Warns Against Too Much Centralization

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Hon. T. A. Crerar, Federal Minister of Mines and Natural Resources, said in an address here today there was a tendency towards centralization of economic power in Canada and he warned that "people should think clearly, honestly and fearlessly as to the significance of new trends."

"There were those who claimed that all industry and all financial institutions should be owned and operated by the government," said Mr. Crerar. "It is a free country, of course, and people have a right to propound these views, but all history teaches that centralization of economic power is but forerunner of centralization of political power"

Canadian Dressed Dolls Go To Kiddies In Great Britain

MONTREAL, Nov. 22—Dolls and other playthings are scarce in the British Isles so that a consignment of eighty dolls, each attired in bonnet, knitted coat, appropriate dress and tiny bootees, now on the high seas will be a big prize when it reaches the Royal Sailors' Rest at Portsmouth, England. This institution takes care of families of sailors lost at sea. These dolls were dressed by the Girls Service Group of the Canadian National Telegraphs and the big bundles they shipped to Portsmouth include plentiful supplies of toys and children's clothing. The Girls Service Group is an affiliate of the Canadian National Railways Employees' War Services Association and since 1940 they sent a score of big bales each one of which arrived safely.

Station Is Busy But Not That Busy

MONTREAL, Que., Nov.22 — Since the inauguration of the Canadian National Railway's Central Station the information staff has been busy responding to the travelling public and the thousands of daily sightseers. But one question staggered the information experts. It came from a woman who was visibly impressed by the activities of the station and its many conveniences. She asked, "Can you tell me the exact number of trains leaving and entering the station every minute?" That was a bit beyond the clerk who said "I know we are busy but not that busy." Actually, 108 trains operate daily in and out of the new station.

Churchill Tribute To Navy League

TORONTO, Nov. 22—(CP)—David H. Gibson, C.B.E., Dominion president of the Navy League of Canada, today received a cable from Prime Minister Winston Churchill in recognition of "Navy Week", sponsored by the League Nov. 21 to Nov. 27 inclusive.

Text of the cable:

On the occasion of Canada's Navy Week I am glad to send my good wishes to the Navy League of Canada for the continued success of your work. The great increase in the Royal Canadian Navy since the outbreak of war has been an added incentive to the Navy League in its valuable work. I congratulate you upon the skill and resource with which you have undertaken your new and extended task for the welfare of our seamen and thank you on behalf of men from the United Kingdom who enjoyed your hospitality.

Winston S. Churchill.

"Priorities On Parade" Is Gay Tune Film

—Gay new tunes, exciting dances, and a fast-stepping cast make Paramount's "Priorities on Parade," the merry movie musical that opened last night at the Capitol Theatre, one of the outstanding tune films of the current season.

With Ann Miller, Betty Rhodes, Jerry Colonna, Vera Vague and Johnnie Johnston heading the swell cast, "Priorities" is well worth the seeing. If it's relaxation you want, plus a half-dozen lilting tunes, plenty of girls and some real laughs that'll tickle you right down to your toes, then this is your picture. It's tops in entertainment—and there's a timely story idea, too. The film fairly sparkles.

Jitterbugs will go for "Priorities" in a big way because of the jive jargon and the hot licks of music. Last night's audience, however, was just about as good a cross-section of America as anyone could find and the verdict in favor of the film was unanimous. Several of the tunes, written by Frank Loesser, Jule Styne and Herb Magidson, are already nation-wide hits. The catchy "Conchita, Marchita, Lolita, Pepita, Rosita, Juanita Lopez" is being hummed from one end of the country to the other. Other hit numbers are "You're in Love With Someone Else" and "I'd Like to Know ou Better."

Fish Landings In Maritimes

HALIFAX, Nov. 22—(CP)—Fish landings in the Maritimes during October showed an increase of more than 8,000,000 pounds over the catch in October, 1942, figures issued today by the Eastern Fisheries Division showed. The 36,783,600 pounds landed last month were valued at $1,189,638 compared with 28,449, 700 pounds worth $803,248 taken by fishermen in the corresponding month last year.

Most valuable were cod and mackerel, followed by oysters, herring, sardine, haddock, lobsters and pollock. The cod catch exceeded 17,000,000 pounds and was valued at more than $550,000 an increase of $58,078 over the October, 1942, landings. Mackerel came next, a catch of 4,616,000 pounds netting fishermen nearly $250,000, or an increase of $130,000.

Nova Scotia fishermen hauled in 3,000,000 more pounds of all kinds of fish during the month, and were richer by $196,827. The new Brunswick catch was 4,468,800 pounds higher and was worth $145,600 more. Prince Edward Island, with fisheries on a smaller scale, produced 365,200 pounds more fish, worth $40,964 more than in October, 1942.

Cod led the list in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, but in the Island Province the principal crop was oysters.

Britain Gets Wooden Soles From Canada

LONDON, Nav. 22—(CP)—The government has stopped the manufacture in Britain of wooden soles for shoes and instead they are to be shipperd here from Canada to meet the entire demand.

Canadian soles have been coming to Britain in bulk for some time but the decision to stop manufacturing it is believed, will mean increased shipments from the Dominion.

Supreme Court At Summerside

Clovis Perry entered a plea of guilty on a charge of having mash on his premises when his case was called in the supreme court at Summerside yesterday. Sentence was deferred until the end of the court. The prosecution withdrew its charges of conspiracy which was also on the indictment.

The case of Andrew Perry was then called and the selection of a jury begun. The panel was exhausted when only three jurors had been selected and the sheriff was directed to bring in twenty more men. Court then adjourned till this morning. The charge against Andrew Perry is that he conspired to distill alcoholic liquor illegally. Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell is the presiding judge.

Emmett Ranahan, a witness in the case of John (Holman) Gallant for the prosecution was permitted by the court to make a statement to the effect that he had erred in his evidence when he said he had delivered molasses to Ed. Laughlin place. Ranahan said he had never delivered molasses to Ed Laughlin at any time and that the name he should have said was Walter Laughlin.

Harris.n McFarlane was challenged for the third time as a juror by the defense on the ground that he was not indifferent. The challenge was upheld.

It is understood that Harry Gallant and Frank Gallant, defendants on a recent conspiracy charge on which they were found not guilty by a petit jury, have received notice that the prosecution will appeal for a new trial before the Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island en banc on the grounds that the learned trial judge erred in his charge to the jury—S.

MacMillan, Duff Cooper Get New Posts In Med.

LONDON, Nov. 22—(CP) — Britain today named Harold MacMillan, an expert on Mediterranean affairs, as her representative on the advisory council for Italy—a testing ground for Allied post-war policy—and appointed Alfred Duff Cooper her representative with the French committee of national liberation.

In Washington, the state department announced that Robert D. Murphy would represent the United States on the advisory council for Italy, with Edwin C. Wilson becoming the United States representative to the French committee, both with the rank of Ambassador. Murphy had been representative to the French committee, and Wilson was formerly Ambassador to Panama prior to which he was embassy counsellor in Paris before the French armistice.

MacMillan's appointment was well received in London, where his work as Minister of State in North Africa and his assistance in the Lebanese difficulties earned him high praise. He will retain his post as resident minister at Allied headquarters in North Africa.

MacMillan's title will be United Kingdom Commissioner.

Harold Caccia was made new acting vice-president of the political section of the control commission for Italy. He was formerly Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's private Secretary, and is considered one of the Foreign office's most promising younger members.

Britain increased the orestige of the French committee of national liberation by making Duff Cooper, formerly Minister of information, representative with Ambassador's rank. He is an expert in French affairs.

Bishop Wells Now Chief Naval Chaplain

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—Royal Canadian Navy headquarters today announced the appointment of Hon. Brig. the Rt. Rev. G. A. Wells as chief naval chaplain. Former principal Protestant chaplain to the three armed services Bishop Wells was retired recently when he passed the maximum age of 60 years for active army service

Bishop Wells, formerly Bishop of the Anglican diocese of Cariboo, served in the ranks in the South African war and in the First Great War was in the chaplain service. He was appointed chief protestant chaplain to the three services in the present war in 1939.

Since Navy chaplains hold no navy rank, he will be known as Bishop Wells.

Deaths Delay Showdown On U. S. Subsidies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—The House of Representatives, saddened by the death of two of its leading members, Henry B. Steagall of Alabama and J. William Ditter of Pennsylvania, halted work today for 24 hours and thereby postponed until tomorrow a vote to ban consumer price subsidies.

Steagall, democratic chairman of the House banking committee and usually a stalwart supporter of the administration, had led in the fight against its subsidy program. Seventy years old, he died in hospital this morning after a heart attack which associates said was brought on by an energetic speech against the program last Thursday.

Ditter, 55, chairman of the republican congressional committee and recognized as one of the most eloquent speakers in congress, crashed to his death Sunday night in a navy airplane near Columbia, Pa. A member of the appropriations subcommittee handling navy funds, Ditter was en route from the Squantum, Mass., naval air base to the navy base at Willow Grove, Pa., at the time.

The two deaths left the political line-up in the House at 219 Democrats, 207 Republicans, four minor party members and five vacancies.

Short Course Opens At Morell

Yesterday a short course for farmers and fishermen, opened at Morell with about 40 students in attendance. The opening day was devoted to credit union work and the courses were directed by Rev. M.E. Francis, Prof. A.B. McDonald and Mr. J.G. Dennis.

The meeting for the public in the evening was presided over by Rev. R.V. McKenzie, rector of St. Dunstan's University.

In his opening remarks Father McKenzie tendered appreciation to the various organizations which assisted in the course especially the Provincial and Dominion Departments of Agriculture and the extension department of St. Francis Xavier University. He also paid tribute to Msgr. J. A. Murphy, who began the courses in the Province and to whom great credit is due for their success.

Prof. A.B. McDonald gave a very enlightening speech on the working and accomplishments of CUNA (Credit Union National Association) and the place it will play in the life of credit unions in America.

The course, under the direction of the extension department of St. Dunstan's University, will continue until Thursday. It is the second of a series.

Coldwell Critical Of Labor Policy

EDMONTON, Nov. 22—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the C.C.F., said in an interview today the federal government's handling of the labor situation in Canada "has been a series of tragic errors."

Here to attend the provincial convention of the party being held today and Tuesday, Mr. Coldwell said the Dominion government "has ignored the right of collective bargaining in its own government-owned plants until about a year ago and favoured various groups of company unionism. The government has no manpower policy."

Mr. Coldwell said the C.C.F. will have more than 200 candidates in the next dominion general election

Nazi Propaganda In Prisoner Of War Camps

LONDON, Nov. 22— (CP) —You can't get away from German propaganda, even in a Nazi prisoner of war camp.

Canadian and British soldiers repatriated from Germany brought back with them one of the most cunning and fascinating Nazi propaganda weapons of the war, a four page illustrated weekly paper, named "The Camp". printed, the paper tells the soldiers at No. 60 Saarlandstrasse, Berlin.

It is believed that this is the first time that copies of the paper have reached Britain. One copy was smuggled out by Pte. John Gallagher of North Bay and Timiskaming, Ont. A perusal of it and others show just how clever the Germans are at putting over their propaganda.

"But nobody ever reads the paper," said Pte. Glen Schwegler of Toronto. "It's purely propaganda."

On the front page is a "weekly military survey," compiled from German high command communiques and "world and war news", an item devoted exclusively to life among higher German officers.

To offset this is a double column of "home news in brief", containing such innocent appearing stories from Britain as this:—

'Bank holiday sport has drawn big crowds. The King and Queen were at Ascot"

But the home news isn't as innocent as it appears. It records a large number of strikes and discontents.

Page two generally carries a long scientific article and advertisements of the popular shows running in London. British prisoners of war, it appears, contribute short stories, cartoons, poems and crossword puzzles. But it seems doubtful that they send in their work voluntarily. Although their names are given, the identity of the camp is never made known.

In the camp the Germans try to show their humor does not differ from the British. They give side by side similar jokes from British and German magazines. Here is a German joke about queues — they show a picture of a snake with the caption: "Look at that snake again. They are everywhere." Underneath appears a laborious explanation: A queue in Germany is called a snake.

Sqdn.-Ldr. MacLean At Rotary Club

Squadron Leader Angus MacLean, D.F.C., of Lewes, P.E.I., was the speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Charlottetown Rotary Club which was held in the Charlottetown.

His subject was "Occupied Europe" and his talk was intensely interesting, even though he could not tell the story that everyone wanted to hear most: his own experiences from the time that he was shot down in Holland in June, 1942 until he reached Gibraltar and finally was able to breathe without feeling that a Nazi agent was on his trail.

"I found the people in Occupied Europe very friendly and anxious to help me. Ninety-five per cent of them could be trusted," he said.

Badly injured when he landed in Holland he spent five weeks in a Dutch home where he neither heard nor saw a word of English during that time. He lived in a bedroom and ate only boiled potatoes without pepper and salt. The only exceptions were the few times when some berries were brought to him.

On one other occasion he was practically trapped on an island which was connected with the mainland by two bridges slung over canals. The Germans were hot on the trail of himself and his crew and they had guards at every possible exit He could not see the bridge until he was right on top of it and it was too late to turn back And there was a German soldier on guard at the other side. Fortunately it was a draw bridge and the draw was up. A number of people congregated at his side of the draw. MacLean mingled with them, noted a baby in a perambulator, started talking to it nonchantly and when traffic was resumed wheeled the pram and the baby across the bridge. In this manner he was able to pass under the nose of the Nazi guard.

The people, he found, were absolutely living for the day when the Allies would land in Europe again. They were in poor circumstances, with very little clothing, very little food and practically no fuel or soap. Holland, he said, seemed to be swarming with lice.

Chairman T. Roy Cudmore of the Rotary auction committee, referred with appreciation to the work done by L.R. Clements, chairman of the auction for Montague and Mrs. H. G. Matthews, of the Red Cross Branch at Souris.

Reports from Summerside show that the drive is splendidly organized in Prince County by the Summerside Rotary Club under the chairmanship of Dr. W.B. Howatt

W. S. Grant and Dr. E. S. Giddings were joint chairmen.

Guests were George M. Grant, Noel DeBlois, Sinclair MacKay, of Charlottetown, Flt.-Lieut Tom Dadson, R.C.A.F., and Rotarian J. A. Ingram, Wolfville.

Court Hears Boy Confesses Crime

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., Nov. 22 —(AP)—The State rested its case today after the court admitted into evidence most of a purported confession which, the state contends, was dictated by Edwin Codarre 13, charged with the rape slaying of 10-year-old Elizabeth Voight.

"I held her neck and started choking her. She was calling for help and then she said, Ah, Ah, like a groaning sound," the statement quoted Codarre as saying.

Certain portions of the statement were omitted in the jury reading following agreement by District Attorney John R. Schwartz, County Judge J. Gordon Flannery, and defense counsel Alexander Dow.

Dow said in his opening address the defence will argue "inherited insanity" for Codarre. The Attorney stated both the youth's material grandparents were mental cases and that psychiatrists recommended Codarre's confinement to an institution in 1942.

Codarre, a New York schoolboy, is accused of killing the east Fishkill girl, Aug. 13, while he was staying at a nearby camp

Claim Poor Living Quarters For Sailors

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22—(CP)—Mrs. Maitland Magee, special effort secretary of the British Sailors' Society, issued a statement today in connection with charges by sailors of poor living conditions at Hastings Park here.

She said she saw the living quarters and talked to the boys. The statement said:

"If the naval authorities think the place is good enough for men who are laying down their lives for us, they should spend a weekend there. For my part I wouldn't like to put an animal of mine out there for one winter."

The Vancouver News-Herald in a newspage story Saturday said five sailors "housed in cattle pens of the exhibition grounds" said "the place stinks." Later Rear-Admiral V.G. Brodeur, Royal Canadian Navy, commanding officer, Pacific Command, denied the charge.

Tide Of Atlantic Battle Definitely In Allies Favor

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)— Navy Minister Macdonald said yesterday in an address which marked the inauguration of navy week that "we can say with certainty that the tide of the Atlantic battle is running definitely in our favor, but that battle is not yet over."

"Whatever may be the turn of events in this or that theatre of land war, Germany must carry on the battle of the seas to the last," he said in a five-minute address broadcast over the National Network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

"She knows that to a commonwealth and Empire such as ours and in a war such as this command of the seas is a prerequisite for victory."

Mr. Macdonald said that during navy week the Navy League of Canada invites the support of the Canadian people and added that for 25 years the League has had as its task the comfort and welfare of the men of the sea.

"Always these men deserved our assistance and our generosity, but today when you add the dread peril of the war to the constant peril of waters, the welfare of seamen makes a new and irresistible appeal to our hearts," he said.

The Navy League has established 20 clubs and recreational centres at Canadian ports since the outbreak of war, and sponsors the sea cadet corps of Canada, which now includes some 13,000 boys in its ranks and which has already given 8,000 recruits to the armed forces said Mr. Macdonald.

munications line to take Vastogirardi, about eight miles southwest of Agnone, and San Pietro Avellana, 10 miles due west of Agnone. Montgomery's drive is aimed at Castel Di Sangro five miles west of San Pietro Avellana and an important junction of interior highways leading to Rome. The 8th Army vanguard was reported within 3 1-2 miles of Castel Di Sangro, a city of 5,000 population.

The Germans, falling back stubbornly upon their main "winter line" northwest of the Sangro river, were reported burning both Castel Di Sangro and Afedena, southwest of Castel Di Sangro, in the 8th Army's path, as usual leaving nothing behind that conceivably could be of value to the Allies.

Continued heavy downpours the length of the front greatly restricted movement of men and guns and limited the 5th Army at the western end of the battle line to patrol action and artillery duels, the Allied command reported.

Aerial reconnaissance showed the Nazis were working arduously to strengthen their defences in depth, and it was estimated they now have 10 crack divisions (perhaps 150,000 men) dug in across the peninsula.

Allied aircraft were out in force, bombing and strafing the enemy at many points in Italy and across the Adriatic in Yugoslavia and Albania. In the heaviest onslaught, American medium bombers devastated an 18-acre area in the port of Civitavecchia, 40 miles northwest of Rome.

Today's Allied communique told how two British destroyers, the Loyal and the Quilliam, intercepted a German convoy between Pescara and Ancona on the Adriatic coast last Friday night and sank one enemy lighter and possibly a second and damaged a tug while themselves escaping with only superficial damage.

MORE CANADIANS

nada. Aboard their ships they had passed Gibraltar on what they had been told was an elaborate exercise before they learned officially of their destination.

They were happy and cheering on arrival at this famous port., lining the rails to exchange greetings with British and American soldiers and gaily tossing English coins to Italian dockworkers.

After disembarking the Canadians marched in unit groups through the city to camps set up in a beautiful, verdant region. This is a famous port, but the Canadians were struck by its squalor.

They had set out with lots of ideas as to where they were heading, but without a word that an active battlefront was their destination. The issuing of pamphlets on tropical diseases aboard ship pointed to the Mediterranean theatre and the soldiers were sure of this much when their convoy passed at dusk one day the Rock of Gibraltar, bristling with guns.

Three days out of the Italian port the ships' loudspeakers gave the news they were headed for Italy.

Soybeans Have Important Uses

The soybean has filled certain definite requirements both in agriculture and industry for many years. Formerly a large portion of the soybean supply was obtained from Manchuria, the native home of the soybean, but wartime and transportation difficulties caused a serious depletion in the supply from that source. Fortunately, the foundation had been laid for growing soybeans in Canada and the United States, so it has only been necessary to extend the acreage devoted to the crop.

The chief value of soybeans is found in the protein and oil content of the mature seeds. Few crops grown in Canada may be considered as high protein producers, as soybeans and high protein concentrates are an important constituent of many live-stock feeds. The soybean is very valuable in this respect, supplementing the flax crop. Other uses have also been found for soybean protein in the fields of human nutrition, plastics, wood binding adhesives, water paints and many others.

Soybean oil, being of vegetable origin, also has particularly valuable properties, states C. W. Owen, Forage Crops Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Service. After various treatments, depending upon the ultimate use to be made of the oil, it may be used wholly or in partial replacement of other oils in vegetable shortenings and margarines, oil paints, soap, canning, linoleum, and many other products In many instances soybean oil is being used to replace other oils which are now very difficult to obtain or are being used for essential war uses. As research progresses, more uses will undoubtedly be found for soybeans.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of
who departed this life
November 23, 1942.

Beautiful memories are all that are left,
Of one we loved and shall never forget,
A cheery smile and a happy face
A broken link we can never replace.

Lovingly Remembered by His Wife and Family.
