

Bond Prices Advancing

In view of the scarcity of Bonds and consequent strengthening of prices, this is a favourable time to sell short-term Bonds—government, municipal and corporation—at a profit, and re-invest in longer term securities of the same character, while they are obtainable at prices which give a satisfactory yield.

If you will send us a list of your short-term Bonds, we will advise "trades" advantageous to you.

HERE'S A MERCHANT WHO KNEW HOW

(Contributed by A. J. Manson, St. John Manager of National Cash Register Co.)

There was an old geezer
And he had a lot of sense.
He started up a business
On a dollar eighty cents.
The dollar for stock,
And the eighty for an ad.
Brought him three lovely dollars
In a day, by dad!
Well, he bought more goods
And a little more space,
And he played that system
With a smile on his face.
The customers flocked
To his two-by-four
For a regular store.
Up on the square
Where the people pass,
He grabbed up a corner
That was all plate glass.
He fixed up the windows
With the best that he had,
And told them all about it
In a half-page ad.
He soon had 'em coming
And he never, never quit,
And he wouldn't cut down
On his side one bit,
And he's kept things humping
In the town ever since,
And everybody calls him
The Merchant Prince.
Some say it's luck,
But that's all bunk—
Why, he was doing business
When times were punk
People have to purchase,
And the geezer was wise—
For he knew the way to get 'em
Was to advertise.

Tut's Coffin Brought Forth After 3,200 Years

LUXOR, Feb. 6.—For the first time in 3,200 years, the great stone coffin of Tutankhamen stood forth today in all its majesty, shorn of its protective nest of golden shrines.

The fourth casket proved, in Howard Carter's experienced hands a less formidable problem than was first surmised, and a few hours' work yesterday sufficed to disengage the sarcophagus. Then it was seen that the enthusiasm evoked by the glimpse obtained four weeks ago of one end of the sarcophagus through the open doors of the enclosing shrines, was justified.

As massive in construction as it is chastely simple in design, and as untouched by the tooth of time as it is inviolate from the hands of tomb robbers, this grandiose stone chest, gleaming pink beneath the glare of the electric lamps, must be acclaimed a unique specimen of the funeral art of the eighteenth dynasty.

The four crowned goddesses of death who in traditional posture stand at the four corners of the coffin with wings outspread to shield the dead monarch from the forces of evil, are boldly and deeply incised—full breasted, with slender arms and powerfully hinged, each with one hand grasping the "ankh" or key of life, which figures in the dead pharaoh's name. The lid is massively solid and inscribed in bands with lines of hieroglyphics.

Trade With Australia

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—When negotiations for a trade treaty between Canada and Australia are under way during the present week the disadvantageous position of Canadian apples in the commonwealth will probably play an important part. A few years ago Australia imposed an embargo on the importation of apples from any country with fire-blight. As there was some fire-blight in Canada, no Canadian raw apples have since been able to enter Australia.

The point taken on behalf of the Canadian government is that Australia admit Canadian apples when coming from a district known not to be suffering from fire-blight. Some form of official certification in this respect has been suggested. Premier Oliver of British Columbia has recently been pressing the products of British Columbia as entitled to a better showing on the Australian market. He has cited fresh fruit, boxes, sash and doors.
