THE ORIGINS OF THE PRESENT WAR

many may be regarded, as far as foreign affairs at least are concerned, as a State-aided and State-controlled institution. There are very few newspapers that do not obey the direct or indirect inspiration of the Press Department of the Wilhelmstras-se, which has been since the days of Bismarck, one of the most important departments in the German Foreign office, directed and manned by Government servants selected for the work. As one of its members once boasted to me, 'It is as scientifically equipped and as highly organized a machine as the German army itself. He added significantly that it had over the army the advantage of being able to operate in time of peace as well as in time of war, and in foreign countries as well as at home.

That under such conditions the German press became quite incapable of discharging its proper functions as a wholesome educator of public opinion or as a restraining influence upon the ruling classes, I need hardly stop to point out. But it was none the less an effective instrument in the hands of those who controlled it; and in all its manifold activities could always be traced the purpose which the great oracle of the Pan-Germanic school of historians, Treitschke, set before the eyes of the German nation—to fulfil her destinies, Germany must square up her accounts first with France and Russia, and then must come the last and greatest squaring of accounts —with England. The methods varied with the circumstances, sometimes violent and openly menacing, sometimes naively obsequious and bland. The German Press Bureau might have borrowed for its motto the words which Frederick the Great once wrote to Voltaire; 'The world is governed only by skill and trickery.' It certainly never displayed greater resourcefulness than in its advocacy of every measure for the increase of Germany's naval power, and in the contemptuous derision which it poured upon every suggestion made by British Ministers for a simultaneous reduction of the burden of naval armaments. German sailors, it is said, made it a custom to drink 'An den Tag' when it would go forth to the British fleet in battle; but a far more definite illustration of the steadfastness with which Germany kept a naval war with England in view of the attitude of her representatives at the Hague Conference in 1907, when their acceptance or rejection of every measure concerning naval warfare was governed solely by the bearing of such questions upon the conduct of naval hostilities against this country. Nor could any other interpretation be placed upon the readiness of the German people to assume upon their shoulders, already heavily burdened by the maintenance of the most powerful army the world has ever seen, the additional burdens required in order to convert their country into a formidable naval power. Courtesies continued to be from time to time exchanged between the Sovereigns. On the political chess-board, the Governments moved now and again further apart or closer together, according to the temporary exigencies of the game. Even 'pilgrimages of love were from time to time orrganized between the two countries by small groups of amiable busybodies or worse and it may be suspected, sometimes with very different arriere-pensees on either side. But all these were in Germany mere surface currents, and beneath them, the tide was flowing strongly towards the issue which was to dethrone the British Empire as a World Power in favor of Imperial Germany.

LITTLE BOY WEAK AND SICKLY

Mother Tells How Her Little Son Was Made a Strong, Healthy Boy by Vinol After a Severe Sickness.

New York City.—"About five years ago my little boy, then seven years old, was very ill with gastritis, then he contracted measles from the other children, pneumonia soon followed, and there seemed no hope of saving his life. However, we fought off the disease and he recovered, but was in a very weak and delicate condition.

"The doctor prescribed cod liver oil, but his little stomach swelled up like a drum, and the doctor said there was no cure for him. I decided to try Vinol, as I had used it myself with splendid results, and it seemed to agree with him. That bloated condition soon disappeared, and now he is a strong, healthy boy, thanks to Vinol."—Mrs. THOMAS FITZGERALD, 1090 Park Ave., New York City.

In all cases where the healing, curative, tissue building influence of cod liver oil, or the strength-creating, blood-making properties of tonic iron are needed, Vinol gives immediate benefit, for it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach, because it contains no oil or grease, and tastes delicious.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE SHORT COURSES

Since January 4th one hunderd ladies have been admitted to the classes in Home Economics, which have been conducted by the Women's Institute Division of the Department of Agriculture for this province. These classes have been held in the Prince of Wales College and have included in their work the following subjects: —Cooking, Household Administration, Table Setting and Serving, Laundry, Personal Hygiene, Sanitation, Millinery, Home Nursing, Planning of Kitchen Gardens, Planning of School Gardens, Landscape Gardening, Dietetics, Tuberculosis, Arrangement of an Efficient Kitchen, Farm Home Conveniences and Household Furnishings.

The above subjects include those with which a woman as a homemaker should be familiar. Economy in the management of household affairs is the keynote of the whole course. The student learns how to save materials, time and labour. By means of lectures she is taught why certain things and certain methods are better than others. Then, by actually doing the work she applies the knowledge gained in the lecture room to practical cookery, sewing, millinery, home nursing, laundry, table setting, etc. It is a practical course, which trains the hand as well as the intellect. It offers the kind of knowledge which a woman can apply in her everyday housework and her everyday relations to the farm.

In the lectures on Hygiene and Sanitation the subject is dealt with in regard to the effect of the air we breathe, the water we drink and the house in which we live, upon our physical health. This course aims to bring out the close relation which exists between disease and such simple factors in our everyday life as fresh air, proper care of the body, furnishing of the home so it does not harbour dust, etc. This is an age of preventive medicine. Let us learn how to keep well. The course in millinery aims to teach the women how to make, trim and retrim their own hats. It includes the designing and drafting of patterns for hats; construction of frames of buckram and wire; covering and refinishing with velvets, nets and making and placing of trimming, as well as the instruction in ribbon and silk flower-making. All of these are applied in the making of hats from original designs. The laundry work includes the application of science to practical laundrying, such as may be worked out by the study of blueing, starches and soaps, with the effects of each upon the different fabrics. A comparative study of the different brands of the above-mentioned necessities is made and their comparative or relative values for the diffkerent purposes estimated. Laundry equipment is investigated with the idea of providing that which will enable the work to be done with the least expenditure of labour and money. The practical work in the home nursing course includes the making of beds, bandaging and poultice-making. In considering the first care of the patient, the topics discussed are: choice and preparation of the sickroom, care of the patient, bathing of patient, making of patient's bed and the importance of carrying out the doctor's orders implicitly. Next as so many diseases are transmissible, the prevention of further contagion is considered, isolation of patient, disinfection of anything removed from the room, and care of room after recovery of patient. In Dr Garrison's lecture on tuberculosis special attention is given to the care of the patient during that disease, in which the nursing is such an important factor.

An excellent course in Dietetics and Invalid Cookery is also given, as well as a practical course of several lessons in plain cooking. The subject of home furnishing deals with comfort, simplicity and beauty and the essentials of a well furnished home. It is not a question of money, but of knowledge, and an understanding of line, proportion and colour, the laws that govern all ornamentation. In the arrangement of the Efficient Kitchen the lecturer brings out the importance of having the furnishings and utensils arranged so as to save time and steps. Plans are drawn and discussed. Prof. Ross in his subject on farm home conveniences deals particularly with the labour-saving devices which make labour actually lighter and the home in the country as comfortable as it might be in the city. Important also have been the lectures on vegetable gardens and beautifying the lawns around the home.

Sprains, Bruises Stiff Muscles

Sloan's Liniment will save hours of suffering. For bruise or sprain it gives instant relief. It arrests inflammation and thus prevents more serious troubles developing. No need to rub it in—it acts at once, instantly relieving the pain, however severe it may be.

Here's Proof

Charles Johnson, P. O. Box 105, Lawton's Station, N. Y., writes: "I sprained my ankle and dislocated my left hip by falling out of a third story window six months ago. I went on crutches for four months, then I started to use some of your Liniment, according to your directions, and I must say that it is helping me wonderfully. I threw my crutches away. Only used two bottles of your Liniment and now I am walking quite well with one cane. I never will be without Sloan's Liniment."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT Kills Pain

The Supreme Test of a Healing Agent

Psoriasis or Chronic Eczema Defied All Treatment Until Dr. Chase's Ointment Was Used.

After suffering with the terrible itching of Psoriasis for five years, and being told by physicians that she could not be cured, Mrs. Massey turned to Dr. Chase's Ointment and was entirely cured.

You will find this letter interesting, and will not wonder that the writer is enthusiastic in praising this ointment.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Consecon, Ont., writes:—"For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough."

MRS. MASSEY.

Can you imagine a more severe test for Dr. Chase's Ointment? This should convince you that as a cure for eczema and all forms of itching skin disease Dr. Chase's Ointment stands supreme. Put it to the test. 60c a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
