

IMPORTANT READING MATTER SELECTED FROM THIS WEEK'S NEWS FOR THE GUARDIAN'S SATURDAY SUBSCRIBERS

MONDAY.

Wallace McKinnon, of Fredericton, has sold his stallion Silver King to J. Horne, Charlottetown, for a snug sum.—Exchange.

Messrs Kearney Bros of Murray River have an interesting ad to all progressive farmers in this issue. The ad contains the season's route of their far famed draft stallion "Sir Knight."

The mare owned by Chester McEwen, North River, has dropped a beautiful foal pronounced by competent horsemen to be one of the best cart foals in that locality for some time. It is sired by Geo Dockendorff's registered Clydesdale stallion Atlas.

Following a week's illness the death of Thomas Hewitt, Alberton, took place on Friday at the age of 78 years. He is survived by one sister, Lizzie, who has been keeping house for him, also one brother John who lives in Montrose. His sister Margaret, died about a week ago at the advanced age of 73 years.—A.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Wm. Crockett took place on Saturday last from her late residence North Carlton to the Kirk Cemetery, Cape Traverse, and was very highly attended, there being upwards of a hundred in the procession. Services at the house and grave were conducted by the Rev. James McDougall. The pall bearers were Charles Wright, John Crockett, James McQuarrie, Samuel Carruthers, Alex. Albeck and David Lowther.—S.

The funeral of the late J. A. McMillan, Brackley P. Road, took place yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, from his late residence to the Brackley P. Cemetery. There was a particularly large attendance, 135 sleighs forming the funeral cortege. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. W. H. Spencer. The pall bearers were: Col. Allan, James Rattray, William Robertson, Louis McCullum, Joseph Shaw and Lenoul Cadmore.

Mrs. J. G. Sterns of Souris had a sudden attack of heart failure Saturday morning March 25th. Two doctors were immediately summoned and for a time her recovery seemed doubtful however the doctors feared were not realized and at seven p. m. she seemed slightly improved. Her son R. H. Sterns, proprietor of the Victoria Hotel, Charlottetown, on hearing of his mother's illness drove to Souris, and arrived there at 4 p. m. and her daughter Mrs. Dudley Wright and sisters Mrs. Wm. Brehaut, of Charlottetown, arrived in Souris, on the special train Saturday night.—J.

The death occurred in this city on Saturday of Alex. G. Bremner, an aged and highly respected citizen. Mr. Bremner who had been in failing health for the past few months, was for many years Librarian at the Law Library. He was a member of St. Paul's Church and took a great interest in all church work, never being absent from a service, when he was able to attend. He was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1830 and leaves to mourn one brother Col. James Bremner of Halifax, and one sister, Mrs. James Cook, who resides in Scotland. The funeral notice is given elsewhere.

The funeral of the late John T. Pearden, City, who died Thursday night, and not Friday morning as incorrectly reported, was held Saturday afternoon at 3.30 from his late residence, Spring Park, to the People's Cemetery where interment was made. A large attendance testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held and further expressions of sympathy were presented in the form of beautiful floral offerings. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. Wm. Harrison and H. E. Thomas. The pall-bearers from the Masonic fraternity, under whose auspices the funeral was held, were John McNevin, George J. Lane, J. C. Worthy and W. P. Doull.

The citizens of Charlottetown still entertain many pleasant memories of a visit here some time ago of the Rev. J. W. Aikens, of the Temperance and Moral Reform Department of the Methodist Church, and the announcement some days ago that that gentleman would again favor this city with a visit aroused no little interest and many happy anticipations. A special series of sermons in the First Methodist Church and these were opened on Saturday evening and two of the series were delivered in

SENSATION IN A QUEBEC COUNTY

Invalid Restored to Health after five years Suffering

Antoine Bouchard Cured His Kidneys by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and His Dropsy, Cramps and Backache Were Cured too.

St. Hilairon, Charlevoix Co., Que., March 31 (Special)—Charlevoix County is ringing with the wonderful cure of Antoine Bouchard. For five years he was practically an invalid, today he is a well man. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it, and the people of this province are more than ever convinced that they are the one sure cure for all kidney ailments.

Interviewed concerning his cure, Mr. Bouchard said: "My sickness started with a cold, which developed into Kidney Disease, and for five years I suffered from Dropsy, Cramps in the Muscles, Backache and Nervousness. It took two dozen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills to cure me, but they did cure me completely. They are a wonderful remedy."

Dodd's Kidney Pills simply cured diseased kidneys. But the different diseases Mr. Bouchard suffered from are all caused by diseased kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them by curing the kidneys.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL CURE RHEUMATISM

McMillan's Corner Oct. 30th, 1910. "Your remedy, 'Fruit-a-tives' is a perfect panacea for Rheumatism. For years, I suffered distressing pain from Sciatic Rheumatism, being laid up several times a year, and not being able to work at anything. I went to different doctors who told me there was no use doing anything, it would pass away. Fortunately about two years ago, I got 'Fruit-a-tives' and they cured me. Since then, I take them occasionally and keep free from pain. I am satisfied that 'Fruit-a-tives' cured me of Rheumatism and they will cure anyone who takes them". JOHN B. McDONALD.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest cure for Rheumatism, Sciatica and Lumbago in the world. "Fruit-a-tives" cures, because like fruit juice it purifies the blood—regulates kidneys, bowels and skin—and thus keeps the whole system free of uric acid. Take "Fruit-a-tives" and you will find instant relief and a prompt cure. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50—trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

that church yesterday, one at 3.45 and the other at 7.00 p.m.

Mr. Aikens is a forceful and earnest speaker and there is a certain style in his delivery which creates a strong impression on his congregations and holds them in closest attention as he delivers his Master's message.

Last night the big First Methodist Church auditorium was completely filled and the speaker delivered a strikingly earnest address on the words "For I will pour water upon him that is thirsty, and floods" upon the dry ground. Isaiah, 44:3.

The speaker pointed out the different revelations of God in this text. He showed God's willingness to extend his blessings to all in the words "I will" and pointed out God's delight in pouring his blessing on those willing to receive them, also referring to a Biblical instance where God had almost by force, prevailed on one of his patriarchs to accept a blessing.

He next took the words "pour" which, the speaker said, evidenced God's abundance and the fact that He was a bountiful Giver. He said every virtue that comes from the Father runs up into the superlative degree. He instanced the gifts of light, peace, love, joy and victory, which graduated from nothing to most perfect attainments in each case. God was prepared to give in exceeding abundance, far in excess of anything one might ask but only gets, he said, what measures off by his own faith.

He instanced God's great wisdom by the manner in which He has supplied the things of which those on earth have need; drink, food, light, music, etc., all of which were typified in Christ Jesus, His Son. The word "him" in the text, the speaker expressed individual love God has for each and every one and the speaker showed in the example of a sunbeam, how one good spot in a person links that party with God.

"That is thirsty." On these words the speaker dwelt in relating to the mystery of Jesus' Salvation. One might not explain just how water appears thirst neither could he show how Christ saved sinners. In each case personal experience told the tale. Mr. Aikens then went on dealing at length with the anxiety to be saved and spoke of the conviction of preachers that the multitude did not criticize Christ. He took the word "floods" and said that God's flooding of the people with the riches of heaven was a revival. He spoke of the "dry ground" and likened a hardened sinner to the dry ground, showing that the floods of grace on the sinner, like the floods of rain on the dry ground, freshened and revived him.

In making a brief reference to this city Mr. Aikens said that he had great respect for it. Here, he said, the people have solved the problem of the liquor traffic more effectively than any other city in the Dominion. Drawing to a close the learned speaker said that home, social, business and political forces needed to be cleansed by a "flood" and this, in the form of a revival, was followed always by a reform. He pointed out the duty of the congregation which was prayer, not only for self but for others, and concluding, typified selfishness in prayer as a form of a Christian sponger absorbing all, instead of a fountain, supplying all. The service was followed by an after meeting at which several gave themselves over to Christ. This week the meetings will be as follows: today at 7.15 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 3.45 and 7.45 p.m. and Saturday at 7.45 p.m.

At the afternoon meeting Mr. Aikens spoke on "The Passion For Souls." He did not choose any particular text but made reference to many scriptural passages which could be applied to his subject. The speaker told of the passion for souls originating in Jesus and was sustained and directed by him and went on to refer to the duty of the congregation in the salvation of souls. He spoke of the different conditions in which sinners were found, such as indifferent, faking, repulsive, indignant, etc. and held that in all cases the sinner was to be loved even as God loved him. He spoke of the present acceptance of the term "hell" and said that people were experiencing a reaction from the old idea of hell and in this reaction ideas had been carried too far the other way. The speaker concluded by making a beautiful reference to the atonement and his closing words were: "Behold the Lamb of God that Taketh Away the Sins of the World."

Mr. Aikens opened the special series on Saturday evening in the church basement when, in the course of an inspiring service of prayer and song, he delivered a splendid address from the words, "Wilt Thou Not Revive Us Again?"—85th Psalm, 6th verse. The speaker, in his own forceful and convincing manner, defined a revival, gave graphic illustrations of the revivals of the Bible, explained the source and the high standard of an earnest revival. In referring to the source he lucidly explained that a revival came, not from oneself, but from a preacher or an evangelist, but from God alone, whose grace made all things effective.

TUESDAY. John King, eighteen years, died February 26th, at the home of his uncle, Eli King, 334 High Street, Abington, Mass., after a short illness. He was a native of P. E. I. and for the past two years had resided with his uncle in Abington. He had been employed as a clerk in his uncle's store in Brockton, Mass., for two years. He leaves his father, mother and two sisters in Georgetown, P. E. I.—Oakland, Cal., Maple Leaf.

The death of Isabella Forsythe Matthews, wife of Allan Matthews of Hills River, took place Sabbath morning, March 19th. She had reached her seventy-fourth year. Her life had been singularly sweet and beautiful, her last illness which was long and sore one, had been endured with a strong faith in the eternal God as her refuge and death came finding a promise of blessedness on her lips. Much sympathy is felt by the whole community for Mr. Matthews and the family in their bereavement. Mrs. Matthews was the daughter of James Forsythe and is survived by her husband, two sisters—Mrs. Allan Forsythe, Alberton, and Mrs. Monaghan, a son and a daughter, Alexander and Mammie, both living at home, mourn her removal.—A.

An estimable lady in the person of Mrs. Charles Townshend, Rollo Bay, departed this life on the 21st, inst., in her 76th year. Deceased was a capable woman possessed of a business instinct above the average. Deeply interested in all that concerned the material and moral interests of the community she enjoyed to a marked degree the esteem of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The interment was made, on the 23rd inst., in Bay Fortune Cemetery to which place the remains were followed by a large concourse of people. The services at the home and grave were conducted by Rev. A. D. McLeod. She leaves to mourn two sons and three daughters, viz' Charles H., St. John; Wm. H., Rollo Bay; Mrs. George Thompson, Montague; Mrs. Alex. Campbell, Rollo Bay; Martha and two grandchildren, Ernest and Minnie at home. She is survived by an aged sister, Mrs. Simon McLaren, Charlottetown, and two brothers, Charles Keith, Sailor's Hope, and Edmund, Rollo Bay. The pall bearers were—W. R. Webster, James McKinnon, Crawford Little, Joseph McRae, John McKinnon and George Wood.—J.

A New York despatch states that on March 20th for two minutes everything was still throughout the entire subway system and trains came to a dead halt wherever they happened to be. Such was the unusual tribute paid to John B. McDonald, builder of the subway, who died last week, and whose funeral was at the moment being held in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Many men of mark in various walks of life attended the service in the cathedral, where a eulogy was read from the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard breathing and turned around to find him leaning on the arm of his chair with his head resting on his shoulders. He hastily called a doctor, but by the time the latter arrived Mr. Murphy had passed away, death being caused by apoplexy. Deceased was born at Kinkora in 1839 and early in life taught school in Grand River, and afterwards at Summerside. In 1882 he was appointed to the office of chief clerk in the Customs House. H. M. Baker who was near him at the time noticed his hard