—AUCTION FORTY - FIVE PARTY—The concluding party of the Seven Mile Bay, auction forty-five tournament, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Green under the auspices of Mr. and Mrs. Grattan Noonan, was featured by the largest attendance yet this year. This was the final party before Lent which have been held in different homes throughout the parish since the fall and all have had a satisfactory attendance. The prize winners are as follows: Ladies first, Mable Noonan; Ladies consolation, Alice McDonald; Men's first, Murdock Dawson; Men's consolation; L. F. McKenna; Freeze out, Frank McKay; Freeze out consolation, Roy Cameron. The lucky score card number was won by Layton Green. Rev. W. E. Monaghan thanked all who had attended so well and made the card parties a success. After cards, dancing and an old time sing-song by Roland Phillipson, Murdock Dawson, Frank McKay, Patrick Tirney and others with Arthur McKay playing the accompaniment on the piano, was much enjoyed by all. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess. This brought one of the best evenings of the season to a close.

—BEDEQUE Y.P.S.—A most enjoyable evening was spent in Bedeque Rink on Wednesday evening, February 20th, when the losers of the attendance contest led by Horace Wright gave a social evening to the winners led by Robert Carruthers. There were about seventy members present, and as the North Bedeque Young People's Society were invited also this brought the number of those who attended to ninety. Some of the amusements of the evening were relay races, moonlight skate and a hockey match. This hockey match especially caused much merriment as the boys were dressed like girls and vice versa. The feathers, stovepipe hats, poke bonnets and mock moustaches were wonderful to behold. The lineup was as follows: Girls, Goal, Arthur MacFarlane. Defence—Chesley Craig, Wilbert Wright. Forwards, Douglas MacFarlane, Arnold Henderson, Robert Carruthers. Men, Goal, Verna Schurman. Defence, Mrs. Ralph Calbeck, Sue Affleck. Forwards, Blanche Johnson, Mary Currie, Winnifred Wright. The match ended 2-1 in favor of the Girls. The capable referee Ralph Calbeck handed out the only penalty of the evening to Wilbert Wright, who tripped over his skirt and fell down taking one of the "men" with him. After getting partners everyone enjoyed the bounteous repast served by the ladies and went home voting the evening to be a splendid success. This is only one of the many enjoyable evenings spent by this Young People's Society this winter. Some of the other activities are: A debate every month in which each member takes his part; a newspaper "Rainbow Echoes" of which the editor-in-chief is Aiden Leard; splendid study group talks by Mr. W. Jenkins, and rehearsal of one-act plays in preparation for a concert to be put on later. So I think this group at Bedeque deserves the name of being one of the most active young people's organizations in this Province.—Cor.

Canadian-owned Horse In Grand National

(C. P. Cable)

(By Guardian's Special Wire)

LONDON, March 7. — The first Canadian challenge in the 99 years' history of the Grand National, greatest of steeplechases, will be made on March 29 by Gordon Foxbar Perry, prominent Toronto industrial leader.

Mr. Perry has purchased the 11-year-old Trocadero from Vicomte Max de Rivaud, well-known French turfman, and has engaged the veteran Tee Cullinan to ride the horse in the next renewal of the gruelling 4½ mile event at Aintree.

Trocadero, a steady goer, was seventh in the Grand National two years ago.

Liberal Leader's Bluff

Had the Lea Government funded its overdraft before going out of office, the Premier continued, the Province would not have been forced to go on the bond market at an unfavorable time. "Why," he asked, "did they leave that overdraft there? Because they did not want to draw it to the attention of the people on the eve of an election. It would have hurt them politically. That, in my opinion and in the opinion of those who know the situation, was their reason. They could at that time have issued debentures at a rate very much less than they were paying for overdraft at the bank."

Answers "Inheritance" Claim

Answering the claim that the Liberals had "inherited" part of their $1,041,340 overdraft from the preceding Conservative administration, the Premier showed the fallacy of this statement from the pages of the Public Accounts. In 1919, the Conservatives, in bank overdraft and short loans, had left $521,361.36. The Liberals in 1923 left $680,355.64. The Conservatives, quitting office again in 1927, left these items reduced to $609,916.75. Then came the Saunders-Lea administration, which in 1931 went out of office leaving behind them $1,425,845.25 in bank overdraft and short loans. Totalling these amounts, it was shown that since 1919 the Liberals had increased by practically a million dollars the debt under these headings.

Mr. T. A. Campbell: "The short term loans would make no difference."

Premier MacMillan: "We are taking the two items because they represent unfunded debt, and they have to be paid."

No Reflection Intended

On resuming the debate on the Draft Address yesterday morning, the Premier said it had never been his intention to make derogatory remarks about the Opposition leader, or about his occupation as a farmer. He himself had been brought up on a farm, and subsequently, in the medical profession, had often faced problems compared with which work in the barnyard seemed much easier. Mr. Lea had on the previous day taken him to task for correcting the Opposition leader in an error he had made in quoting the Public Accounts last season. The misstatement had been made so often, with the purpose of injuring the Government, that it was necessary to correct it, he explained.

Mr. Lea objected that the Premier was imputing a motive, which was unparliamentary. The same point, he contended, had been raised by the leader of the Government on Wednesday.

Mr. Speaker pointed out that there was a difference in imputing a motive to an individual and to a government or party. Mr. Lea and Mr. T. A. Campbell both dissented from the Speaker's ruling.

Architect's Fees

"Since my hon. friend takes exception to my statement," said the Premier, "I will now read a statement he is reported to have made at a Liberal convention in Summerside. "Mr. Lea pointed out that before counting the cost of the proposed new Falconwood building they had employed an architect and paid him $35,000 to draw the plans, and this for a building that cost about $100,000." I am drawing the attention of the Opposition leader to that statement and I will ask if he has been correctly reported?"

Mr. Lea: "I just didn't catch all of it; Mr. McIntyre was speaking to me."

Premier MacMillan: "You might advise Mr. McIntyre to hold his tongue when someone else has the floor (Laughter). I will read it again: (He re-read the statement). I ask my hon. friend if he made that statement."

Mr. Lea: "I made the statement. I don't know if it was in the exact words, but the rebuilding of Falconwood did cost $35,000 in architects fees according to the Auditor's report."

Premier MacMillan: "My hon. friend understands English. I am referring to his statement that the architect was paid $35,000 to draw plans for a building that cost about $100,000, and I am asking him if he made it."

Mr. Lea: "Where is that report made?"

Premier MacMillan: "It is from the daily Patriot, giving a report of the Liberal convention held in Summerside in July of last year."

Mr. Lea: "Well, that is what it cost; that is all you have for it."

Premier MacMillan: "My hon. friend understands that I am asking him a question."

Mr. Lea: "And I am saying yes."

Refuses To Withdraw

Premier MacMillan: "Now I will ask my hon. friend if he will withdraw that statement, because it is incorrect."

Mr. Lea: "No, I certainly will not; because it is correct."

Premier MacMillan: "Very well. I have followed the course my hon. friend suggested I should have taken in pointing out his inaccuracy in quoting from the Public Accounts last year. I have drawn his attention to his misstatement; I have given him a chance to correct it, and he says No! I have only to say that the statement he made, that $35,000 was paid by this Government to draw plans for a building that cost $100,000 is false and misleading."

Mr. T. A. Campbell: "That is not the statement."

Mr. Lea: "That is not correctly reported."

(Again the Premier read the statement, Mr. Lea this time maintaining it was correct.)

Premier MacMillan: "Then I have no alternative but to say that the statement is false, and that the records of this Province will not show that $35,000 was paid to any architect to draw plans for a building which cost $100,000."

Mr. Lea complained that the Premier's language was "unparliamentary" and should be withdrawn.

The Premier maintained he had no other course, since the Opposition leader insisted on repeating the misstatement.

Mr. Lea: "Very well; I say his statement is false too."

The True Facts

Premier MacMillan: "The financial statements will show that there was no $35,000 paid to Mr. Fowler for drawing plans for a $100,000 building. It has been explained here time and again, that a set of plans were drawn for a mental hospital unit at Falconwood comprising five or six buildings. My hon. friend knows that. He need not plead lack of information."

The Premier charged that time and again an effort had been made to misrepresent the purpose of the Falconwood Hospital plans. It was true that it was not yet possible to build on the scale originally planned, but the same was true of the situation which confronted the trustees of the Prince Edward Island hospital. "Do we hear," he asked, "anything about the money they had to pay because they had to revise their plans three different times? No! But because the Government had the same difficulty in trying to solve the problem of a mental hospital for this Province, it has to be slandered by false statements—to which the leader of the Opposition says 'Sure!'"

Mr. LePage's Excuse

Dealing with Liberal misstatements, the Premier referred to a Patriot report of a Liberal meeting at Kingston last summer, in which Mr. B. W. LePage was quoted as saying that $200,000 might have been saved at Prince of Wales College if the old foundation had been preserved.

Mr. LePage: "I said that had the foundation been used and built on we could have had a building built that would have suited the purposes of this Province, for $200,000 less than the present building cost, because the present building cost about $400,000."

Mr. Speaker: "So you were incorrectly reported?"

Mr. LePage: "I was incorrectly reported if it says that."

Mr. T. A. Campbell: "Incompletely reported."

(Continuing, the Premier quoted another statement to the same effect, which Mr. LePage acknowledged to be "correct." He then dealt with the slanderous misstatement uttered in presence of Mr. Lea at a Liberal meeting, to the effect that the Government had "burned the Asylum." The Premier's remarks on the Opposition leader's reply on that occasion are reported elsewhere in today's Guardian.)

Mr. Lea And The Patriot

As an amusing example of Liberal misstatements, the Premier next referred to a report of a political meeting at York in the Patriot newspaper of Nov. 25, 1934, in which Mr. Lea was quoted as saying: "The difference between the two Governments was that the Liberal Government had balanced their budgets."

Mr. Lea: "That was the difference."

Premier MacMillan: What do you think of that?"

Mr. Lea: "On ordinary account, of course."

Premier MacMillan: "It says nothing about ordinary account. It reports you as saying that the Liberal Government "had balanced their budget. If they made expenditures they always had property to show for it." Is that statement correct?"

Mr. Lea: "On ordinary account. You should give it in full."

Premier MacMillan :"I am giving it in full."

Mr. Lea: "Then it is not correct."

Premier MacMillan: "Of course it is not. I am just drawing your attention to the statement, which purported to be your remarks and which appeared in your party newspaper. During the four years of Liberal rule, I wonder how many "balanced budgets" my hon. friend had!"

Mr. Lea: "On ordinary account we had three. (Laughter). Will my hon. friend let me explain. He knows very well that the reports of the meetings do not say one-tenth of what we say." (Loud laughter).

A Member: "That makes it worse!"

Premier MacMillan: "It is a good job they don't say all that was said at those meetings, if those were the tid-bits and the gems of oratory that took place! (Laughter) Isn't it a tribute to the intelligence of the men who made those statements, that not one of them will stand the light of day." (Applause).

Liberal Promises

The Premier then took up the Liberal election platform of 1927, and showed how the promises of the Lea-Saunders administration had been ignored during their term of office. The first pledge was to press the Province's claim for increased subsidy at Ottawa, and "on obtaining increased subsidy a downward revision of taxation."

Mr. LePage: "We did just as we said; we pressed our claims!"

Voice: "And you got a goose-egg!"

Mr. LePage: "Well, they were very small goslings came out of the goose-egg this time."

Old age pensions, and pensions to school teachers, were among the other unimplemented promises of the Liberal party, the Premier continued.

He then quoted a statement made by Mr. Lea, who in referring to the Premier said the latter, being a medical man, could "bury his mistakes"; that he was a capital minister of Education and Health but a failure as a business man.

Mr. Lea: "That referred to all the profession."

Premier MacMillan: "The medical profession is able to bury their mistakes?"

Mr. Lea: "They are fortunate in that."

Premier MacMillan: "Yes; because my hon. friend will never be able to bury his mistakes, and if they were buried, they would rise like Banquo's ghost and walk, and they would confront him now!" (Laughter).

Was it, the Premier challenged, "poor business" on his part in obtaining $15,000 from the Federal Government towards the labour cost of Falconwood Hospital? Was it a sign that he was "a failure" as a business man to get the car ferry rates reduced and the car ferry accounting system changed?

School Supply Department

The Government, he continued, had been criticised for not still further reducing the cost of school books. He reminded the Opposition leader, however, that when the Government took charge they found a deficit of $36,000 in the School Supply Department. They put a business manager in charge who was able to save $10,000, but when he began to collect old bills he found no vouchers or record, and hundreds of dollars remain uncollected because the bills cannot be proved. Last year, another $1,000 was saved in this department, but the neglect under Liberal management caused a heavy deficit which has not yet been overtaken. In addition, the Government has many demands to meet and it cannot reasonably be expected to undertake the distribution of free school books. Some reductions have been made; the books are now being given as cheaply as possible without dipping in the treasury. "Would my hon. friends," he asked, "advise us to do that?"

There was no audible reply

Opening Remarks

It was on Thursday afternoon, following Mr. Lea in the debate, that the Premier began his address. He first congratulated the mover and seconder (Messrs. D. F. Bethune and J. H. MacDonald) on their very able efforts. He also complimented the Opposition leader on "endeavoring to make the most he could of the unenviable position he now occupies."

The Throne Speech had been objected to on account of its length. "However," said the Premier, "we are not ashamed of it. I don't think there are many things in it that could well be deleted. Certainly there are things in it that are very important as indications of policy. There are others that might have been added, which would have made it longer. I don't think it is unduly long, but it is probably too long for my hon. friends on the other side of the House. There are too many records of good service in it so far as the performance of this Government is concerned—things that make for the general welfare of the people of this Province. Not much wonder the leader of the Opposition skipped over a clause here and there with 'Oh, it's too long to read.' Yes! and because it contained something worth while; but it did not give him a chance of using his powers of faultfinding." (Applause).

Reference was made by the Premier to the forthcoming celebration of the Jubilee of His Majesty King George V., who not only has the love and loyalty of his subjects throughout the Empire, but enjoys the esteem of peoples throughout the world. "We in this Province," added the speaker, "will endeavor to celebrate fittingly the anniversary on May 6th."

Mention was made of the celebration last summer of the 400th anniversary of the landing of Jacques Cartier at Prince Edward Island. Regrettably, there had been a delay of four hours in the arrival of the steamer conveying the distinguished delegation from France, but this was no fault of the people of this Province. The fact that the steamer could not enter Charlottetown Harbour was another illustration of the difficulties we are labouring under. It was unfortunate that the visitors could not have spent a longer time in Charlottetown in view of the preparations made by His Honour the Lieutenant Governor to entertain them. However, there was satisfaction in feeling that everything possible was done. He had been informed by a gentleman who had seen the celebrations at Gaspe and other centres that the Charlottetown celebration was undoubtedly the most successful.

ANTIGONISH, N. S., March 8—Mount Allison University won the Maritime Intercollegiate hockey championship by defeating St. Francis Xavier University 3-2 in a sudden death match for the title here tonight.

Bill McDonald's goal from the face-off when two Xaverians were serving penalties gave the New Brunswick collegians the victory half a minute before the final whistle.

She: "Will you vote to abolish capital punishment?"

He: "No Capital punishment was good enough for my father and it's good enough for me."

Plane Skims Over Head Of President

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

WASHINGTON, March 8—A transport plane caught by a low ceiling skimmed just over the tree tops above President Roosevelt today as he stood by the grave at the burial of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

A sleet storm, accompanied by low hanging clouds, forced the plane to an almost dangerous distance above the President as it sought a landing field near Arlington Cemetery.
