"The Revealing Romance of a Flapper's Adventures on Life's Highway"

Barbara Brown, pretty, proud and penniless, accepts an invitation to a smart New Year's party from mysterious Nan Adams, a chance acquaintance.

Barbara has neither kith nor kin, owns four weeks' room rent—has just one dime—and is desperately lonesome.

She arrives in the swaggy little suburban town where her self-introduced hostess lives, to find a blizzard raging and no car to meet her. Walking into the house, cold, wet and reckless, she attracts the unofficial host of the party, the multi-millioner J. B. Hardiman, concisuer of youth.

Now go on with the story.

Nan's eyelids, as if weighted with pain, dropped before his look of challenge. When they lifted again the eyes were dark and calm.

"I was thinking whether I'd put her in the blue room or the pink room." Her voice was even.

And the tone was almost banter as she added:

"The worries of a hostess, you know."

"Nan!" J.B.'s voice caroled his relief that there was to be no scentiffery after all. "You're a girl in a million!"

She allowed the faintest suspicion of irony to accent her hysteria.

"Unless you want her to have my room."

Then J.B. Hardiman lied, not like a goldfish, but much like a man.

"You're seeing goblins, Nan. My only thought is that the poor girl will catch pneumonia if she goes out into the storm. And, Nan, you wanted the thingumabob at Carter's."

Her stricken hands went to her ears.

"Oh, don't offer to pay her lodging, for God's sake!" she gasped.

He opened his mouth for further protest, but her eyes cut him short.

"And"—her voice suddenly rose so high that Hardiman darted an investigatory apprehensive glance toward the drawing room full of aliens to this scene—"and do not think I want to interfere. If I am to be dismissed, dismiss me now."

Farewell To Miss Anna McRae

The cast of "My Irish Rose" met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F.
Maddigan on Tuesday evening to bid farewell to Miss Anna Mac-Rae who is leaving the Province in a few days for her new home. The farewell address was read by Mr.
R. F. Maddigan and the presentation made by Miss Constance Whear. Miss McRae replied in feeling terms promising that she would carry away with her pleasant memories of the Island Province. After serving refreshments a pleasant social time was spent before saying farewell.

Following is the address:
Charlottetown, P. E. I., May 25, 1926

To Miss Anna MacRae,— Dear Miss MacRae,—We have learned with regret that you are about to depart from our fair Island to make your home in another Province of our Dominion.

There's something in the "parting hour"

Will chill the warmest heart—Yet kindred, comrades, lovers, friends,

Are fated all to part;
and while we are forced to part from you for a time, we cannot permit you to do so without expressing to you our feelings of love and friendship.

Friendship is no plant of hasty growth;

Tho' planted in esteem's deep fixed soil,

The gradual culture of kind intercourse

Must bring it to perfection.

"Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things but, above all, the power of going out of one's self and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in others."

In our intercourse with you we have discovered that you possess the power of making friends and we are pleased to feel that we are numbered among the favored ones.

But it is not as friends alone that we meet on this occasion, but as members of the St. Patrick's Dramatic Class. As a member of our Class we learned to appreciate your ability and willingness to make our performances a success, and while regretting your departure from among us we wish you continued good health and ever good luck in your new home, and on behalf of the Cast and as a further token of our esteem we ask you to accept the accompanying gift trusting that it may be a slight reminder of your friends in the little "Island by the Sea."

So fare thee well—and may th' indulgent gods

Grant thee every wish Thy soul can form: Once more,
farewell.

Signed on behalf of the Cast, Ladies Gentlemen

Barbara fought a feeling of distaste as the maid moved smoothly toward her, holding in a dainty colored gown which called to a remote corner of Barbara's mind a vision of the stripped dark walls of some munnery consecrated to gray penitents.

"I think, miss," the figure's voice murmured, "you had better undress and get into bed. I think I can break the cold."

She pronounced the verb viciously, as if a cold were something to smash with a bludgeon as one breaks a neck.

"My name is Hannah." The suspicion of an "r" in the pronunciation of the name confessed the speaker's New England origin.

"Well, Hannah," resumed Barbara, "I've always had a mustard footbath when I've had a cold."

"The woman fairly gloated."

"Good. I'll make it so hot it burns."

She let her sleepy eyes rove over hings—perfect from the cosy rose gardenia on the footboard of the tented sigh.

DIGNITY AND SMARTNESS
MARK THIS LOVELY
BRIDAL GOWN

By Marie Belmont

The approach of the bride's month has brought with it deep interest in wedding gowns, and the smart shops are featuring delightful versions of the bride's dress.

Above is shown a lovely model in ivory satin, made with moulded bodice and full skirt. Simple bands of the satin, studded with fine pearls, are the only decoration.

Rose point lace makes a lovely veil, which is arranged in a becoming little cap that is caught with tiny orange blossoms at the sides.

ONE PAIR ENOUGH
Clerk: These must be the longest-wearing pants on the market.

Boss: Sure they are. But why?
Clerk: Nobody has ever come back for another pair.

EASY TO FIND OUT
Mother: Do you know, dear, what your husband really is worth?

Daughter: If I don't, all I have to do is buy a new dress or hat to find out.

AND THERE AIN'T NO SUCH Young Bride: I want a pound of mince-meat—and—

Butcher (pleasantly): Yes, Y. B.: And would you mind telling me what kind of animal the mince is?

GREASERS, OF COURSE He: After having been among the Mexicans for some time, I can't say I like them. They're an oily lot.

She: You refer to the greasers, I suppose?

Avoid Constipation

Long hours at the desk, shortened hours of sleep, hasty and irregular meals, lack of exercise—these sap the vitality of the strongest body.

At such times the danger of constipation is more common and more serious.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without grating.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit, and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

Sunlight Soap

SOME laundresses do your washing without regard to the damage they do to your clothes.

If it were only a matter of getting the washing done, you could get along without soap.

Just common sand, a little alkali and water would do the work.

But expert laundresses want to preserve the fabrics entrusted to their care. The expert laundress washes your clothes with Sunlight Soap, because she knows this pure soap will cleanse every thread safely. She knows Sunlight is faithful to fabrics, but ruinous to dirt.

And so, when your laundress uses Sunlight—be sure she has your best interests at heart.
