisons Are Odious

When a man's local contemporary, does he stand on the question of Empire? Or does he stand on the question of his own pocket?

The Minister stands on the question of Empire. He stands on the question of his own pocket. He is not a man of Empire. He is a man of his pocket.

A Bad Beginning

The first of the Defence Department's statement (taken from holding hat Col. Drew mixed Canadian with British costs, which is not important) is that the Canadian Government entered into this contract in conjunction with the British Government, and that, consequently, it must be good.

That is no answer. The Government of Great Britain can't be held responsible for a contract made here in Canada by the Canadian Government. If the British Government made a bad contract, the British House of Commons will deal with it.

The Agricultural Department of Bermuda is viewing the possibility of the infestation of Bermuda by Japanese beetles seriously, and has decided to send a plant pathologist, Mr. J. W. Waterton, to Washington and New York to confer with Federal and State officials.

Mr. Thomas A. Thompson, M. P. for Lunenburg, Ontario, who is to accompany Hon. Dr. Manion here, is a successful farmer who has been in public service since he was 21 years of age.

According to the Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Star, since Finance Minister Dunning has been laid up Premier King has been paying particular attention to the trade negotiations at Washington.

Until the agreements are signed, their contents will not be known or officially intimated. Meanwhile in the British market certain credence attaches and as well to reports about raw fruit and lumber.

Ottawa also hears of quotas being removed on cattle and some other things and more favorable entry for lumber, potatoes and dairy products.

The operative date of the anticipated agreements and whether or not it will be before Parliamentary sanction is not known.

The situation in regard to British trade is similar but not so acute in its effects. Exports fell from 128 to 98 millions and imports from 52 to 40 millions.

The tariff changes will all be downward, a condition calculated to please the refractory followers of the Government in a part of the country to which Mr. King is delaying his visit till the Washington business is wound up.

But also from the American angle the President must consider the proposals of political prospect if they are to be promulgated in a crucial stage of this Fall's assuredly intense congressional elections.

Canada Cuts Fire Losses

An encouraging story of achievement, involving a saving to the Canadian people of more than $600,000,000, is told in the annual report of J. Grove Smith, Dominion Fire Commissioner.

That there was adequate room for improvement in Canada is indicated by the fact that in 1922 our loss was $4,390,000, or $6.25 per capita, as compared with a loss of $7,204,000, or 87 cents per capita, in Great Britain.

Lethbridge is on the way to join Nebraska and California in the lead of the world in the fire insurance business.

A girl was telling us the other day about sending her tea set home from college by railway express, and discovering when she opened the package that the cup had been broken.

Since Saturday the weather has suited the farmers admirably, and everything now points to one of the most bountiful harvests in every respect for many years.

The official end of the Great War this date, 1921.

Posterity will say of the present Mayor and City Council and its air-drome scheme, as we now say of the Fathers of Confederation "they builded better than they knew."

These harvester excursions of the old days, with the mass movement of population and the mixing of the races, were a good thing for the country.

NOTES BY THE WAY

It has been found that appeals even of page size, in the numerous American periodicals which have a large overflow circulation into Canada, are combined directly with a campaign in the home newspapers.

In St. Catharines buses have shown their worth but sufficient street cars remain to prove a thorn in the flesh.

The Armament Mystery

(Financial Post, Toronto)

"Canadians have a right to know... what lies behind the Bren machine gun contract, Col. George Drew declares in an article in the Sept. 1 issue of Maclean's Magazine under the title: 'Canada's Armament Mystery'.

The contract was signed on March 31 by the Canadian Government with the John Inglis Co. Ltd. of Toronto, of which Major James E. Hahn is president.

Contracts in exactly similar terms provide for the manufacture of 7,000 Bren machine guns for Canada and 3,000 guns for Great Britain.

The company holding the contract is to be equipped for the production of Enfield rifles and other small arms.

Col. Drew points out that the contract provides for payment of all expenses of the company, including a sum not exceeding $20,000 for preliminary investigation, planning and engineering services carried out prior to the execution of the contract.

are at present selling this stock to the public at $7 a share. (Last week The Financial Post reported this stock selling at $7.50 a share.)

Even if $47,000 in five years is as small a profit as Mr. Mackenzie thinks it is, that is only profit. The greatest opportunity for profit lies in the stock of the company.

The property of the bankrupt boiler company was acquired from the receiver Col. Drew points out, by Stanley Nurse, office manager of the Toronto stock brokerage firm of Cameron, Pointon & Merritt.

Major James E. Hahn is shown by the company's prospectus as holding 107,964 shares which appear to be part of the block issued to Investment Reserves Ltd. so that the stock position on April 26, 1938, would be:

Shares 107,964
Investment Reserve Ltd. 88,698
Anglo Engineering Co. Ltd. 33,333
Cameron, Pointon & Merritt 25,000

Col. Drew cites a departmental declaration of June 27, 1938, giving the details of Anglo Engineering, holder of a large block of John Inglis shares as the office of Cameron, Pointon and Merritt.

SINUS INFECTION MAY CAUSE RHEUMATISM-ARTHRITIS

The evidence that infected teeth or tonsils cause some cases of rheumatism or arthritis is not now disputed because nearly every one of the homes of relatives, has observed one or more of such cases.

For some time research workers have suspected the sinuses as also being a cause of arthritis. These are situated in the bones about the nose and form the sounding box for the voice.

Dr. Lee M. Hurd, New York Polyclinic and Medical School, in Medical Clinics of North America, says that he believes that acute or chronic sinus infection aggravates or is the cause of many cases of chronic arthritis, because he has observed many cases of arthritis in his own practice that were benefited by the removal of sinus infection.

The point then is that in searching for the cause of rheumatism or arthritis more than the mouth should be examined, and gums—should be examined.

The majority of these patients had no symptoms of sinus disease and were not aware that they had it. About one-third had a discharge or pus-like dropping from nose and back of throat. Sinus headaches were rare.
